BRITISH, GERMANS SWAP BLOWS ON TWO CAPITALS

F. D. R. PROMISES DIRECT MILITARY AID TO AMERICAS

Total Defense Against Total Attack Pledged By Chief Executive

ADDRESS IS BROADCAST TO WHOLE HEMISPHERE

President Says U. S. Insists On Peaceful Use Of Two Oceans

By Douglas B. Cornell

DAYTON, O., Oct. 12.—(AP)—President Roosevelt enunciated a policy of total defense of the Americas against a total attack from any segment of the world tonight and pledged the United States navy and air force to the defense of all the western hemisphere.

The president's address, one of his most momentous declarations on international conditions and foreign policy, was broadcast to every nation of the hemisphere.

He said that this country, as in 1798, insists on the peaceful use of the Atlantic and Pacific for trade and commerce. He said the American nations were united in their determination to resist the threats of dictators and rejected the doctrine of appeasement.

He renewed assurances that Britain would receive all aid short of war.

He voiced confidence in the ability of the Americas, bound together in the spirit of good neighbors, to resist any infiltration of "alien political and economic ideas which would destroy our freedom and democracy."

"When we speak of defending this western hemisphere," Mr. Roosevelt declared, "we are speaking not only of the territory of North, Central and South America and the immediately adjacent islands. We include the right to the peaceful use of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. That has been our traditional policy."

"We of the Americas still consider that this defense of these oceans of the western hemisphere against acts of aggression is the first factor in the defense and protection of our own territorial integrity. We reaffirm that policy lest there be any doubt of our intention to maintain it."

The address was made from a dining car as his special train stood in the Dayton station. It combined a stinging critique of the methods of what he termed totalitarian and dictator nations with a firm declaration of the determination of the United States to prepare for war as the best insurance of continued peace.

The chief executive said that "divide and conquer" had been the battle cry of the totalitarian powers in their war

RECREATION HERE TO BE DISCUSSED

Committees Of Various Organizations To Seek Added Facilities

The enlargement of services of the Monroe Recreational department to local citizens and plans for the provision of adequate facilities and a program will be outlined at a meeting of various committees of all social agencies, civic clubs and other organizations of Monroe at 7:30 p. m. Monday at the Barkdull Faulk school, Miss Lucyle Godwin, department superintendent, announced yesterday.

At a recent gathering of civic leaders, committees were named for the express purpose of conducting an investigation and later formulating plans for the enlargement of the services of the local department.

Of the 265 persons who attended the meeting sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce last year, 67 persons addressed the body, stressing the need for and the importance of recreational facilities in Monroe.

At the present time the Monroe recreational department is provided for under a city ordinance but there are no facilities provided. There is no community hall for the sole purpose of recreation, nor is there a place for men or women to have club meetings, it was pointed out.

It was for this reason that officials of the recreation center called a meet-

THOUSANDS NEED HELP FOR WINTER IN THIS DISTRICT

Governor Jones Is Told Problems Faced By 15,000 Families

An estimated 15,000 out of 19,800 families in five Northeast Louisiana parishes will be in need of assistance this winter, agricultural leaders told Governor Sam H. Jones in a conference Saturday following his address at the West Carroll Parish Fair.

Governor Jones assured the group that he would obtain every possible state and federal aid for these distressed people.

Men of Madison, Richland, Morehouse, East and West Carroll parishes presented Louisiana's chief executive with a list of statistics, estimating the percentage of crop failures and the number of farm families in the section.

Governor Jones was accompanied by Milton C. Tainter, secretary of the Louisiana Farm Bureau Federation, and chairman in charge of the governor's emergency crop committee.

According to the estimate, a total of 4,950 families need immediate assistance, especially in Richland parish, where the number of destitute families totals 2,000.

The cotton crop this past year was only 39 per cent of normal production for the area due to too much rain, it was estimated. Governor Jones

LEON WEISS TRIAL IS SCHEDULED HERE

Leon Weiss, New Orleans architect charged with using the mails to defraud, is scheduled to go to trail here Wednesday before Judge Ben C. Dawkins in federal court.

Judge Dawkins on September 21 overruled demurrers filed by counsel for Weiss but granted a request for a bill of particulars.

Weiss was charged jointly with the late Monte E. Hart, New Orleans contractor, in connection with an alleged $56,000 overcharge in the construction of Leche Hall at Louisiana Tech., Ruston. Hart recently killed himself.

JONES HAS PLAN TO PLACE STATE ON SOUND BASIS

Overflow Crowd At Ouachita Valley Fair Hears Governor Speak

Speaking before an enthusiastic crowd which packed the rodeo grandstand at the Ouachita Valley Fair and overflowed along the fence enclosing the field, Governor Sam H. Jones yesterday recounted the accomplishments of his administration to achieve economy in state government and outlined future plans to "put the state of Louisiana on a sound basis."

Governor Jones' speech was the feature of the Saturday program at the fair, and a large crowd not only heard the chief executive's address, but also visited the many attractive exhibits.

At the outset, Governor Jones complimented fair officials on the expansion of the exhibition since its inception eight years ago, and then launched into details of economy moves made by the administration since he became governor four and a half months ago.

"The old gang told you Sam Jones would abolish all the benefits of the previous administrations," Governor Jones said, "yet you will find that we have kept all the benefits and eliminated all the graft, including the deadheads, the deducts, the double-dippers and the triple-dippers."

Citing 12 departments, Jones said a total of 12,110 persons were employed by the previous administration, but that that figure had now been reduced to 5,234, at an enormous saving to the citizens of the state.

He stated that the conservation department's appropriation had been reduced by $1,000,000, but "the department is now operating 25 per cent under its budget with less employes."

The governor urged diversification in agriculture and praised the efforts of leaders in this section toward that aim.

"We've got to get away from cotton as the chief crop," Jones said. "When a farmer goes to a bank or any other lending agency, the first question asked him is 'How many bales of cotton will you raise?' That isn't right. Why, in Middle Western states farm-

TOM MIX KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Famous Former Star Of Movies, Circus Performer Fatally Hurt

FLORENCE, Ariz., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Tom Mix, hard-riding star of the silent films and noted circus performer, was killed as his automobile went out of control and overturned 18 miles south of here today.

Mix, traveling alone, was en route to Tucson, Ariz.

The accident occurred on a detour skirting a road construction job. Mix was pinned under his automobile. He was dead when two highway employes, John Adams of Oracle, Ariz., and E. A. Arrmenta of Casa Grande, Ariz., discovered the overturned vehicle. The body was brought here.

As the colorful star of scores of silent western thrillers, Mix was the idol of millions of young Americans. In recent years, he has been the featured performer in circus-riding exhibitions.

Coroner E. O. Devine said Mix apparently was killed instantly. There will be no inquest.

Mix was carrying $6,000 in cash and also had several valuable diamonds on his person, police investigators said.

Sites Where Draftees Will Be Accommodated Listed By Officials

The Twin Cities and the Fifth district will join Louisiana and the remainder of the nation Wednesday in registering the 16,500,000 men between 21 and 35 in the first peacetime conscription program in the history of the United States.

An air-tight plan has been developed through a system of local committees which will complete the tremendous task between the hours of 6 a.m. and 9 p.m.

R. Dean Farr, clerk of the parish court, is in charge of registration in the Ouachita area.

Sites where both whites and negroes will be accommodated were announced yesterday. The registration sites for whites are listed further down in the story. Negroes north of the railroad track in Monroe will be handled at the negro school and south of the tracks at Jackson and Thomas streets. Those in West Monroe will be taken care of on the second floor of the city hall.

Two gigantic parades and other events in connection with the draft were announced Saturday.

Monroe and West Monroe will both have parades Tuesday.

West Monroe will hold the first preparedness parade, beginning at 5 p.m. at the West Monroe city hall. Members of the Burnette-Downes Post No. 201, American Legion, Boy and Girl Scouts, members of the Kiwanis and other clubs, schools and patriotic organizations will participate in the history-making parade. TRIAL SCHEDULED MONDAY FOR FOUR MEN AT COLUMBIA

Death Penalty Will Be Asked For Convicts In Slaying Of Gartman

COLUMBIA, Oct. 12.—(Special)—One of the most sensational trials in the history of Northeast Louisiana is scheduled to get underway here Monday morning when four Arkansas convicts will face a jury on a charge of murder.

The state will demand the death penalty.

The quartet was indicted for the slaying of Frank Gartman, widely known local automobile dealer, late on the night of September 2. Mr. Gartman was a member of a posse seeking the four men.

The case will be tried before Judge Cas Moss of the eighth judicial district court. Prosecuting will be District Attorney Harry Fuller and Assistant District Attorney Vincent Mouser.

The convicts are Floyd Boyce, Bill Heard, Bill MeHarg and William Landers.

The case had its inception in Louisiana after 36 men had broken the Cummins, Ark., prison farm on Labor day, September 2. The quartet was among the fugitives.

Landers, MeHarg, Heard, Boyce, Bruce Fowler and Frank Conley made their way to Louisiana and while in a car with a flat tire near Rayville three youngsters drove up and offered assistance. They were Misses Voncille Williams and Gladys Diamond and Gerry Harrigill. The convicts immediately surrounded the trio's car, made them hostages and ordered them to drive on.

The car followed a series of roads which led to a densely wooded section about two and a half miles northeast of here. They were soon surrounded by hundreds of sheriffs, deputies state police and possemen.

Late that night Mr. Gartman and other possemen came upon the convicts and their hostages in the car

Fifth District Will Name Congressman This Tuesday

Mills, Incumbent, Is Opposed By Gladney For Representative's Post

The Fifth district, including the Twin Cities, will elect a congressman Tuesday.

The runoff is between the incumbent, Representative Newt V. Mills, and Edward L. (Boots) Gladney.

The polls will be opened between 6 a.m. and 7 p.m. and the ballot will be carried out the same as any other state or municipal election.

Mills lacked slightly more than 3,000 votes to give him a clear majority over five other candidates in the first race on September 10.

The second primary campaign has been comparatively quiet. Governor Sam H. Jones, who has endorsed others in state runoffs, has "kept hands off" in this district. He added to this further yesterday afternoon when, in speaking at the Ouachita Valley Fair in West Monroe, he sought votes for constitutional amendments but failed to mention the election in this area.

Mills is seeking his third term in congress. He won his seat for the second time against personal opposition by the then Lieutenant Governor Earl K. Long.

Gladney is making his first attempt at public office. He is a former commander of the Louisiana State Department, American Legion.

WILLKIE CHARGES ECONOMY STALLED

'Dirty Play' Should Be Prevented In Nation's Life, He Says

Wendell Willkie finished a campaign through industrial New England yesterday with a charge that "punitive, restrictive laws" blocked the nation's economic recovery, while in Ohio campaign-conscious crowds greeted President Roosevelt.

The Republican nominee told a Lowell, Mass., audience that the government should prevent "dirty play" in the country's economic life, but that at the same time there should be fixed rules "which can't be changed in the middle of the game."

"I would like to see the competitive teams of business start to play again," Willkie said. "I want to make them play under rules. I want the rules

Football Roundup

By Herb Barker

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Northwestern's Wildcats bounced Ohio State, defending Western conference champion, out of the undefeated football list today as mid-western teams maintained their sensational pace in intersectional warfare; the Southwest took two severe jolts on foreign fields, and Cornell's great array found Penn rising to challenge its Ivy league leadership.

Paced by Bill de Correvont, Northwestern upset the big Buckeyes, 6-3, before 42,000, roaring from behind in the fourth quarter on a touchdown by De Correvont after Charley Maag had put Ohio State in front with a 28-yard field goal.

Meanwhile, Notre Dame and Michigan scored major intersectional triumphs for the mid-west to offset Illinois' 13-7 defeat by Southern California. Notre Dame, flashing a first class offense, both on land and through the air, bowled over plucky Georgia Tech, 26-20 in a game, witnessed by 50,000, that really wasn't as close a the score indicates. At Cambridge, it was Tommy Harmon again when Michigan sank Harvard 26-0. Harmon scored three touchdowns, kicked two points and tossed a pass to Paul Kromer for the other Wolverine score.

Texas Christian and Southern Methodist carried the Southwest's banner into the South and East, respectively, without much luck. T. C. U. fell before North Carolina's dazzling play, 21-14, as the Tar Heels scored all their points in one great second period surge. Southern Methodist, picked by some to battle A. and M. for the Southwest conference crown, was lucky to esacpe with a 7-7 draw against Pitt's Panthers.

Cornell, unbeaten a year ago and with a veteran squad back, looked little short of colossal in a 45-0 rout of Army, worst defeat in the Cadets' his-

STRESS NECESSITY OF HELPING CHEST TO REALIZE GOAL

Ed Seymour Urges Cooperation Of All Agencies In Annual Drive

The necessity of obtaining the aid of every individual as well as every social organization in the Twin Cities in the third annual Community Chest campaign, opening October 24, was stressed at the monthly meeting of the Council of Social Agencies held at the Methodist Church annex.

Ed Seymour, newly elected president of the board of directors of the Twin City Community Chest and Council, appeared before the meeting and urged the cooperation of all agencies in this annual drive.

H. K. Touchstone, chairman campaign committee for the drive, also stressed the need of cooperation in this most important event, declaring that by its yearly drive the Chest and Council holds down the cost of fund raising, centralizes administration of monies given to the various agencies for their work, thus making for efficiency. Mr. Touchstone also explained that the executive committee of the campaign, composed of 21 leading businessmen of the Twin Cities will check the budgets of the participating groups.

An urgent invitation to attend the Southern Tuberculosis conference to be held at the Virginia Hotel, October 21, 22 and 23, was extended at the meeting by Miss Bernice Wright, executive secretary of the parish association.

Miss Lucyle Godwin, superintendent of the Monroe Recreation department, urged leaders of the various social agencies of Monroe to attend a session Monday at the Barkdull Faulk school at 7:30 p.m., at which time a discussion of the enlargement of services performed by the recreational department will be held.

A. N. Robinson announced that the state convention of the Louisiana Society for Crippled Children will be held in Alexandria October 26 and 27.

George D. Holland, secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce, appeared before the group, stressing the importance of the approaching drive and the tremendous need of every citizen

FOUR BEHEADED

BERLIN, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Four Danzig men were beheaded today for high treason.

The peoples court ruled that the four—Karl Hoffman, Erich Schulz, Willi Tosch and Herman Chill—belonged before the war to an organization outside the Reich aimed at undermining the efficiency of the German armed forces through sabotage and overthrowing the Reich's constitution.

Forty persons have been beheaded as traitors thus far in 1940.

SHIPPING DESTROYED

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP)—One thousand merchant and naval ships aggregating 3,574,695 tons have been destroyed since the war began slightly more than 13 months ago, a survey by the Associated Press showed today.

The list of sinkings, which contains only verified reports of losses, shows that England lost 436 ships against 95 for Germany. Norway stood highest on the list of neutrals with a loss of 103 vessels.

Loss in lives stood at 7,877 men, women and children and 6,796 persons have been listed as missing and believed lost.

CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE

BOMBAY, India, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Indian congress (nationalist) leaders meeting here today forecast inauguration of an "individual civil disobedience" campaign as a result of the refusal of Lord Linlithgow, viceroy of India, to permit Mohandas K. Gandhi to preach anti-war propaganda.

BALKANS WATCHED FURTHER AS NAZI ARMIES MOVE IN

Deaths, Heavy Damage Reported In Both Berlin And English Capital

RUMANIA CITY FESTIVE IN WELCOMING TROOPS

Far Eastern Situation Still Tense As Americans Start To Leave

(By Associated Press)

British and German bombers struck at each other's capitals last night and early today, rolling up civilian death tolls and property damage, but observers said the raids were much lighter than previous ones.

One German soldier and several civilians were among the dead and wounded in Berlin, official sources said. Damage was reported slight.

One famous London square was blasted by a Nazi bomb, killing several persons and inflicting heavy property damage. Ten areas in London were raided in bright moonlight but the raiders kept at a great height. The raids end finally was signaled about 2:30 a.m. (8:30 p.m. eastern standard time).

The German army rolled into Bucharest, Rumania, yesterday with swastika banners flying and bands playing Deutschland Uber Alles and the Nazi rallying hymn, the Horst Wessel song.

By nightfall the capital had the appearance of a city dominated by an invading army, save that in this case the Nazi troops under two generals and other officers who wore the red-striped trousers of the general staff, were in Rumania ostensibly to instruct the Rumanian army and to protect the country's precious oil fields.

The British still remaining in the city hurried their packing prepared to leave as quickly as they could as British-Rumanian relations became more delicate.

Greece said she was ready to fight if anyone pulled the trigger on her.

Turkey, non-belligerent ally of Britain, already has pointed to "two million bayonets" with which, she says, she will bar any Axis march to Egypt.

Bulgaria looked to her own borders.

In Western Europe the war carried on with no change in its dreary daily violence: the Nazi Luftwaffe made five

JONES WILL HELP SET UP PROGRAM

Advises Police Jurors He Will Aid Stamp Plan Inauguration Here

Governor Sam Jones, meeting with members of the Ouachita Parish Police Jury following his address at the Ouachita Valley Fair yesterday afternoon, pledged the wholehearted support of the state administration in providing a satisfactory food stamp plan for Ouachita parish.

"We are working on it," Governor Jones told a World reporter, "and we're trying to put it over. The only hitch seems to be whether the distressed farmer who should be eligible for relief is taken care of in the surplus commodities plan. No program that doesn't take care of distressed farmers as well as WPA workers and those on relief is complete."

Governor Jones pointed out that many farmers of Ouachita parish and elsewhere throughout Northeast Louisiana had suffered heavily through crop failures, largely the result of excessive rainfall during the spring and early summer.

However, the governor expressed confidence that a satisfactory solution of the food stamp problem would be found at an early date and pledged his efforts toward that end.

Governor Jones also told police jurors that the state would aid in every way possible the development of a large airport here.

"There's no reason why Monroe shouldn't obtain federal assistance in the airport expansion program," he said. "You are on the direct route between Barksdale Field and Maxwell Field, both of which are vital points in the national defense."

Following conferences with several other groups, Governor Jones and his party left here at 9:30 p. m. for Alexandria, where he will inspect the army camps Sunday and then proceed to Baton Rouge.

Charming Gardens Intrigue Monroe Residents As Winter Season Approaches

Thatcher And McHenry Homes Are Showplaces

Beautiful Flowers Bloom Here; Henry Biedenharn, Jr., Honored On 21st Birthday

By Eve Bradford

THE winter season advances but family life isn't settling down into the cozy routine of former days. The old order has changed—the peace and serenity associated with the coming of autumn has given place to uncertainty, restlessness and a certain urge to do something really worth while. In spite of everything, conversation always reverts back to the war and its repercussions.

Today the little human trifles matter more than ever. Everyone is busy, minutes are precious. Everyone gives their time, their hearts, to the causes they believe in. In these days pierced with headlines there seems to be a different expression on people's faces. Values seem to have changed. Scores of things that were important last year just don't count now.

Most women, however, are determined that there should be an atmosphere of pleasantness and peace and rare understanding in the home. There is one Monroe home where peace and happiness reigns supreme. It is the J. Hunter Thatcher menage. Nodie, one of the most charming members of the younger married set, has converted the rear gardens of the Thatcher home into an out-of-door living room. In one section there is a little patio with white tiled floor and a white stone fireplace. At one end there is a built-in stove for cooking and at the other end is a covered barbecue pit. A low stone wall, covered with red leather, removable cushions, encircles this attractive little corner. You are almost sure to find Nodie out-of-doors these days enjoying the privacy of her garden now spattered with the golden nuggets of falling leaves.

Another charming garden spot is in the rear of the A. G. McHenry home where Irma and Armand spend almost every waking moment they can snatch from the many duties and obligations they have assumed. Hibiscus are now creating great splashes of scarlet and the camellia bushes are simply bursting with buds soon to unfold. Armand McHenry's camellias are the most beautiful to be found in this section of the state. How could they be otherwise with all the care lavished upon them. Both Armand and Irma are well versed on the subject of camellia cultivation.

The sound of the katydid has started a good many people on that favorite motor trip deferred during the busy summer. They feel cheated unless they get their share of nature's legacy and an opportunity to marvel at its richness. Autumn has spilled her color box over the earth and we go forth gratefully to revel in its glory. Not so Ida Kaplan, however. She prefers to drift in the fleecy clouds rather than motor over highways fringed with exciting hues. She is just back from San Francisco, via the Delta Airways, where she visited her daughter, Patricia Abrams, and her husband.

With a young daughter in school, Mildred Ewing hasn't time to motor here and there enjoying the autumnal landscape, so she gives expression to her love of color by wearing a scarlet sport coat, a bright blue pleated skirt and white blouse. It is most becoming and most attractive.

The long arm of the government reached down into our midst last week and again brought the war close to home. Major Neil Buie was called to the service and left for South Carolina. It was rather a somber little group out at Selman Field watching the ship that carried him away. Naturally the saddest of the group was Bobbie, who, outside of working hours, has been his constant companion ever since their marriage. This is the first break in that little group of young marrieds who have attended football games, danced together and dined together, and shared each other's joys and sorrows.

With the war taking from our midst well known, substantial citizens we feel the need to cooperate with Federal Council of Churches of America in their call to communion. They are calling for a Communion Sunday for the purpose of giving answer to the forces of organized hate, and to meet anew the challenge with Christian ideals and principles.

"To disprove the sneer of the despoilers that force is the greatest thing in the world.

"To have every member present 'round the communion table.

"To make it a day of repentance and confession of failure, not boasting of numbers or wealth.

"To pray for a spiritual awakening.

"To break the trammels of convention, to forget trodden paths and gird anew for a new climb along the trail of truth.

"To come together 'in remembrance of Him' who said, 'Love one another.'

"To get men to kneel together at the same altar, then to rise and go out, not as strangers on the street but as brothers; to ride together, do business together, toil together and to fight together, if need be, and to love one another!"

Bessie and Henry Biedenharn considered the coming of age of their son, Henry, Jr., sufficient excuse for a celebration, so they opened up their lodge on Lake Bruin and "killed the fatted calf." In other words toasts were drunk to the health of the celebrant on his 21st birthday and a table was spread with edibles fit for a king. Henry's lovely young bride naturally shared the honors with him and was right at his side when he delved deep into the gorgeous birthday cake his mother had provided for the occasion.

A glamorous harvest moon shining down on the beautiful gardens of their home was still another reason for Bessie and Henry to entertain their friends Tuesday night. It was a barbecue this time, and platters heaped high with delectable barbecued meats were placed on the long table near the open fireplace in the rear gardens. Later the guests were invited indoors for the showing of moving pictures in technicolor taken by the hosts during their extensive travels. A snow scene in the Swiss Alps, and scenes in the West Indies proved exceptionally interesting and colorful.

It seems that Carolyn Oliver is simply walking away with honors at L. S. U. Word now comes from the university of her election as secretary and treasurer of the Junior class of the Arts and Science college. The election was a stormy one and a hard-fought one, it seems, as the three candidates were all popular students and prominent in sorority circles and campus activities. Carolyn was sponsored by Kappa Delta sorority.

New Books Obtainable At Public Library

The season for quiet evenings at home with a good book for a companion is now at hand and the Monroe Public Library is supplying readers with the best sellers. In demand at this time and available to patrons are:

"Mrs. Miniver," by Jan Struther; "How Green Was My Valley," by Richard Llewellyn; "The Beloved Returns," by Thomas Mann; "Foundation Stone," by Lella Warren; "Stars on the Sea," by F. van Wyck Mason; "To the Indies," by C. S. Forester; "The Fire and the Wood," by R. C. Hutchinson; "Whiteoak Heritage," by Hazo de la Roche; "Quietly My Captain Waits," by Evelyn Eaton; "World's End," by Upton Sinclair; "Kitty Foyle," by Christopher Morley; "Mr. Skeffington," by Elizabeth; "The Mixture as Before," by Somerset Maugham; "Night in Bombay," by Louis Bromfield; "Cabbage Holiday," by Anthony Thorne; "Madame Dorthea," by Sigrid Undset; "The Bird in the Tree," by Elizabeth Goudge; "Gypsy, Gypsy," by Rumer Godden, and "Swift Flows the River," by Nard Jones.

The non-fiction best-sellers at the library are: "Country Squire in the White House," by John T. Flynn; "I Married Adventure," by Osa Johnson; "Bet It's a Boy," by Betty Bacon Blunt; "As I Remember Him," by Hans Zinsser; "Country Editor," by Henry Hough; "Richard Halliburton," by Richard Hilliburton; "The Fifth Column Is Here," by George Britt; "Mein Kampf," by Adolf Hitler; "Why England Slept," by John Kennedy; "Fighting Planes of the World," by Major Bernard Law; "Land Below the Wind," by Agnes N. Keith, and "The American Presidency," by Harold Laski.

In "The Mixture As Before," Somerset Maugham again shows himself a brilliant storyteller. The ten short stories contained in this book are remarkable for their presentation of character and their basic situations.

"Quietly My Captain Waits," by Evelyn Eaton is a historical novel which reconstructs the life history of Madame de Freneuse, a person often mentioned in the dispatches from New France during the years 1691 to 1711. Some of the most colorful and exciting incidents are those which tell of the fight at sea, the bitter English assault on Port Royal, the Indian initiation, and the crossing of the Bay of Fundy.

"The Country Editor," by Henry Hough is one of the most delightful books of the year. Written in a charming manner, it displays a wise and patient philosophy of life and living. Henry Hough was for twenty years the editor of a weekly newspaper and his book gives a vivid picture of a cross section of the community and its life as it passes in and out of the office of the Gazette.

Many old magazines have been donated this week, but since there is still a demand for more, all contributions will be greatly appreciated.

There have been 156 new borrowers at the library since September 1. If you are among those who have not yet registered, please visit the library at any time to fill out a borrower's card.

In compliance with Governor Jones' request that October 16 be declared a state holiday, the library will not be open on that day.

Brazil Discussed By Welcome Branch Club

Mrs. Holland, Mrs. Petty And Mrs. White Give Interesting Discussions Of Country

Brazil, with all its vastness and charm, was the country visited on the Welcome Branch Club's imaginary tour of the Latin Americas when members met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J. Norman Coon, 518 Jackson avenue. Mrs. Henson Coon and Mrs. D. H. Duncan served as co-hostesses.

Mrs. G. D. Holland in a description, "Rio de Janeirro, the city of the present," said: "The city of Rio is located on the west side of the bay of Rio de Janero, which stretching inland for several miles, studded with islands and surrounded by mountains—is accounted the most magnificent in the world." Not only is the harbor one of the most beautiful in the world, but it is also one of the largest, having space to accommodate at one time all the navies in the world, she said. Rio de Janiero, the city, boasts an up-to-date structure and a thriving business. Dominating the city is the Hunchback, a mountain peak on which is a colossal statue of Christ. Illuminated at night by floodlights, the statue appears as a symbol of protection for the city, she said.

Mrs. J. D. Petty gave a talk on "Brazil, Ancient and Modern." This country, comprising almost half of the continent of South America, hordes a wealth of fertile land and abounding resources yet untouched. Such features would make Brazil an object of prize for imperialistic nations, she said. The population, originally Portugese, includes Indians, negroes and recently great numbers of Germans and Russians. Mrs. Petty concluded with current opinions of authorities concerning "foreign interests" in Brazil.

Mrs. J. R. White gave a talk on "Coffee in the Americas." Aided by floodlighted pictures from Brazil, Mrs. White described the cultivation, the curing and the shipping of the coffee bean. She displayed samples of the beans at different stages of preparation for use. She added interest to her talk by distributing coffee recipe books supplied by a New Orleans coffee house.

At intervals during the program of the afternoon, talented members of the club furnished Latin American music. Mrs. Clyde R. Pedigo, accompanied by Mrs. E. Everett Lawson at the piano, sang "Cielito Lindo," by Ferdinand. Mrs. E. Everett Lawson played two piano solos: "El Condor Pasa," by Robles, and "Linda Provincianita," by Romero.

Mrs. G. D. Holland, president, presided over the business meeting during which three new members were elected: Mrs. A. L. Vandergriff, Mrs. Charles R. Morris and Mrs. J. L. Cheshire. The following members volunteered to help with the Community Chest drive: Mrs. G. D. Holland, Mrs. Wesley C. Ekholm, Mrs. J. E. Kersh, Mrs. George Phebus, Mrs. J. H. Gorman, Mrs. W. E. Sandel, Mrs. Clay Albright and Mrs. Harvey Callender. The following delegates and their alternates were elected to attend the state convention of federated clubs at Alexandria. Mrs. G. D. Holland and alternate, Mrs. J. R. White; Mrs. A. S. Gunter and alternate, Mrs. V. S. Garnett; Mrs. Wesley C. Ekholm and alternate, Mrs. Clyde R. Pedigo. Mrs. G. D. Holland announced the following chairmen of the various departments of the club: Mrs. H. R. Saenger, American home; Mrs. Albert Speer, American citizenship; Mrs. Clyde R. Pedigo, fine arts; Mrs. V. S. Garnett, conservation; Mrs. H. V. Collins, international relations; Mrs. J. Norman Coon, junior club; Mrs. L. V. Tarver, legislation; Mrs. Wesley C. Ekholm, press and publicity; and Mrs. J. H. Gorman, public welfare.

Refreshments were served to thirty members and four guests.

Members present were: Mrs. Clay Albright, Mrs. F. E. Black, Mrs. Harvey Callender, Mrs. P. B. Collier, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. Wesley C. Ekholm, Mrs. J. T. Eubank, Mrs. W. C. Mrs. Collins Entertains Twentieth Century Club

The Twentieth Century Book club met in the home of Mrs. S. M. Collins on Wednesday afternoon.

The singing of "Louisiana" and the reading of the collect was followed by a brief business session.

Mrs. Leola Nixon, Fifth District president, was the guest of honor on this occasion and responded to the introduction with a short, inspirational talk.

The program featured the singing of "God Bless America." The subject for the afternoon was "Brazil."

Mrs. H. Flood Madison began her discussion with a description of Brazil and of the credentials necessary to enter the country. She spoke in detail of Rio de Janeiro and gave a realistic picture of the palm shaded avenues, beautiful buildings, exquisite sunrises and romantic moonlight nights.

Mrs. W. C. Oliver took the club on an imaginary visit to Santos and Sao Paulo, describing places of interest. A trip through the coffee plantations proved most interesting. She described the cultivation of coffee from the time of planting to the harvesting. A fazenda or coffee orchard is at its greatest beauty during the blooming season when the dark foliage is covered with white starry jasmine-like flowers.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Collins served a salad course to the following:

Mesdames Leola Nixon, T. O. Brown, W. B. Clarke, Fred Coon, E. C. Gibson, L. N. Larche, M. S. McGuire, S. M. McReynolds, Flood Madison, S. J. Meek, M. M. Mulholland, Louis Hullum, W. C. Oliver, J. W. Smith, W. M. Washburn and Henry Whitfield.

Opera Club Sponsors 'German Opera' Talks

Mrs. Poag And Mrs. Hornberger Give Interesting Discussions Of Music Masterpieces

Mrs. J. N. Coon and Mrs. E. C. Gibson welcomed members of the Opera Club in Mrs. Coon's home on Jackson street, where beautiful autumn flowers were placed in the reception suite.

Guests were invited into the dining room where Mrs. Gibson poured coffee and Mrs. Coon served dainty sandwiches and assorted cakes.

After a brief business session, the president, Mrs. C. W. Oseland, turned the meeting over to Mrs. E. G. Hinkle, program chairman.

"German Opera" was given in an interesting manner by Mrs. P. A. Poag. Mrs. Poag said in part:

"It was not until the early part of the nineteenth century that Germany created a form of opera that was worthy of comparison with the musical drama of Italy and France. The opera of this nation, like that of Italy, originated in a kind of entertainment composed of songs and dialogue. This singspiel (song-play) was usually based upon episodes from the Bible but was often given outside the church to celebrate any festival. Dr. Franz Gehrung of Vienna, states that it was from those given outside—as being of a freer and of a humorous character—that the singspiel more directly developed, these being the miracle plays, to which the passions (performed within the church) gave rise; and that it was in the plays given outside that the German language gradually superseded the Latin—at first in the dialogue and afterwards in the songs. He also gives the name of a German play in which all the words are sung in German, this being Spiel von den Zehn Jung Frauen, which was performed at Eispenach in 1322.

"The development of the opera from the singspiel was of course very gradual. The conception of modern opera dates only from the time of Gluck (1714-1787) and it will be remembered that his work was carried on in Paris."

A brief sketch of the life of Mozart and the story of "The Magic Flute" was given by Mrs. Hornberger. She said in part:

"Mozart may be said to be the first distinctly German opera composer, and only one of his three great operas was written in the native language. In Die Zauberflote (The Magic Flute) we find the first influences of the Lied in operatic music.

"His musical genius, his splendid training and achievements, his intellectual vigor, together with his flair for hard work equipped him to cover more ground during his brief life of thirty-five years than did many of the other composers throughout long years of endeavor.

"The Magic Flute is the most important in that it suggests the establishment of a distinctly German school of opera. Before this work appeared all countries had adopted not only Italian melody and form in their operas, but the Italian language as well. Although The Magic Flute is not so great a work as either of the other two operas, it possesses unquestionable merit. Written in German text, it contains many airs in imitation of the native folk song and readily found warm welcome in all German hearts. Its libretto is partly allegorical and partly fictitious."

Present were: Mrs. Suttle, Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. C. G. Bennett, Mrs. Hornberger, Mrs. P. A. Poag, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. C. S. Gorshell, Mrs. P. A. Colvin, Miss Clara Frieberg, Mrs. E. G. Hinkle, Mrs. J. C. Kramer, Mrs. B. B. Martin, Mrs. Paul Newman, Mrs. C. W. Oseland, Mrs. C. R. Pedigo, Mrs. L. V. Tarver, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. R. O. Ware and Mrs. E. R. Whitaker.

KOKINOS BLAMED FOR 'WILD RIDE'

Little Chicago Mayor Charges Candidate Stampeded Horses

Simmie Wood, mayor of Little Chicago, with lather on his face, reared up in a barber chair Saturday afternoon to emphatically tell a local cowboy that it was "that Gus Kokinos, ex-mayor and candidate in the impending election, who fired that shot the other day and stampeded the horses drawing the chuck wagon which I was driving."

"Why that ice-cream cone maker knows he can't win this election unless he can trump up some charge against me and defame me in the eyes of the good citizens of Little Chicago," the mayor exclaimed.

Mayor Wood was haled into the West Monroe court Thursday on a charge that he "did wilfully and feloniously drive a vehicle operated by horses in a dangerous and reckless manner in wanton disregard of life and property of others; did drive the said vehicle while he had his interior decorated and overloaded with spirituous fermenti; did drive the said vehicle through a traffic light while the said light was colored red; all in violation of the laws, ordinances and statutes of the City of West Monroe." The court sentenced Mayor Simmie Wood to serve one minute in jail and pay a fine of five tokens.

Mayor Wood charged that ex-mayor Kokinos has run time and again for the office of chief executive of Little Chicago and the good citizens of Little Chicago "do not want him for mayor."

"Why they have come to me by the scores," Mayor Wood said, "and begged me to run for mayor this year.

"I understand that Gus Kokinos has hired a Philadelphia lawyer to come down here and investigate me for violation of the Patch law. Well, let me tell you," the mayor shouted, and the crowd had gathered by this time, "if that high-faluting lawyer can find a single act of mine that smells in any way of violation of the Patch law, I'll get out of this race right this minute. That is if I decide to run for reelection."

Mayor Simmie Wood has not as yet announced. The mayor also refused to make any comment as to what part his colleague, Judge Jay Bird Salley, would take in the impending campaign.

General opinion of West Monroe citizens is that Gus Kokinos had better start getting some extra cones and making some more ice cream to give away when he is defeated in this election.

ing of all civic-minded citizens during the later part of September. It was decided to seek a larger program.

A. B. Clarkson, president of the Monroe Recreation board, will preside at the meeting.

Miss Godwin laid stress on the fact that recreational activities in various schools must be planned. She also pointed out that there is need for supervised activities during the afternoon and evening at all of the schools. "This means," she stated, "more leadership. At the present time the budget is inadequate to meet the demands.

"The importance of bettering our rcreational program in city schools may be best illustrated by the following quotation taken from the annual meassage of the president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, which appeared in the October issue of the National Parents and Teacher," Miss Godwin stated.

"Necessary as such items are, I hope that we, as parents and teachers, will not forget one growing need of all children—recreation and recreational facilities. Most of us are concerned about supervised areas or summer play, but when October comes along we neglect to think of retaining recreational personel or providing space for creative, wholesome leisure activities. A winter recreational program as well as a summer one plays an important part in the physical and mental health of the young citizens of the community.

"If one winter more than another could drive home to us the need to provide for the all-important hours of recreation, this winter would be the one. The air is filled with restless uncertaintly; the national defense program is filling many a home with warnings that affect all that it holds dear. Every time we turn on the radio we are greeted with graphic reports of the bombing of civilians; even the entertainment features tend these days toward emotional dramas full of persecution and suffering.

"Although peace at the present time seems remote for the nations of the world, it is still possible to achieve it individually—peace through happy, understanding relationships which home and family life maintain; peace through receptive attitudes toward daily work; peace through satisfying, creative leisure. As individuals we can do very little toward establishing a warless world, but each of us can be a potent factor in finding spiritual peace for ourselves and for our children."

REGISTRATION SET FOR DRAFT HERE

river bridge, and then back to the city hall.

The West Monroe event will be completed in time for those who wish to join the Monroe pageant, which will assemble on the Ouachita Parish High School grounds at 7 p.m. Tuesday. This will consist of more than 1,000 persons from the Twin Cities, C. B. Braum, commander of the L. B. Faulk Post No. 13, American Legion, said Saturday.

Leading the parade will be three companies of national guardsmen, followed by the Camp Fire Girls, Girl Reserves, Boy and Girl Scouts, Legionnaires, and Veterans of Foreign Wars, who will march in a body behind massed colors. American Legion posts from Sterlington and West Monroe will also participate in the parade.

The Monroe event will be marked not only by marching men, but also by elaborate and appropriate floats and various bands.

Schools and organizations entering floats are Northeast Junior College, Ouachita, Neville and St. Matthew's schools, and Boy Scouts. The college, Ouachita, Neville and St. Matthew's will enter bands.

W. H. Hendrickson has organized more than 100 men who are eligible for registration who will take part. All men who will register Wednesday are urged to meet on the Ouachita Parish Grammar School grounds at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Hendrickson said.

Mr. Braun issued a special invitation to any organization that wishes to participate in the parade, either to march or to enter a float, to contact Chief of Police Frank V. Reitzell. Those participating will assemble at 7 p.m. and the parade will get underway at 7:30 p.m., Mr. Braun said.

The huge parade will march north on Grand street to DeSiard, and then down DeSiard to Sitxh street, and south on Sixth to Harrison, where the parade will disband.

Positions of organizations and registrants will be announced in the Monday News-Star and Tuesday World, Mr. Braun said.

Mr. Farr urged negroes who are eligible to come prepared to give their date of birth.

STORES TO OPEN

All Monroe retail merchants will remain open Wednesday, October 16, despite the registration of conscripts for military duty, Dave C. Silverstein, chairman of the merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce, stated Saturday.

Monroe schools will also remain open.

MEETING SUNDAY

ALEXANDRIA, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Selective service board members from throughout Louisiana will meet here Sunday with Governor Sam H. Jones to plan for the classification of men who will register October 16 for the draft.

The meeting is scheduled to be held at 11 a.m. at the Camp Beauregard club. "This will be the only meeting prior to registration day," Governor Jones wrote in calling the meeting.

NOW AT HARVARD

Barred from New York's City College after a stormy controversy, Bertrand Russell, famed British philosopher and mathematician, is now a visiting lecturer at Harvard. He's pictured as he assumed his new post.

DYKSTRA ACCEPTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—President Clarence A. Dykstra of Wisconsin University accepted today the post of director of Selective Service and it was expected efforts would be made to have the Senate confirm his nomination speedily inasmuch as the draft regulation is to be Wednesday.

The 57-year-old educator, who attracted national attention as city manager of Cincinnati, agreed to head the nation's first peacetime conscription system after the university board of regents granted him a leave of absence. It was disclosed earlier this week that President Roosevelt had asked him to take the post.

It was anticipated in military circles that Dykstra's nomination would go to the Senate Monday. Unless opposition developed, informed sources said, there was no reason it could not be approved the same day.

As head of the draft, Dykstra will receive $10,000 a year.

At Selective Service headquarters, officials said everything was in readiness for the gigantic task of registering 16,500,000 men between the ages of 21 and 35 inclusive, for possible military training. One of the final steps, was an effort to make sure that an estimated 4,000,000 migratory workers and itinerants were not overlooked in the tally.

While emphasizing that it was the duty of local officials to see that such men were registered, Selective Service officials said they had appealed to federal, state and municipal agencies to cooperate toward that end.

"We ask them to visit transient camps and other stopping places of migrants to make sure that the wanderers know about the registration requirement," Captain Ernest Culligan, draft information officer said.

Meanwhile, the army announced that in conformity with the new draft law, its short-lived program for acceptance of volunteers for one-year enlistments would be terminated October 15, the day before the registration. Therefore, men desiring to volunteer for one year's service will do so through their local selection boards after they have registered and been classified.

One-year voluntary enlistments were authorized September 25. Officials said they did not know the exact number, but that very few men had been admitted to the ranks on that basis, partly because of the time required to get the necessary orders to the army's far flung recruiting offices.

Enlistments for the usual three-year period are to continue independent of the draft program, the army's announcement said, in order to provide men for the technical branches of the service and for the oversea garrisons. In that connection, it was reported the war department hoped the regular army's enlisted strength would be increased to 500,000.

Program Presented To Welcome Garden Club

Instructive Talks Delivered To Members Who Hold Meeting At Home Of Mrs. Garnett

The members of the Welcome Garden Club met recently in the home of Mrs. V. S. Garnett, 1606 North Second street.

At the conclusion of a brief business session, presided over by Mrs. Charles S. Swain, the president, an unusually splendid program was presented by the chairman, Mrs. Henson Coon.

The first number was a most instructive and comprehensive talk on "How to Grow Roses," by Mrs. A. P. Barfield. Many helpful hints were given to gardeners of this section. She advised preparing the new rose beds this month, permitting them then to stand for several weeks before the roses are planted. First she suggested we select a sunny southern or eastern location for the bed, away from trees and shrubs. One should consider carefully the size and shape of the bed, making it balance with the remainder of the garden. The bed should be well spaded and leaf mold and well rotted manure mixed into it. Mrs. Barfield mentioned that tests had been made of the soil from quite a few Monroe gardens and it was found to be mostly alkaline. The testing was done by a Mr. H. L. Davnay of New Orleans.

An excessive alkaline soil produces foliage that is almost white or yellowish green with veins showing a darker green. One formula to rectify this is two level tablespoons of copperas to three gallons of water. Other helpful points were to be sure the rose bed has good drainage. During the weeks the bed is waiting to be planted wet it down several times, especially if the weather is dry. Best time to plant roses is when they are dormant with late November or early December being preferable since the fall and winter rains are beneficial to the root system. The variety of rose determines the distance between bushes in planting. Upon receiving your rose bushes, plant immediately being careful not to bruise or break any part of the root, if so, trim it off. Also protect roots from the wind and sun. The depth to plant a rose is determined by the color of the bark at the soil level. Be sure to press the soil firmly at the roots, water, and finish filling in dirt. New roses need no commercial fertilizer the first year. Older beds are fertilized in early spring.

A few points on pruning are given. "Always cut the withered roses and any dead wood that might appear. In cutting a bloom two sets of leaves should be left on the plant. Use a sharp curved knife for pruning. Hybrid teas are pruned in spring. Climbers in mid-summer after the blooming is over. Other roses are pruned according to the variety.

Rose bushes may be hilled around with dirt for winter care. If you hill your bushes uncover them in the spring on a cloudy day. Select roses that are good, strong, and healthy, not necessarily old. Budded rose bushes are best for the rose garden. Suckers may form and if so remove below the ground or the true rose will be killed.

The second number was "Planting Seeds," by Mrs. C. T. Johnson which was very helpful since she advised which seeds could be planted at this time of the year. She said in part: "There are two well defined planting seasons in the South, one in the spring another in autumn. With proper planting we can now have plenty of flowers from early spring until killing frost. October and early November are the desirable times to plant seeds in normal years. The beds should be spaded, enriched, and soaked so as not to be too dry when seed is to be planted. Barely cover seeds with fine soil, then sprinkle, and cover with burlap or paper for better germination. Seeds which might be planted soon are calendula, calliopsis, English daisy, larkspur, lupines, cornflowers, petunias, pansies, phlox, pinks, poppies, snapdragon, sweet alyssum, sweet peas, verbena, and candytuft."

The third talk was a delightful, inspiring, talk on "Color Combinations in Border Planting," given by Mrs. W. B. Clarke who said: "Some good rules to follow in planning the border are unity in planting, color, specimen planting, and light and shade. As we consider unity the height of plants must be thought of. Planting should be in drifts to get the best effects, always keeping in mind a harmonious grouping of colors. Clumps of white flowers interspersed between those of various hues help to keep the transition from being too marked. For example some Queen Anne's Lace at the rear, some Baby Breath to break the line where yellow pansies, blue iris, and pink snapdragon would meet an edge border of sweet alyssum. This was just one of numerous artistic color combinations given. In a small garden only one or two ideas can find room for full expression, such ideas as a dominant color note or a special plant group.

"The garden to be effective, restful and charming should have but few varieties but enough of each sort must be used to make it effective. One must work toward making a beautiful picture which delights the eye. Use specimen plants to secure repetition and rhythm. Trees and shrubs enhance the effect of light and shadows."

She advocated using perennials for the border which are good for years if cared for after established. By proper planting one has flowers from May to October, examples are iris for every month and phlox for several. The good garden is a dream of beauty and a place of rest if properly done otherwise it may jar and depress us.

At the close of the program Miss Lucyle Godwin, a visitor from the Monroe Garden club, graciously again invited the Welcome Garden club members to attend the joint meeting of the two garden clubs which is to be held on Monday, October 21, at 2:30 p.m. at the Virginia Hotel. Mrs. E. R. Epperson of Jackson, Miss., will be the guest speaker and is to talk on "Flower Arrangement," being an authority on this subject. Garden club members can get free tickets from their respective secretaries. Others interested are invited. A small fee will be charged.

Members present were: Mrs. Joe C. Anders, Mrs. Jack Boswell, Mrs. A. P. Barfield, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. A. K. Crow, Mrs. L. G. Cook, Mrs. L. C. DeMasterson, Mrs. J. L. Dennis, Mrs. W. C. Mrs. Frederick Amman Is Honored At Tea

One of the most distinctive affairs of the early fall season was the tea Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. L. Wood with Miss Eveline Amman co-hostess and Mrs. Fredrick Amman, a bride of recent date, the guest of honor.

The autumnal colors were everywhere in evidence not only in the flowers banking the reception suite and dining room but in the handsome gowns worn by the fashionably attired guests who numbered two hundred or more.

Mrs. Wood wore a black velvet, floor length model and Miss Amman wore a floor length black crepe model. The guest of honor was wearing a beautiful maroon colored crepe and velvet gown.

Mrs. Allen Turpin, mother of the honor guest, was also introduced at this time. She was wearing a black velvet model. Mrs. Louise R. Amman, assisting in the courtesies wore a Como blue crepe model.

A pink color theme prevailed in the dining room where the tea girls, Miss Elizabeth Amman Wood, Miss Joan Gibbons, Miss Martha Thompson, and Miss Dorothy Stein, were all clad in bouffant, floor length models of pink taffeta.

The refreshment table was overlaid with handsome lace over pink satin. An immense plaque almost covering the table, was fashioned of pink carnations and bouvardia with tall pink tapers burning in their midst.

Handsome silver tea and coffee services gracing either end of the table were presided over by Mrs. M. B. Amman in black velvet, and Mrs. P. L. Perot in black lace and chiffon.

Mrs. Charles Reid, assisting in serving the delicious open faced sandwiches, pastries, crystalized fruits, fancy gateaux and flower tinted mints, was wearing a rose colored crepe model.

The hostesses presented their guest of honor and all those who assisted in the courtesies with corsages of white bouvardia and pink carnations.

HOW TIME FLIES

KANSAS CITY—Charley Blood, veteran newspaperman, took time out to buy a new pair of shoes, commenting that those he had on showed a little wear.

Blood mentioned he was one of those persons who alternate shoes daily.

"Yes," said the salesman. "The other pair was bought in 1932."

LOCAL DEALERS WILL MARK WEEK

Furniture Merchants Will Co-operate In National Observance

Local furniture stores will participate in the first National Office Furniture Week, Monday through Friday, for the purpose of getting American business men interested in office merchandise and showing them how their offices can be improved by replacement or remodeling of old equipment.

Furniture dealers throughout the country agreed that the autumn is the most logical time for the observance, as commerce and industry are swinging into full activity. Operating needs increase, and buying is stimulated all along the line.

Purchasing agents, office managers and other executives are preparing for the office activity of the coming months—including the increasing details attendant to closing the business year and starting the new.

Among the characteristics of the American business man is the tremendous capacity for getting things done.

Yet under the pressure of his responsibilities he does at times put things off that he knows should be done. And usually they are the things he is not impelled to give immediate attention. They include conditions involving problems to be thought out. Problems which require council with someone specializing in a given field. Also problems involving the outlay of money — although the expenditure might be justified by the resultant economy, efficiency and comfort.

Improvement and replacement of office furnishings and equipment are commonly delayed by this procrastination. Many a business office will be remodeled as soon as "the boss" gets around to it. He has already made up his mind to that, but he is putting off the day until he gets time to "have it done right."

By the same token, many a professional person's office is waiting to be done over. Many a desk chair, filing cabinet and other article is needed, but for some reason or other the purchase of such necessary equipment is never made.

The War Today

By Dewitt Mackenzie
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)

With Hitler's military occupation of strategically placed Rumania, we can say that the great axis offensive in the battle of the Mediterranean is underway and that the Nazi fuehrer has scored a vastly important success.

He has by a series of crafty political schemes and threats—and without firing a shot—secured a vital military, air and naval base for further operations in the bloody struggle which is beginning.

But what is of even greater moment is the fact that he has at the same time acquired outright the Rumanian oil which will act like a blood-transfusion on his waning supplies. Without oil the modern military machine cannot run, and Germany's acquisition of this supply is a hard blow to Britain.

I dare say this was one of the developments which British Premier Churchill foresaw in his grim prophesy before the house of commons early this week:

"Long, dark months of trial and tribulation lie before us. Not only great dangers but many more misfortunes, many shortcomings, many mistakes, many disappointments, will surely be our lot."

That this new offensive is going to produce "trial and tribulation," not only for England but for the other fellows as well, there can be no manner of doubt. It is going to be a fierce and desperate struggle which is likely to drag numerous other countries in as a matter of self preservation.

As the conflict starts to rumble down through the Balkans—that cockpit of southeastern Europe which has been a battle ground for untold centuries—one of the most significant developments to my mind rests in that Turkish official broadcast Friday night, warning the Germans that any attempt to make a thrust across Turkey and Syria would be met with "very strong resistance."

"This road across Anatolia," the Turks served notice, "is guarded by 2,000,000 bayonets."

Now the point of this is that Turkey, which has been taking its lead from Russia would never (in my view) have ventured to make such a defiant threat had it not been sanctioned by the Soviet. I find support for that viewpoint in the fact that the Muscovie ambassador conferred with the Turkish premier not long before the broadcast.

This doesn't necessarily mean that Russia is preparing to join the Turks and oppose the axis by arms at this precise juncture. It does mean, to my mind, that the Soviet is bitterly antagonistic to these Nazi moves in the Balkans and that there certainly is a possibility of war between Russia and Germany.

Stalin and Hitler are matching wits in a historic drama which has taken them right to the verge of war. Both of them are opportunists, and their actions will be impelled by circumstances. I believe that Stalin will go just as far as seems at all feasible in an effort to halt Hitler, though probably not even the Bolshevist leader can say at this moment whether he should strike now or hold his hand for a more favorable moment, and blink at Htiler's operations.

However, that may be, the attitude of Russia is of vast importance as the axis offensive begins. Both Germany and Britain recognize this and are making efforts to win the support of Stalin.

It's a long hop from the Balkan mountains to the tight little Isle of Wight off England's south coast, but I think we must associate these two spots with the Berlin announcement that a German torpedo boat flotilla has fought an engagement off the island with British light forces.

There are no details to enable formation of a studied judgment of what such an operation means. The Germans apparently haven't entirely abandoned the idea of invading England, despite the lateness of the season, and it might be a feeler in connection with that.

However, I should say that the main Nazi purpose is to keep British naval forces in home waters so as to prevent the English from increasing their defenses in the Mediterranean. By the same token, the Nazis will continue to raid death on the British isles, in order to hold English warplanes there.

Death Agonies Of Nations

By Kirke L. Simpson
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)

Not many men have witnessed at close hand within a span of less than three years what might prove the death agonies of three free nations.

Lloyd Lehrbas, roving the war fronts on Associated Press assignments, has done just that. He watched China survive, bloodied but unbowed, the first dreadful Japanese onslaught at Shanghai. He saw Poland smashed by Germany's massive war machine, and fled with defeat-stunned Polish refugees into Rumania. Then in France he watched again while "the light went out of a nation's eyes" in its numbed realization of utter disaster at German hands.

That the somber scene passing befort his own eyes drew from Lehrbas so poignant a description of French despair tells more than any factual narration of the tragedy of that moment for France.

Yet, if the light of liberty is dead in French hearts as well as in defeat-dimmed French eyes, history is a lying jade. Her interpretations of the past are a mocking travesty of the truth about man, which disclosed him sunk to the level of the lesser beasts with self survival, the desire to live on under whatever conditions, the only law which guides his action.

That is the cynical assumption that seems the foundation stone of the projected German - Italian - Japanese new order in Europe, in Asia, and in Africa. It is the thesis of the law of the jungle, of sheer force, abroad in the world; but it challenges every lesson—of the recorded or legendary history of man.

Britain's sturdy fight and China's stubborn refusal to be vanquished are symbols that the apostles of force have misread history—and of hope that the light of liberty will again kindle in French eyes.

The scene in conquered France which Lehrbas reports recalls another moment in a French setting two decades ago. At Versailles, where the World War peacemakers met so fruitlessly, the "big three"—Wilson, Lloyd George and Clemenceau—faced a proposal by the allied generalissimo, Ferdinand Foch, for a "cordon sanitaire" about Bolshevist Russia to imprison the virus of "Red" world revolution. Foch planned a military quarantine of Russia to save democracy, otherwise made "safe" by the war.

Wilson called for General Tasker Bliss, No. 2 American soldier in France. Bliss was a professional soldier who loved his trade, and was more accustomed to the lurid language of the barracks and saddle-blanket bivouacs than to the uses of diplomacy. But he was also a thinker, a deep student of history.

Wilson knew that. The scholarly statesman and the hard-bitted soldier met at elbow touch on a common ground in the history books.

Bliss brushed aside discussion of the Foch plan from a military standpoint. He approached it as a philosopher, an interpreter of history. The Russian world revolution dream would die of its own weight, by the verdict of history, he said, unless it embodied a new idea that would better man's relations with man and the common lot in life. If it did contain such an idea, he said, the Foch quarantine would not halt it.

"Bayonets never stopped an idea in the history of the world," added this lifelong man-at-arms.

CROP OF COTTON DECLINES AGAIN

Prospects Dimmed Further By Drouth Following Heavy Rains

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Prospects for cotton in Louisiana, already hard hit by torrential rains during the summer, declined again during September, the United States department of agriculture reported today.

Drouth following rains caused considerable shedding. The crop's condition was placed at 48 per cent of normal, 8 points lower than on September 1; 33 points lower than a year ago and 16 points below the 1929-38 average. The crop was forecast at 450,000 bales as against 745,000 last year and 709,000 for the 10-year average.

Rains late in the month benefited vegetables which in many places had been planted after cash crops were ruined.

Early corn turned out well and the forecast, 23,374,000 bushels, was slightly ahead of last year's crop. Rice was expected to yield about 3,000,000 bushels less than last year, or only 17,604,000 bushels.

The expected sugar cane harvest was put at more than 4,000,000 tons, as against 5,084,000 last year, but early sucrose analyses were favorable.

Sweet potato prospects, which a month ago were for the smallest crop since 1930, were unchanged at 5,490,000 bushels.

Pecan prospects improved and the production was expected to be 4,264,000 pounds, an increase over last year, but the crop was spotted, with some groves producing hardly any.

An excellent pear crop was produced and other fruit crops were fairly good.

Miss Wossman Gives Citizenship Address

Educator Urges Acceptance Of Responsibilities To Provide Finer Type Of Democratic Unit

The following address was delivered by Miss Julia Wossman, principal of Barkdull Faulk School, on "Good Citizenship":

"Our discussion of citizenship will apply to citizenship in a democracy. Citizenship in a totalitarian government is a simple practice of blind obedience to those in authority. In our form of government which recognizes the rights of every individual 'to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness,' citizenship carries with it the responsibility for insuring to every citizen those rights. It becomes a complex and difficult practice. Good citizenship is bearing responsibility for the carrying on of this 'way of life,' claiming the rights for one's self, but being equally insistent that others have the same rights.

"Of first importance in our training for and practice of citizenship is the recognition of equality in the possession of these rights. If everybody has them, as we believe, it becomes the duty of citizens of a government 'of the people' to be tireless in their operation of government and social benefits in order that every individual at all times may realize his rights.

"The City in which we live is a very excellent type of the democratic unit. What I shall say applies to it, but it also applies in a larger sense to state and nation.

"What are some of the activities and undertakings in which we engage in order that the democratic way of life may prosper? We may evaluate our own citizenship as good or poor in practice by checking on our interest in these activities.

"I would mention first—Organized business—which contributes to the constructive elements of the community. They furnish means of livelihood. The business interests of the town are a highly moral force which make possible the benefits for citizenship training that must be supported by taxes or contributions. Our interest in the quality of the business organizations which we patronize is what perpetuates them and gives them the high standards which enable them to serve us efficiently.

"2. Our government—The attitude of a good citizen toward his government is both critical and constructive. 'My country (or city) may she always be right; but right or wrong my country (or city).' This expression of patriotism is good citizenship only if it means that my country 'wrong' becomes my responsibility for righting the wrong, even though I may have to undertake the job alone. If all individuals who are passively interested in honest and efficient government should become active and remain active, most of the problems of those in office would be solved. Those elected to office should be able to know that they have, working with them, a body of people interested in the general good of all. One of the duties of citizenship is to take part with public officers in the public services which they are performing, consenting and dissenting as the individual sees the right. There is too much of self-seeking and too little of helpfulness among us. Our local officers, mayor and commissioners, need our interest and cooperation. The neglect of government offices, national, state and local by the majority of its citizens eventually deals certain death to our kind of government.

"3. The educational benefits of the community—These are the means of training for citizenship (training in bearing one's responsibility for carrying on the democratic way of life). Every adult citizen, the childless and those with families, old and young, should be actively interested in the schools for the training of the next generation of citizens. Know what your schools are doing. Know what changes present-day conditions are forcing into education. Know the needs of schools, of children, and of teachers. If you are critical of your schools because they are not the same kind that you were educated in, find out why they have had to change. Good citizenship seeks to know the training grounds for the next citizens. Visit your schools. Have your children tell you of them. Be a member of the Parent-Teacher Association of your child's school.

"Also you have your own cultural advantages for finer citizenship: Town Hall, Public Library and Civic Music Association. Your Public Library gives a most worthwhile service. Do you know the board of public spirited citizens who have kept it going? They have faced recently the possibility of having to close the library because of lack of funds to operate. They have somehow accomplished continuance of library services. They merit our active interest and cooperation. Have you helped with Town Hall and Civic Music? Are you a member of one or both?

"4. Recreation facilities. The need for a community's bearing responsibility for furnishing wholesome recreation to its citizens is recognized by our form of government. Monroe has a City Recreation Department which carries on a fine summer playground program for children on the school grounds throughout the city. A year-round adult program has been carried on at a recreation center. Those who took part in and enjoyed the day-and-night activities at the center numbered up in the thousands. These activities have been temporarily discontinued because there is no longer a center. The building formerly used for this purpose is being rebuilt for business usage. Right now there is a crying need for a recreation building. Good citizenship can demonstrate itself in planning and cooperating with the recreation department for a building in which the recreation needs of young people and adults may be met.

"The Little Theater and the Childrens Theater are local organizations for recreational enjoyment. They are projects of the community which minister to the 'good life' and as such become the responsibility of our citizens.

"5 Health Services. Our city and parish have the Ouachita Parish Health Unit with which all residents should cooperate in sanitation practices and in the use of disease-prevention measures. Healthy people are, in the main, happy and uesful people. The Ouachita Parish Tuberculosis and Public Health Association cares for our tuberculosis patients in a beautiful new sanitorium supported by your taxes. The Christmas seal sale offers us an opportunity to assist with education for preventing Tuberculosis. The regional convention of tuberculosis workers which is to meet here on October 21-23 is being planned and arranged for by local workers and other interested citizens. Take time off to attend some of their meetings.

"There are the welfare organizations supported by our contributions to the Community Chest and also the Junior Charity League whose work is largely with infants and small children. These, too, fit into the plan of democratic rights, which become the responsibility of the good citizen.

"The religious activities of the community, carried on through the churches, are not only the responsibility of the good citizen, they furnish the inspiration for the carrying on of all activities which minister to the general good. Worthy citizenship is in most cases an outgrowth of religious ideals inculcated by the churches. The good citizen supports the church of his choice and works in it.

"This discussion of citizenship is entirely concrete and specific. It relates to our own citizenship in our own town.

"We recognize the rights of all the people of our town, by making ourselves responsible for activities of the community related to (1) business, (2) government, (3) education, (4) recreation, (5) health, (6) welfare, and last but not least (7) religion. In proportion as we invest our energies in these activities we are worthy or unworthy citizens. The town in which we live is to my mind one of the very fine examples of a small democracy still in existence.

"We certainly are citizens of 'no mean city' but it behooves every man, woman and child to accept the responsibilities of the good citizen and to pass his city on the next generation a finer type of democratic unit than it is today. That is worthy citizenship."

Shall We Feed Europe?

Americans have the biggest hearts in all the world. Any nation of Europe that has ever endured suffering of any kind, from war or famine, knows that to be a fact.

And that's why the problem America faces today is one of the toughest it ever had to decide: Shall Americans help feed European victims of Nazi aggression this winter?

Under ordinary circumstances, the answer would be easy. It would be a thunderous yes, punctuated by the clink of coins, gladly given. Under the usual conditions, boatloads of food and clothing and medical supplies would already be on their way. But these are not ordinary times. War still rages. The fallen nations are still fallen. And for the first time in American history, citizens are arguing over whether charity might not turn out eventually to be a slap in Uncle Sam's face.

The need is unmistakably there. Some folks contend that this alone is sufficient reason for helping. But should the United States ask the British to relax their blockade of the continent and obtain a solemn promise from Berlin that food shipments to France and Belgium and the Netherlands and other conquered territories will not be appropriated by the Nazis?

Opponents scoff. Promises! Has Hitler ever been known to keep his solemn pledge? And even if he meant to keep this one, does it seem likely that he would watch unwaveringly the feeding of the conquered while the German people, the conquerors, subsist on insufficient rations?

No matter, say those who favor aid to Europe. Unless Americans display humanitarianism, they point out, this country will sink in moral prestige. The act of feeding Europe cannot directly influence the conduct of the war, they maintain.

Oh, can't it? ask the opponents. Suppose there is no food this winter. Hungry people become desperate. And desperate people revolt. Let Hitler feed them. Even meager rations of food among Europe's vanquished will keep them in a state of beaten lethargy.

Americans can never completely close their hearts. Even those who most violently resist the idea of relieving Europe's suffering must wince when they think of the hardships among innocent civilians. They take their stand not because they are ruthless and barbarous but because they believe that aloofness to suffering now will work toward the ultimate preservation of liberty.

It's a difficult decision to make. Whatever conclusion we reach, it will take years before anyone can determine whether it was the right one.

WIPING OUT RABIES

Federal and state authorities are carrying on an intensive campaign in southeastern Georgia to wipe out rabies among dogs and wild animals. It is disclosed that 2,000 dogs have been inoculated and that progress is being made toward the control of a menace which threatened to assume dangerous proportions two months ago.

The disease had gained alarming headway among foxes, which communicated it to other animals. To realize that hundreds of wild animals were running loose as potential carriers of rabies was disturbing, and it is fortunate that the situation was taken in hand promptly.

A marked decrease in the number of cases among domestic as well as wild animals in the affected area is now reported. The news story carrying this information says it is expected that "with the coming of cooler weather the disease will completely disappear."

But authorities claim that cooler weather has nothing to do with rabies climatically. The old myth which produced the name hydrophobia has been exploded. A rabid dog has a real thirst for water, instead of an aversion for it, but is unable to drink. The reason rabies is more prevalent among domestic animals in summer is that at that season they are more apt to run abroad, while in the cooler months they do not roam so far or so often. Consequently, they are less exposed to being bitten.

In Great Britain rabies has been practically exterminated and the most rigid quarantine laws are enforced to prevent its return. In Australia the disease is unknown.

JAPS' FIRST JUMP

It is a good guess that as between the United States and Great Britain the first of the two countries Japan will jump in demonstration of her fidelity to the three-power pact is to be Great Britain. The pretext for a break with Britain can come over the expiration of the agreement through which Britain closed the Burma road into China. China of course does not want the agreement renewed.

It is believed that Washington has made diplomatic representations at London that it would like to see the road reopened. The agreement runs out on October 18 and if Britain sticks to its announced plan to take down the bars, there is a possibility that Japan will attack Hongkong.

The British in that event will fight for Hongkong. They have evacuated the English women and children from the area and have been concentrating some of their oriental forces in the place. This can be the next point of explosion in Asia.

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—Passage of the conscription act has tossed a hefty monkey wrench into the machinery of the social security board, and Congress will undoubtedly be called on to extract same before it finishes its work for the year.

As things stand now, men called up for service stand to lose certain rights, both under the federal old age and survivors' insurance acts and under the unemployment compensation law.

For instance: The amount of unemployment compensation a man is entitled to depends on the amount of insured employment he has had during the preceding year. A man who is in the draft army is not, of course, going to need unemployment insurance while he is in uniform; but when he finishes his year of training he will have spent an entire year in a non-insured job—and hence, for the following year, will be extremely shy on unemployment insurance protection.

In other words, his year of service will simply cancel the protection he has built up.

Average Wage Will Go Down

The draftee's rights under old age and survivors' insurance will be somewhat less drastically affected. He will spend an entire year in a non-covered occupation. Hence, on the Social Security Board's books, his average wage—on which the insurance he or his survivors will ultimately get is to be based—will go down. Thus the amount coming to him or to his survivors will be lower than it would have been if he had stayed out of the army.

It is the unemployment insurance angle which is worrying officials of the Social Security Board most. They expect that when the first year of training ends, a great many draftees will meet some delay in finding jobs. Legally, a drafted worker is entitled to have his old job back; in practice, it is believed this will be rather hard to enforce. The board's experts figure some form of unemployment allowances will be pretty badly needed when the draftees go back to civil life—yet as the law now stands, not a man back will be entitled to any.

Two Remedies Suggested

Two ways of remedying the situation have been suggested.

One is simply to "freeze" every draftee's status as of the date of his entering the service: to rule that his rights to all benefits under the Social Security Act would be the same when he came out of the army as they were when he went in. One objection to this is it wouldn't help the man who had accumulated no benefits before he was drafted; another is that the states might thereafter be called on to pay unemployment insurance for a period during which they had collected no payroll taxes.

The solution preferred by Chairman Altmeyer of the Social Security Board would call for amending the Social Security Act so as to make army service a "covered" job. The army then would report to the board the wages paid to each man, and would deduct the proper tax from each soldier's pay envelope. One thing Altmeyer likes about this is that the man who had not previously been in a covered job could start building up some benefits for himself.

If the act is to be amended, Congress will have to do something this fall. Any change in the unemployment insurance title would require action by all the state legislatures. They convene in January; if they are to act, Congress must complete its part of the job ahead of time.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

EN ROUTE HOME, Oct. 12.—Dear Staff: A transcontinental air jaunt, at some 15,000 feet, gives one a nice vantage point from which to view America. Almost simultaneously, one sees great, congested cities and far-reaching, sparsely settled agricultural areas.

Watching the swift change in density of population and industrial development as we speed West, I'm more than ever impressed by the fact that Americans, living in dissimilar sections of so enormous a country, are bound to have conflicting interests.

For example, you can't expect a Chicago factory hand to see eye to eye with a Kansas wheat farmer on social reforms, economic problems and international politics. Their environs—one indoors and the other out—have made them superficially unalike. And that is a fact Hollywood has been prone to forget—to its own cost.

No wonder "problem" pictures (films that propagandize for this or that) fall flat on the national market. No wonder such pictures, while doing big business in Eastern industrial centers, fail to arouse a ripple in the Corn Belt, and vice versa.

If Hollywood wants to please fans in every section of America (which it must do or else take a severe licking now that remunerative foreign markets are lost), it must get back to fundamentals of good entertainment—to the basic emotional values. People everywhere, no matter how they earn their livings, enjoy love, laughter and excitement.

For the past year or so, the average movie producer has been yearning to wear a crusader's mantle. If he's not careful, it's apt to become a shroud.

JIMMIE FIDLER.

Dear Boss: Since you brought up that crusader allusion yourself, it's only fair to warn our liege lord that some of his recent verbal blasts have irked certain puissant barons of Hollywood. Not only do they wear crusaders' mantles; they also flourish lances—and yen to bury those trusty spears in the tender vitals of JMF.

Speaking of war news, we've been getting reports about temperamental clashes twixt Norma Shearer and George Cukor, who directed her in retakes for "Escape." Understand George walked out in a huff a coupla times before the stint was finished. . . . Better mark Buddy Rogers' debut as a producer "temporarily deferred"—20th Century bosses are so pleased with his performance in "Golden Hoofs" that they're talking term contract, and Buddy likes to act. . . . Kay Rohrer, the lovely MGM recruited from a local soft ball team, is the gal who prompted Harpo Marx' classic crack, "There's the only first baseman I ever wanted to kiss!"

Marjorite Rambeau is putting final touches on her autobiography (hot stuff, we hear) and 'twill be published, come spring. . . . Luther Adler, who planed in to spend last week-end with the missus (Sylvia Sidney) has decided to stay in Hollywood indefinitely. . . . Chuckle: Even though 20th has lifted its no-dates-for-Linda-Darnell-ban, would-be swains are still wearing long faces; Mama Darnell puts them through a terrific catechism before they can take daughter out. . . . Groucho Marx is duffle-packing for a leisurely cross-country auto tour. . . . Stand by for a romantic announcement from Bill Orr and Virginia O'Brien.

Strange (as you often point out) are the ways of Hollywood. Some weeks ago, one Georgia Hawkins, a local gal, was recruited by Paramount and given an important role in "Light of the Western Stars." No one thought to ask if she could ride a horse—and no one needed to ask after witnessing her first before-the-cameras attempt. Onlookers howled—and Georgia, certain that her career had been tumbled in the dust (an excusable impression, for that's what had happened to her) went home to shed regretful tears. Needless tears. Harry Sherman, Par's western producer, after seeing rushes, acclaimed her the comedy find of the year—and presented her with a top role in "Doomed Caravan."

Time out for Alice Faye—the flu bugs have got her. . . . Highlight of Jane Withers' one p. a. (in New York this fall) will be her imitation of sing-star Carmen Miranda. . . . John Carroll treks north this week-end for hunting and fishing in British Columbian wilds. . . . Eddie "Rochester" Anderson, who's a licensed pilot, has enlisted Colored Congressman Arthur Mitchell of Illinois in his campaign for the creation of a negro air corps for the United States Army. . . . Speaking of things military, movie work on outlying locations comes to a standstill next Wednesday while draft-age workers report back to their home precincts for registration. . . . Constance Moore and hubby, Johnny Mashio, have scheduled a NY loll after completion of her current "I Wanted Wings" assignment. . . . Wot's this about Al Jolson and Bert (the "Mad Russian") Gordon feuding so hotly over laff lines in "Hold On To Your Hats" that Gordon is threatening a walkout? . . . Please pardon our ruddy complexions—Perc Westmore, rumored to be romantic about a local lovely, not only says tain't so, but wants it known that the lady is already married.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE ORIGINAL BLUE AND WHITE OF THE NAVY—Why are all the navies of the world dressed in navy blue and white? Because on a certain day in 1744, when the question of a new navy uniform was submitted to George II for his determination, the king met Gertrude Duchess of Bedford in the park, and liked her riding costume in blue and white so much that he ordered the two colors adopted by the British navy. Since all the other countries' navies imitated the British, the riding colors of the duchess are now obligatory in the navies of the entire world.

Human Side Of The News

(Copyright, 1940, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Uncle Sam, watchdog of the Western Hemisphere, is establishing in the glamorous Caribbean a magic ring of defense against totalitarian evil spirits. Invaluable air and submarine bases he wangled out of John Bull for those fifty history-making destroyers. Now he has his eye on Haiti whereon he may, under a friendly Haitian administration, establish another outpost of defense for the Panama canal, his lifeline—and the lifeline, too, of the western world, over which, as the trustee of democracy, he must stand watch and ward.

Our beloved Uncle has reason to be proud of his Haitian guardianship. Port au Prince, the capital city, is a pleasure to the eye. He has cleaned it, scrubbed its face and presented it neatly to the world. He has given it self-respect. From the administration of the United States Marines, just withdrawn, new enterprises have been introduced. Interestingly enough, the withdrawal of the marines coincided with the anniversary of the strange and tragic end of that amazing figure of Christophe, King Henri, more than a century ago. It was with this arresting figure that the history of Haiti actually begins.

Before Henri Christophe, Haiti had been a French possession. The French had settled there in considerable numbers, in the days of the Emperor Napoleon. Some of the great sugar planters, who spent the greater part of the year in Paris, leaving their plantations to the management of hard-driving overseers, brought about conditions of cruelty and tyranny, which resulted in a bloody rebellion in 1812, the year which was the turning point of Napoleon's fortunes.

All over the island rebellion blazed forth. Slaves seized what weapons they could find, stormed the plantations and masacred the planters and their families, all except a few who were warned in time by faithful retainers and who managed to escape to the sea.

Out of this welter of rebellion and bloodshed arose the figure of Henri Christophe. He was the best man the rebellion produced and he proved it by naming himself as king and establishing a monarchy. He built the palace of San Souci. He organized a government, divided the land, created an army and performed with rather more initiative, energy and ability than you would have discovered in most founders of royal houses. Seized with a passion to build greatly, he spent years in constructing the tremendous citadel. It took him fourteen years to build this amazing structure of stone, an absolutely impregnable stronghold, whose walls are six feet thick.

So reigned Henri Christophe in the years of his power and glory. But like the Emperor Jones in the opera, a delusion of grandeur was his undoing. His callous disregard for human life, the burden of taxation he laid upon his people, his autocratic ways aroused finally such impeacable resentment as caused the people to rise against him.

In his besieged palace he looked out over the seething mob and knew that the end had come. He bathed, dressed all in white with the utmost care, said farewell to his wife and children, held a pistol to his temple and put a bullet through his brain.

It is a far cry, indeed, from the Haiti of that day to the Haiti which emerges from the faithful and efficient hands of the United States Marines.

Sunday School Lesson

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
(Editor of Advance)

John the Baptist is the type of the great forerunner. His work was essentially a work of preparation. He represented the laying of good foundations, but he lacked some of the things that make the superstructure beautiful and perfect. It is a distinction that we do not often make common—the distinction between what is good and necessary under certain circumstances, and what is of the highest and most permanent quality.

Jesus recognized this in His great tribute to John. He said that of those who had been born of woman there had not arisen a greater than John the Baptist. Nevertheless he added that he who was least in the Kingdom of Heaven was greater than John.

What did He mean by this, except to emphasize the distinction between the good and the best? John belonged to the old dispensation of law and regulation, of strict ritual, fasting and asceticism.

Jesus brought in the new dispensation of love and liberty, a sense of abundant life and joy. He taugh and practiced the glory of the unselfish life, the beauty of self-sacrifice where it was for some higher end, and He himself made the supreme sacrifice on the Cross; yet, in all this, the emphasis was not upon loss but upon gain. He could say to His disciples, even on the very eve of His crucifixion, "Be of good cheer: I have overcome the world."

Yet, in the world as it is, there is great need of those who do the work of preparation. We need, even in our modern world, the prophets from the wilderness to call the world to repentance and to lay great stress upon judgement and upon the return to simplicities of justice and homespun honesty in the ways of life.

It was a part of the strength and glory of John that he recognized his own place and limitations. He spoke of a mightier baptism than he himself was giving and he sensed the greatness of this One who was coming, whose shoes he was not worthy to unloose. He saw this coming Messiah as the fulfillment of his own work and his own prophecies.

John was a great preacher of righteousness. Stern and commanding but strong and solid as granite, he lacked the kindlier appeal of the Master whose coming he foretold, but he performed well his work and his mission.

One of the strange things is that we seldom picture John the Baptist as a young man. We think of him almost inevitably as among the seasoned prophets—yet John was only a few months older than Jesus.

He represented in his own day the vision and the spirit of flaming, impassioned youth; and youth in its finest zeal has always represented these two things—the earnest impassioned righteousness of John, the zeal to put the ax at the root of the tree and to hew down everything that is unworthy: and on the other hand the equally impassioned idealism of Jesus, putting all the emphasis on upbuilding rather than destroying, and so concerned lest anything be lost that even the tares must continue until the harvest lest the wheat also be uprooted.

These types continue in history, and it is well when the one recognizes its place and its limitations as preparing for the other.

Today, just because stern tasks face a world torn by violence and war, it is necessary that we should not lose sight of those divine ideals and goals that John saw in the One who was to come

OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri

GROWING BOYS NEED GUIDANCE

Paul came into the office after school was out and said he wanted to talk to me privately. When the stillness of the empty building reached us he told me that Mr. Lucky wouldn't let him play on the football team.

"Did he give you the reason?"

"Yes. He said I was growing fast now and I would have to go easy until my growth settled. Look at me. Am I not big enough to play on the team?"

His voice rose and cracked, to his great embarrassment. His eyes filled. It was plain that he wished himself anywhere but where he was, in the principal's office.

"Isn't it fine to know that you are growing up? You were a boy last spring. Now you are halfway between a boy and a man. You're growing hard. Eating well?"

He couldn't help grinning, the tears still dampening his lashes. "My mother says if I keep on at the rate I'm going she will have to put a mortgage on the house to pay the grocery bills. I am always hungry and I eat like a horse. I'm strong as a horse, too. Why can't I play?"

"Because you are using all your energy in growing. You must if you're going to make a good job of it. This stage will be over soon and you'll settle down to a slower pace. You'll be an adolescent. You can do more then but you've got to be careful. Just now you must not put any strain on your muscles. You can practice but you mustn't overdo it. Make a good job of this growing and you will be in fine shape for the team next year. If you mess it up you won't be team material, nor anything else much."

"I can practice?"

"Surely. Has the doctor seen you?"

"No. I haven't been sick."

"That's not the idea. The doctor will know what condition your body is in. He'll tell you how much exercise you can have safely, what to do and what to avoid. Doctors know about boys like you and they want to help you.

"Here. You sit down and read this chapter on growing boys. Dr. Crampton wrote this book just for you fellows. Read this about yourself. Look at this table that tells you how to get along with yourself and keep in training while you're growing."

Paul read the chapter, asked a few questions about it and then, quite happy, went back to the coach to ask for a practice assignment. This business of growing a boy into a man is a complicated and delicate process. One cannot know too much about it. Dr. C. YOUR NERVES

Learn To Relax For Health's Sake; Speed Wears Body

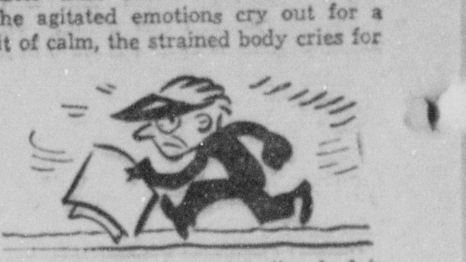
By Winfred Rhoades

If you are going to derive lasting benefit from this series of articles you must learn the art of voluntary relaxation—physical, mental, and emotional.

During the last 150 years man has been obliged to deal with more new ideas, more new inventions, more acceleration of the pace of life, more changes in the conditions of life, than during hundreds of years before, and perhaps thousands. The complexities of life—home life, school life, social life, business life, economic, political, and international life—has developed faster than man's nervous strength. The agitated emotions cry out for a bit of calm, the strained body cries for some new vigor, the starved soul for some kind of real sustenance.



Incessant speed wastes the body's power, keeps it from storing reserves.

Speed at work, at play, speed in thinking and feeling, speed even in sleep—incessant speed lays waste the body's powers and keeps it from storing up reserves. The nervous system needs periods of relaxation, the digestive system needs them, the entire physical organism needs them, the mind, the emotions, the spirit—the whole man needs them.

You can learn to relax. You must learn to relax. You can make your body just as responsive to the idea of relaxation as it is to the idea of dynamic exertion. If you tell your feet to press down on the floor they do so. If you tell them to rest lightly on the floor they do that. You can teach your entire body to be equally responsive to the power of though, and to be immediately so.

Lie down upon your back on a hard couch or on the floor, or, if that is not possible, sit comfortably in a chair. Then close your eyes: the mere closing of the eyes suggests relaxation and rest and peace, while it blots out distracting sights and helps to prevent distracting thoughts. Breathe deeply and quietly: slow, full, deep breaths that reach all portions of your lungs. That also helps to relax the body and to induce the mood of peace.

Then, beginning with your face, pick out each set of muscles in succession and tell them to relax. Concentrate your mind upon each set of muscles until you feel the tenseness go and limpness take its place.

When you have thus taken each set of muscles separately in that fashion talk to your whole body. Say: "Let go—relax—rest!" Say it several times, not vocally but mentally. Then say: "I am heavy: my legs are heavy—my trunk is heavy—my arms are heavy—my head is heavy. My whole body is heavy. Oh! how heavy I am." After that say: "Relaxation and peace—quietness and confidence — power though repose."

Say the words mentally, and say them slowly. Then consciously open your whole being to the life and vitality that enfold you continually, and draw them in. Take at least 10 minutes for this twice a day, and better still take 15.

Thus you help yourself to get free from nervousness, irritability, depression, fear and other morbific emotions, and at the same time to get relief from your pains and other physical symptoms, and to build up in yourself a new ability to meet the challenge of life.

Liberty Bell Is Symbol Of American Freedom

THE first "made in America" bell, the historic old Liberty Bell which announced the birth of freedom, is pictured on the U.S. 2-cent Sesquicentennial commemorative above, issued in 1926.

The bell has had a remarkable history. It was ordered from an English foundry in 1751 for the Pennsylvania State House. The bell cracked before it could be installed.

When return to England was delayed two Americans, Pass and Stow, offered to recast it. The tone of their first bell was not satisfactory, but a second casting produced the Liberty Bell, with its famous inscription: "Proclaim Liberty throughout all the land, to all the inhabitants thereof."

The bell announced the first public reading of the Declaration of Independence on July 8, 1776, not on July 4, as is common belief. During the Revolution, the bell was taken from its tower, hidden under a church floor, to prevent seizure by British.

The Liberty Bell cracked while tolling during the funeral of Chief Justice John Marshall, on July 8, 1835.

Literary Guild Holds Interesting Meeting

Talk By Mrs. Perot Features First Gathering Of Year At Home Of Mrs. J. G. Durrett

The Literary Guild held its first meeting of the year in the home of Mrs. J. G. Durrett. Twelve members were present. The club was honored to have at this meeting the Fifth district president, Mrs. Leola Nixon of Ruston.

The Literary Guild is beginning its 11th year of activity, having been organized by the Twentieth Century Book club in 1925. Eleven of the 16 charter members are still enrolled. These eleven, with the remaining five who have been since added, feel that the bond of friendship which has grown stronger means perhaps more than knowledge gained through study or civic work accomplished.

Having had as the previous year's study such subjects as "Louisiana," "Famous Women," "Modern Literature," "Drama" and "Decorative Art," the study for the year 1940-41, "The Good Neighbor Tour," was chosen because of its timeliness. The subject matter for this study was prepared by the chairman of international relations of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Frolic Beggs, with the help of the Pan American Union. The club is indebted to Mrs. Durrett and her program committee in adapting the material and outlines to present this splendid program.

[illegible] talks on "Latin America and the United States" and "Ancient Civilizations of America" given by Mrs. C. C. Johnson and Mrs. P. L. Perot.

Mrs. Perot said in part:

"Ten thousand years ago, or possibly earlier, primitive Asiatic peoples seeking new hunting grounds discovered America.

"Their history up to the time of the arrival of the Europeans was rich and eventful and the development of civilization was most rapid where communication was most free.

"The advantage, however, was lacking between the early inhabitants of America and the rest of the world because they were separated by thousands of miles of water, so their cultural development was from their own efforts.

"In reconstructing the story of the ancient civilizations of America the archaeologist is entirely dependent upon what time and the elements have left on the soil.

"The story of the emergence of some of the tribes from their purely savage state began with what the archaeologists term the Archaic period. [illegible]

"It was [illegible] from Mexico [illegible] that the most highly developed civilizations of America were located.

"One became localized in the valley of Mexico, another in Guatemala and Yucatan, with a third in Ecuador and Peru.

"The first people to appear in Mexican history are the Toltecs with their traditional capitol at Tula.

"A trip to Mexico would not be complete without a visit to the pyramids, which is only a short trip out of Mexico City. These pyramids are unlike the pyramids of Egypt in that they were not designed as burial places but as temples dedicated to the worship of their two principal deities, the sun and the moon.

"Standing at the base of the pyramid to the sun all you can think of is colossal, incredibly colossal, stupendous in size.

"The pyramid to the sun is 216 feet high and about 750 feet at the base, built in five terraces graduating to the top.

"It doesn't take much imagination to picture the long religious processionals in those days, when the living hearts of human victims were the only satisfactory sacrifices for these bloodthirsty gods.

"The steps are today in perfect condition and it is a heroic struggle to climb them, but the effort is well worth while.

"Another even more interesting, if not as impressive, is the temple of Quetzal Coalt's court. On this temple is the barbaric sculpture of the plumed serpent. It is surrounded by a vast court of smaller pyramids.

"The legend is that this great culture god, after instructing the people in the arts, departed eastward over the sea, promising to return in a year. His skin was the color of the Spaniards and he also had a beard like them, so when the Spaniards appeared in the year for the return of their god, their priest, Montezuma, was very skeptical toward them, and had the Aztecs fought to kill instead of to capture they would have destroyed the small forces of Cortez."

STORY OF STATE TOLD IN FOLDER

Light Company Program Inaugurated To Attract Industry

The program to attract industry to Louisiana recently inaugurated by the Louisiana Power and Light Company should result in the greater utilization of gas for industrial purposes in the greater Monroe gas fields, according to a statement made yesterday by C. C. Boardman, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

As industry looks southward for new locations, the Louisiana Power and Light Company, in keeping with its slogan, "Helping Build Louisiana," is attempting to attract new plants and factories to the state through the wide distribution of a "visualizer-map," Mr. Boardman said.

Prepared by the industrial sales staff of the company, this map is being sent to industrial executives throughout the country. Listing the basic industrial resources for manufacturing profitably in Louisiana, the folder is designed to highlight the many advantages offered by the state's vast natural resources.

The attractive folding piece uses cellophane overlays to locate railroads, highways, navigable waterways, sulphur deposits, gas fields, electric transmission lines and oil fields.

Stressing the abundant supply of raw materials available within the state, such as cotton, sulphur, salt, limestone, lignite, clay, sand, ramie, sugar, petroleum, natural gas, tung oil, timber, gravel, shells, starches, soybeans, and bagasse, the folder tells of the vast opportunities that Louisiana offers to industries in search of desirable locations.

Favorable year-round climate and 10-year tax exemption, plus loyal native labor, are listed as other notable features in Louisiana's bid for industrial expansion.

"The growth of our company," stated W. O. Turner, president of the Louisiana Power and Light Company, "is dependent upon the progress of the people we serve. Our efforts in their behalf have a profound effect upon our existence as a better service organization."

The accessability to Latin-American markets through the port of New Orleans is given as another favorable condition affecting the establishment of new industry. Rail, water and truck lines spread throughout the state, linking it with outside markets.

Growing Latin-American trade, limited possibilities for further growth around concentrated industrial centers, and the desirability of inland locations account to some degree for the opinion of business forecasters that the South affords one of the most promising areas for industrial development.

Farm Notes

It's harvest time in Ouachita parish and that means it's time to make final entries in the record books for the farm families working with the Farm Security Administration, said P. G. Boyd and Margy L. Campbell, FSA supervisors.

"Many of the 300 families on the FSA program have kept accurate record books," they said. "And they have all the monies they have made and spent entered in their record. Some of the families are learning the importance of record books for the first time.

"Record books are just as important to the farm family as they are to the merchant or banker, because they show the farm family what farm enterprises are making money and which ones are losing money and should be improved or discarded," they said.

Mrs. Margy L. Campbell, home management supervisor, pointed out that in many cases the farm wives have learned that their surplus vegetables, sales of chickens and eggs are more important than the income from the few acres of cotton. Knowing this, the farmer and his wife have an opportunity to plan to increase the sales of these home produced foods.

The FSA supervisors pointed out that at this time of the year when farm and home plans are being discussed that the record books are important because they are essential in making the plans for the coming year. They urged the FSA farm families to complete their record books now so that they will be able to make better farm and home plans for the 1941 crop.

Farm families working with the FSA in Ouachita parish will have an abundant supply of canned and dried foods for use this winter, Mrs. Campbell said.

"So far, the 284 FSA families have conserved 38,137 quarts of home grown vegetables; 14,641 quarts of fruits; 13,669 pounds of dried fruits and vegetables; 789 quarts of beef and pork; 268 gallons of syrup; 3,630 bushels of potatoes and other vegetables, and all of the families have from one to eight hogs to kill this fall for meat and lard."

Farmers have had good feed crops, and the reports show that they have 25,000 bushels of grain, and 600 tons of hay for winter use, said P. G. Boyd, rural supervisor.

"Are Sin, Disease and Death Real?" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, October 13, 1940.

The golden text is: "He that is our God is the God of salvation; and unto God the Lord belong the issues from death." (Psalms 68:20).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "And the inhabitant shall not say, I am sick; the people that dwell therein shall be forgiven their iniquity." (Isa. 33).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Sin, sickness, and death are comprised in human material belief, and belong not to the divine mind. They are without a real origin or existence." (p. 286).

Meditation: Subject, "God Helps By Changing People, Not Things."

A crippled soldier was being wheeled past a shrine at Lourdes. A girl standing near whispered, "Poor fellow, does he think that he will recover his two lost legs?" The man overheard her, and said simply, "No, but I shall get the courage to do without them."

It is not necessary for God to alter the physical facts of life to help us. He can change our attitude toward those facts. That is the way He most often helps. As says Colonel R. H. Fitzhugh:

He asked for strength that he might achieve; he was made weak that he might obey. He asked for health that he might do greater things; he was given infirmity that he might do better things. He asked for riches that he might be happy; he was given poverty that he might be wise. He asked for power that he might have the praise of men; he was given weakness that he might feel the need of God. He asked for all things that he might enjoy life; he was given life that he might enjoy all things. He has received nothing that he asked for, all that he hoped for. His prayer is answered. "And He said unto me: My grace is sufficient for thee: for my strength is made perfect in weakness. Most gladly therefore will I glory in my infirmities that the power of Christ may rest upon me."

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH
West Monroe
C. Karlos Smith, Pastor

To every Methodist and friend of Methodism in West Monroe: We are now nearing the close of this year's work, and if you are to have a part in the great progressive activity of our church you must attend the last few weeks of the services. After today we will have only four more Sundays before the meeting of the Louisiana Annual Conference. If all the members and friends of our church will rally to the church at this time we will have the greatest report ever to go up to the conference from the West Monroe church. Let us forget visiting and trips for the next few weeks and attend every service in our church. Great things have already been accomplished and yet there is still much work to do before the closing of the year. Be sure and make your plans to attend Sunday school and church services today and for the next four Sundays. Sunday school at 9:45 a.m., with Mr. R. M. McClendon as our superintendent. Church services at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., with special music under the direction of Mr. G. C. Williams as director, assisted by Mrs. Jack Willis at the piano and a fine choir. Visitors welcome at every service. The church needs you, and you need the church.

STONE AVENUE METHODIST CHURCH
Corner Of Stone Avenue And South Third
I. L. Yeager, Pastor

The story is told that a victory against cannibals was once gained by the use of tacks. They had taken possession of a whaling-vessel, and bound the man who was left in care of it. The crew, on returning, saw the situation, and scattered upon the deck of the vessel a lot of tacks, which penetrated the bare feet of the savages, and sent them howling into the sea. They were ready to meet lance and sword, but they could not overcome the tacks on the floor.

We brace ourselves up against great calamities. The little tacks of life, scattered along our way, piercing our feet and giving us pain, are hard to bear. Really, it is easier to dispose of those great questions which cover the world than it is to meet and successfully overcome the little worries which present themselves day by day.

If we, each individual, will only keep our own life in conformity to the will of God, we will then, have gone far toward world-wide victory and peace.

To all who do not attend service regularly elsewhere, we cordially invite you to come with us in the services of the day, beginning with Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Morning worship at 11 o'clock. At this service the Lord's supper will be taken. We observe this as a Christian ordinance, and not merely as a membership ordinance. All Christians are welcome. Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p.m. Mrs. J. E. Zufall was appointed as leader of meeting. Evening service at 7:30. Mid-week prayer service Wednesday evening at 7:30.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

There will follow the election of all church officers for the ensuing year and delegates to the district assembly which convenes in Lake Charles November 6 to 8. District Superintendent C. E. Dodd of Alexandria will be in charge of the business meeting. All members are urged to be present. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30.

THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN
Grammont At Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Minister

An earnest effort is under way seeking to enlist all of our members as faithful attendants on the worship services of the sanctuary. It is the opinion of the church fathers that loyalty to worship services will revive, arouse, and encourage the membership. Will you unite with us in our determination to make the attendance unusually large? Not less than 300 are expected at the morning worship hour. This plan will carry through December, 1940.

Our minds will be turned to "The Christian's Conviction About God" this Sabbath. Who Is God? What do we know about Him? And at the evening hour we will give our first messages on Habakkuk. The first four verses of chapter one present the question of the Seer. The women of the Auxiliary will lead in the prayer and praise worship Wednesday October 16.

A cordial welcome awaits our worshippers.

Book Review Features Meeting Of Miro Club

Fifth District President Gives Talk At First Meeting With Mrs. F. C. Bennett Hostess

The first meeting of the Miro Book Club was held Monday afternoon with Mrs. F. C. Bennett, hostess. The president, Mrs. J. E. Whitfield, presided.

The year's club work will consist of reviews of modern fiction and non-fiction and the departments of General Federation.

The program for the afternoon was a book review of Dorothy Park Clark and Isabel McLennan McMeekin's novel, "Show Me a Land," by Mrs. M. M. Munholland.

Mrs. J. M. Russell gave an interesting paper on "Modern Education."

Mrs. Leola Nixon, Fifth District president, of Ruston, talked on the subject of "Advantages of General Federation."

Mrs. Munholland said in part in her review: "Dorothy Park Clark and Isabel McLennan McMeekin, who in 'Show Me a Land,' collaborate under the name of Clark McMeekin, write of their home state, Kentucky, and the sport which played such an important part in its growth, with the affection and knowledge which only long association can bring.

"Life in the great plantations of Virginia and Kentucky from 1816 and 1875 is the setting of this stirring historical romance. The story is shot through with all the color and excitement attendant in the racing and breeding of horses, the principal occupation of the wealthy planters of the time. Great men, Audubon, Lafayette, Clay, Morgan, Lincoln and others enter the story. The trek into the Kentucky wilderness, the disastrous cholera plague which swept through the Bluegrass Country in 1833, the Lafayette ball, the Civil War, the first Kentucky Derby—these and other historic facts create an authentic background in which the fictional characters move and take on a reality and a three-dimensional quality seldom attained in a novel.

"At sixteen, spirited Dana Terraine went with her father to the Aintree Fair in England to buy blooded horses for their Virginia stables. Here she met Rike Gaiphin, and the two impetuous young people fell violently in love. From then on the affairs of Dana and Rike cross and recross in spectacular episodes which the reader will follow with breathless interest. The final outcome of their tempestous romance is a happy one, but happy only after they live their own lives in their own manner, fighting their own battles, facing their own hardships, making their own mistakes, either too stubborn to confess their love for each other, or kept apart by events beyond their control. The plot of 'Show Me a Land' is an original one; and its many fresh and interesting angles and sidelight will keep the reader in a continual state of excitement, carrying him from one page to the next with eager anticipation."

At the conclusion of the program the hostess served refreshments to the following members and guest: Mrs. A. L. Peters, Mrs. J. M. Russell, Mrs. S. M. Collins, Mrs. William Whitfield, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. J. R. Calhoun, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. J. T. Pugh, Mrs. J. E. Whitfield, Mrs. J. B. Collins, Mrs. M. M. Munholland, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. C. C. Lindley, Mrs. H. M. Venable, Mrs. H. V. Collins, Mrs. Leola Nixon of Ruston and Mrs. Mulhearn of Alto.

DIRECT MILITARY AID TO AMERICAS

against democracy, that it had succeeded in Europe, but that "on our continent it will fail."

"The core of our defense is the faith we have in the institutions we defend," the president asserted. "The Americas will not be scared or threatened into the ways the dictators want us to follow. No combination of dictator countries of Europe and Asia will halt us in the path we see ahead for ourselves and for democracy.

SUPPORT F. D. R.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The St. Louis Post-Dispatch (Independent), which opposed President Roosevelt's reelection in 1936 and which often has been critical of his policies, announced in a Sunday editorial its support of the president for a third term.

"No combination of dictator countries of Europe and Asia will stop the help we are giving to almost the last free people fighting to hold them at bay."

That, in its essence, appeared to be his answer to the creation of the German-Italian-Japanese alliance.

"We arm to defend ourselves," the president said. "The strongest reason for that is that it is the strongest guarantee for peace.

"The United States of America is mustering its men and resources, arming not only to defend itself but, in cooperation with the other American republics, to help defend the whole hemisphere.

"We are building a total defense on land and sea and in the air, sufficient to repel total attack from any part of the world. Forewarned by the deliberate attacks of the dictators upon free peoples, the United States for the first time in its history, has undertaken the mustering of its men in peacetime.

"Unprecedented dangers have caused the United States to undertake the building of a navy and an air force sufficient to defend all the coasts of the Americas from any combination of hostile powers."

Asserting that "we have learned the lessons of recent years," Mr. Roosevelt said that it could not longer be disputed that forces of evil bent on conquest of the world would destroy whomever and whenever they could destroy.

The people of the Americas, he said, reject the doctrine of appeasement, recognizing it as a major weapon of the aggressor nations.

Appeasing them by withholding aid from those who stand in their way, he said, would merely hasten the day of their attack on us.

He emphasized that "this country wants no war with any nation, this hemisphere wants no war with any nation."

And, on this side of the ocean, he said, there is no desire and will be no effort on the part of any one race, or people, or nation, to control any other.

"So bound together," Mr. Roosevelt said, "we are able to withstand any attack from the east or from the west."

"The naval and air bases, strung out in the Atlantic from Newfoundland to British Guiana, were acquired from Britain for the defense not only of the United States but also for that of the entire hemisphere," he declared.

Yet he admonished Americans of all types not to question the possibility of danger from overseas.

"Why," he asked, "should we accept assurances that we are immune? History records that not long ago those same assurances were given to the people of Holland and Belgium."

Reiteration that no nation in this hemisphere has any desire to subjugate the others, he said that none of these countries was considered "second class."

Striking out, then, at fifth column and propaganda activities, he added:

"We know that attempts have been made and we know that they will continue to be made to divide these groups within a nation, and to divide these nations among themselves.

"There are those in the old world who persist in believing that here in this new hemisphere the Americas can be torn by the hatreds and fears which have drenched the battlefields of Europe for so many centuries.

"Americans as individuals, American republics as nations, remain on guard against those who seek to break up our unity by preaching ancient race hatreds, by working on old fears, or by holding out glittering promises which they know to be false.

"We are determined to use our energies and our resources to counteract and repel the foreign plots and propaganda, the whole technique of underground warfare originating in Europe and now clearly directed against all the republics on this side of the ocean."

bomb broke a water main and demolished the house above them.

Said a man who was rescued:

"Water rushed into the basement and there was not much chance. I was buried by debris. The water came up to my chest. Neighbors got me out in about half an hour."

KILLED IN WRECK

LONDON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Three persons, or more, were killed tonight and many injured in the mysterious wreck of a London-bound express which railway workers thought was caused by a bomb.

There was some doubt, however, as to whether the express—speeding toward London in the blackout—had in fact been hit by a Nazi bomb or had been wrecked by something else.

One possibility discussed was that some such implement as a wheelbarrow had pitched from a loading platform and become entangled in the wheels of the engine.

Porters at a nearby station said they heard a loud screech followed by a crash that "sounded just like a bomb." Air raid wardens and demolition squads were the first rescue workers to arrive at the scene of the wreck.

TO PLACE STATE ON SOUND BASIS

proportion is 20 cents to every dollar. We must learn to live at home."

Jones said the agricultural agencies of the state had been reorganized and an aggressive campaign to aid farmers of Louisiana would be instituted.

In that connection, the governor said the experiment station at Calhoun would be "rebuilt and revitalized" for the benefit of farmers of Northeast Louisiana.

Governor Jones told the crowd that the army's training program in Louisiana would attract a tourist trade which would help business conditions in the state.

This, he said, will be in addition to $150,000,000 he estimated the army itself would spend in a year's time training between 100,000 and 200,000 troops from Michigan, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Minnesota and other states of the Middle West.

"Why, when all those troops come down into the sunny southland here, where I told the army they could be well-trained," Jones said, "their wives, their mothers and fathers, and their sisters and their brothers and their sweethearts will come down too on visits and spend their money.

"They'll buy gasoline and sandwiches and pay rent. All of you, especially you people here in North Louisiana, are going to profit by this."

But the governor emphasized while the army training might last a year or two, even as many as four years, the army training would end sooner or later and the basis of a more permanent prosperity must be sought.

Jones declared his administration already had succeeded in bringing $50,000,000 in new industrial construction to Louisiana and would seek to create more permanent jobs. He urged a balanced "live-at-home" agricultural program so farmers could take care of themselves in any eventuality.

Urging ratification of the 28 proposed constitutional amendments in the Nov. 5 general election, he made no reference to the fifth congressional campaign in which E. L. Gladney faces Rep. Newt Mills for the Congress post in next Tuesday's primary.

Governor Jones was introduced by C. C. Bell, president of the Ouachita Valley Fair Association.

The fair, which is drawing to a close, attracted large crowds yesterday and last night and officials were well pleased with attendance throughout the week, it was said.

TRIAL SCHEDULED MONDAY FOR FOUR

which had had a flat tire. Gartman stepped from behind a tree and fell in a hail of shots. The convicts, still forcing their hostages to accompany them, fled on foot.

On the morning of September 3, Conley, one of the ring leaders of the prison break, was shot and killed by possemen on a levee bank. That day Boyce and Fowler split from the others.

On September 4 McHarg, Heard and Landers sent Miss Williams out of the woodland with a message they would release the other two hostages if they were given an automobile and guaranteed safe passage through the police lines. The bargain was refused. A short time afterward the convict trio was taken and Miss Diamond and young Harrigill delivered without harm.

The same day Boyce and Fowler kidnaped one man and then let him go. A short time later they stopped a car containing Mrs. H. L. Irwin, Denison, Tex., Mrs. C. E. Eldridge, Monroe, and their nephew, Woodrow Wall, also of Monroe. They kidnaped the two women and the youth and headed for Mississippi. Near the Vicksburg bridge they were accosted by officers who commanded them to surrender. Boyce did but Fowler attempted to shoot it out and was slain by the police. Young Wall was slightly wounded.

Boyce was made a party to the murder indictment since he was with the others when Gartman was killed, according to the records.

Football Roundup

tory. Penn, touted as a powerhouse, looked that part in a 50-7 defeat of Yale, a licking unprecedented in Eli football history.

Away to a fast start when Jim Noble dashed 81 yards to a touchdown, Fordham's Rams gave Tulane its third successive defeat, 20-7, and moved into the front rank of Eastern powers along with Boston College, 33-20 conqueror of Temple; and Navy, which spotted Princeton a touchdown and then rolled over the Tigers, 12-6.

Columbia's well-trained Lions bowled over Dartmouth, 20-6; Syracuse rebounded from the Northwestern rout to shellac New York university, 47-13; Penn State nosed out West Virginia, 17-13; Colgate won from Brown, 20-3, and Holy Cross stopped Carnegie Tech 18-0.

The Wake Forest boom suffered an abrupt collapse as Clemson rolled up a 39-0 count in a Southern conference struggle. Virginia Military halted Davidson, 13-7, and William and Mary won over Virginia Tech, 20-13, in other conference games.

Mississippi gave new evidence of terrific power as it romped over Georgia, 28-14, in a Southeastern conference clash. Auburn and Mississippi State, Vanderbilt and Kentucky played 7-7 draws in the same sector. Alabama and Tennessee rolled over minor foes in preparation for their pivotal game next week.

In the Big Nine, Iowa Hawkeyes hurdled their first conference hurdle, Wisconsin, 30-12. Indiana and Purdue both were beaten by outside rivals, Indiana bowing to Nebraska, 13-7, and the Boilermakers to Michigan State, 20-7.

Texas Longhorns remained undefeated, thanks to a closing rally that tripped Oklahoma, 19-16. Arkansas upset favored Baylor, 12-6, in a Southwest conference game. Paul Christman passed Missouri to a 24-13 victory over Kansas State in a Big Six engagement. Kansas won over Drake, 20-6.

The Texas Aggies helped bolster Southwest prestige by earning a hard-fought 7-0 decision over U. C. L. A., as a crowd of 60,000 looked on. Washington State and Washington chalked up Pacific Coast conference decisions, the former over California, 9-6, and Washington over Oregon, 10-0.

Stanford's amazing Indians nosed out Santa Clara, 7-6, before 60,000 and thus became the Far West's only unbeaten, untied array.

Colorado, defending Rocky Mountain Big Seven champion, knocked over Utah State, 26-0, as Utah, a perennial threat, tripped Arizona, 24-0, in a non-conference test.

daylight attacks on London and the Kent and Sussex areas, and returned after nightfall to spread further ruin and distress.

The Royal Air Force engaged them throughout the day and at night began its own offensive, operating in Germany and with particular vigor along the French, Belgian and Dutch coasts.

German torpedo boats based on the channel coast, presumably at Cherbourg, sallied out to give battle to British light naval forces, but the results of the engagement were not made known.

In England, at least three persons were killed and many injured when an express train was derailed after an explosion. There were hints of sabotage, one version being that a barrel rolled in front of the engine as it drew near a station. This version said the barrel caused the derailment.

In the Far East, the first Americans, about 100 wives and children of business men, sailed from Tokyo for home on the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Russia, heeding the advice of the state department that they leave the Orient before trouble starts. In Washington, Secretary of State Cordell Hull said the liners Washington and Manhattan shortly would be sent to the East.

to make the game faster and cleaner instead of stopping it altogether."

President Roosevelt traveled through Ohio during the day, visiting army and air bases and getting ovations from crowds.

Both Democrats and Republicans joined the Roosevelt party in Columbus. Republican Governor John Bricker welcomed the president and then with Floyd F. Green, the Republican mayor, rode in the president's automobile. Also joining the president were a group of Ohio Democrats, including Martin L. Davey, Bricker's opponent for the governorship.

The circulation of a pamphlet entitled "Democratic Campaign Facts—1940" and which discussed Willkie's German ancestry attracted attention in New York.

Asked about it by reporters, Gregory Coleman, publicity man of Democratic National Chairman Edward J. Flynn, said the pamphlet was being distributed by the colored division of the Democratic national committee.

Alan Valentine, director of the National Committee of Democrats-for-Willkie, said the pamphlet was a "low smear" and that "I'll wager any odds that no American negro ever devised such a smear."

Charles Poletti, New York's Democratic lieutenant governor, in a Columbus day speech, condemned any attacks upon Willkie because of his German ancestry, asserting:

"We know that Americans of German extraction have demonstrated their true allegiance to this country and their willingness to defend it to their last drop of blood."

Representative Ditter, Republican, Pennsylvania, said in a statement at Washington that "an increase of 100,000 in WPA rolls throughout the nation, scheduled for this month, the month before the presidential election, has turned the spotlight on the political use of the WPA by the New Deal." He said the WPA administrator told a house committee in April that there would be an increase in WPA rolls in October and November and that the administrator commented that he presumed it would be interpreted as an attempt to "'influence the election.'"

"The WPA officials," Ditter said, "could not have known when he made that statement in April what the unemployment situation of the country would be in October and November, but he did know there would be an election in November."

An assertion that "it is Wendell Willkie and not Franklin D. Roosevelt who believes in his heart that he is 'indispensable'" came from the National Committee of Independent Voters. The committee is headed by Senator Norris, Independent, Nebraska, and Mayor LaGuardia of New York. The statement accused Willkie of using an "astonishingly big 'I'" in the campaign and of "consummate arrogance."

WHAT'LL THEY DO NEXT?

ROCK HILL, S. C.—(AP)—It may be that a hen in the yard of Samuel Thunderbird Blue, former chief of the Catawba Indian tribe, had world conditions in mind when she started laying eggs shaped like peace pipes. Blue says the only way he can explain is that the hen hangs around and watches Mrs. Blue make pipes out of clay. Anyway, the hen has been producing pipe-shaped eggs for some time.

PLYMOUTH THE "ONE" FOR '41

Business Women Hold Banquet At Virginia

Miss Kate Perkins Addresses Annual Gathering With Theme Of 'Making Democracy Work'

A week of varied programs in which the place of a career woman in the community's progress was emphasized, came to a brilliant close for members of the Business and Professional Women's Club when they met on the Virginia Hotel roof for their annual banquet.

Beautiful flowers, everywhere in evidence, created an atmosphere of festivity, and formed a decorative setting for the beautifully gowned club members, all of whom wore evening models.

A conversational interlude before the serving of dinner was one of the interesting features of the evening.

The table was candelit and fragrant with the perfume of many flowers overflowing from oblong plaques placed at intervals along the board.

The toastmistress, Miss Maibel Hood, in handsome Como blue evening model, introduced the club president, Mrs. Jennie Thornton, who wore a pale rose-colored evening model.

Even though the entire assemblage was in festive mood, a note of seriousness crept in when members took a long look both forward and back. They took advantage of this opportunity to take stock of what their sex has done in the past and what they are doing now that they have the vote. Not only the Business and Professional Women, but all club women are looking ahead and discussing the things that women want for themselves and the nation, and how these things are to be obtained. CHAPTER XXV

[illegible]

"We shouldn't be here," she repeated, but he only smiled. It was then that Vera came out of old Ross Clark's office.

"So he did come," she said, looking at Sue Mary in her usual calm, poised, assured manner. "Well, now we can call it a night."

Sue Mary sat down suddenly. Her legs refused to hold her up and again she felt panic taking control of her. She wasn't alone.

Mr. Flanagan and his men should be here. But were they? She wondered if they were here now. How much had they seen and heard?

She felt enough confidence in Flanagan and his men to believe they controlled the situation. Yet being with Nick was nerve-wracking enough.

Vera was stuffing some papers into her bag. "Let's go. She knows—that is unless she's a complete half-wit."

Sue Mary felt feminine indignation rising within her. "Half-wit?" she repeated angrily.

"You can't do anything about it now," Vera told her calmly. "I knew you saw too much the other night when I was here. The only way to keep you from talking—just in case you did understand what was going on—was to make you a partner. That's why you're here tonight.

"So you are in: in on whatever goes on here, and you hadn't better talk unless you want to blow yourself right out of a job and into plenty of trouble. You just do as we say and everything will be all right. Won't it, Nick?"

But Nick wasn't looking at Vera. His gaze was on Sue Mary.

"We can talk later," he said to Vera without turning toward her. "If you've got the stuff you'd better get going. Someone might come. We've been lucky so far."

"All right, let's go then."

"I'll come down in a minute," he said.

"What's stopping you from coming now?"

He turned to her abruptly, "Maybe I want to say something to Sue Mary."

"Well, you can say it at the apartment. If it isn't safe for me to stay here, then it isn't safe for either of you." Vera's briskness wasn't so emphatic.

"I said I'd be along in a minute. Start down. I'll meet you in the lobby."

Vera walked out and Nick waited a moment. Then he turned to Sue Mary and drew her to him.

"Kiss me," he told her. "Nothing's going to happen to you. Stop trembling. You're in this, but you belong to me and we're going to come out ahead. Right on the top—"

"No, Nick. Let me go."

His lips were on hers again for an enless eternity. Vera's voice, furious and cold, broke them apart.

"So that's it. You had to talk to her. Natalie was right. You're in love with the little fool."

Her voice rose to a high key. "You've used me just as you used her. Maybe she isn't the only fool. But you won't get away with it this [illegible]

[illegible]

"Nice people," Flanagan said to Sue Mary. "I'm sorry you had to go through this, but it seemed the safest way. Get them here as though nothing was going to happen and then nab them.

"You've helped us plenty. Most people want to help these days but too many of them let their imaginations run wild. But this—this was the real thing. You've done your part tonight."

She felt a glow of gratitude, but her eyes were on the clock. She wanted to get to the hospital. They might be operating on Joe even now.

"Sure, I know," Flanagan was saying. "You're worried about the boy friend. Well, get along. I'll put you in a cab. I have a hunch you're going to find everything all right. You deserve to have it that way."

Sue Mary didn't remember much about the ride. She walked down the corridor to Joe's room. Suppose it was empty! Suppose he had gone to the operating room never to return! She met the nurse at the door.

"Tell me—is he—?"

"He's fine. They won't have to operate. It will be a tough struggle back, but he's out of danger. And you can go in—just a second though."

A second—It was a whole lifetime. The beginning of a new life, she thought, standing by Joe's bed watching his regular breathing, touching his helpless hand. It was a new life and no matter what happened around them, no matter what problems arose in this strange, confused world they would face them together.

The curtain moved gently in the breeze and a faint sound of music came from a radio in another wing of the building. It was midnight and a station was signing off.

"God bless America—"

She leaned over and kissed Joe's lips.

LATE MODEL CARS SHOWN TO PUBLIC

Manufacturers' Association Put On Colorful Exhibition At N. Y.

By David J. Wilkie
(Associated Press Automotive Editor)

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—A quarter of a million dollars worth of 1941 model automobiles, commercial vehicles, accessories and gadgets were placed on display by the Automobile Manufacturers' Association today in a setting designed to emphasize hemisperic unity and the productive resources of American industry.

It was the 41st annual national automobile show—an "all-American presentation" for the first time in many years because of the absence of any foreign exhibitor and participation by Henry Ford for the first time in more than three decades.

Four floors of Grand Central Palace were devoted to the showing. There were 18 makes of passenger cars and eight of commercial vehicles.

In addition there were 40 old time cars, veterans of some famous speed contest or endurance tour, to dramatize the progress made in four decades.

The show opened this afternoon with greetings from President Roosevelt, who wrote to Alvan Macaulay, president of the Automobile Manufacturers' Association, that "it is a tribute to this nation's productive ability that the automobile companies, now joined in mass production of armaments for defense, at the same time are providing improved vehicles to meet the needs of our population."

The new models, all longer, lower and wider, with more emphasis than ever on "eye appeal" were displayed against a background of the national colors of the Americas—the red, white and blue of the United States and the flags of 22 American nations.

For the industry the show marks the formal inauguration of the 1941 model year—a year which the car makers generally believe will see the production of approximately 4,600,000 vehicles with a wholesale value in excess of $3,000,000,000.

During the model year just ended the industry assembled 4,285,000 units with a wholesale value of $2,827,000,000.

In the 1941 models long, sweeping lines give renewed emphasis to the impression of speed to spare. Engine power has been stepped up in most models, automatic transmissions have been extended to additional models and little has been left undone in the way of styling refinement.

Predominating in styling, of course are two-toning trends, interiors designed to harmonize with the outside paint job, wider seats made possible by the elimination of running boards in many models and the general improvement of upholstery and instrument panel design.

Nash Motors took the show opening as occasion to introduce its new "Ambassador 600" model, with which it will invade the lower price field. Also given its initial public presentation at the show was Willys' new "Americar" (a four-cylinder model of "big car" design).

The show will continue through October 20.

GOV. JONES TO FLY TO ST. LOUIS MEET

Governor Sam Jones said here today that on Monday he would leave by airplane from New Orleans for St. Louis where he will deliver the principal address at the annual session Monday night of the Mississippi Valley Association.

"I am going in the interest of bringing more commerce to Louisiana down the Mississippi valley," Jones said. "I want to tell them the advantages of Louisiana for business and trade.

"That's one of the aims of my administration, to bring more business to this state to create more jobs and bring more money to Louisiana.

"Part of my job as governor is to sell this state to the rest of the country. After that I'm going to South America to visit those countries down there and sell them too."

PROGRAM OUTLINED FOR TREE PROJECT

Ouachita Parish farmers who plan to take advantage of the provisions of the soil building payment in connection with planting of forest trees this year are advised to contact D. L. Bornman, county agent, or I. E. Lucas, parish AAA assistant, at an early date in order that arrangements can be made for a cooperative order of seedlings.

Those farmers who wish to order seedlings direct may do so by contacting the state forestry service, New Orleans, Mr. Bornman stated.

Regulations of the AAA provide that any farm may earn, in addition to any other payment for the farm, $7.50 per acre for planting forest trees, the payment not to exceed $30 for any farm, according to the report.

These trees must be planted by December 1 in order to qualify under the 1940 program, Mr. Bornman stated. Trees which may be planted are black locust, catalpas, all species of pines and red and white oak. Planting must be done at the rate of 1,000 trees per acre for short leaf and loblolly pine and black locust and 700 per acre for slash or long leaf pines or hard wood varieties. This calls for a spacing of 6 by 7 feet for locust, short leaf and loblolly pines and 8 by 8 feet for hard woods and other pines.

Unusual Opportunity

One of the deep South's strongest financial organizations wishes to employ a local sales representative of character and ability. No previous sales experience, however, is necessary and compensation will be arranged during training period. This is an unusual opportunity for an aggressive young man who has a sincere desire to form an advantageous connection, to secure valuable training and increase his earnings through persistent personal effort. All applications, with at least three references, must be made in writing to Box 418, care this newspaper. A personal interview in this city will then be arranged with promising applicants.

DRAFT QUESTIONS INVOLVE PROBLEM

Boards Must Decide If Men Can Be Spared For Year's Training

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following story answers numerous questions in connection with the draft law, which goes into operation next Wednesday with the registration of sixteen and a half million men between the ages 21 through 35. It is the third of a series. The fourth and final story appears Monday in the News-Star—World.)

By E. C. Daniel

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Can your family, your employer, your business, your city, state and nation get along comfortably without you for a year?

When applied to each of the 16,404,000 men between 21 and 36, that question becomes the nub of selective service. Deciding it will be the greatest single problem of the draft, and potentially the most troublesome one.

Standing guard constantly against favoritism and political pull, the Selective Service Organization will take an inventory of manpower to determine who can be spared for the army, after this fashion:

Within five days after the drawing of a lottery in Washington to determine the order in which draft registrants will be called to service, registrants will begin receiving copies of a lengthy questionnaire. Mailing in daily lots of 50 for each county or each 30,000 of population should start about October 26 to October 31.

The questionnaire makes more than 100 inquiries into the physical and mental condition, number of dependents, citizenship, income, religious beliefs, criminal record and employment status of the registrant. It must be answered and returned in five days. Answers on dependency, income and physical condition will be confidential.

Several of the answers require supporting affidavits. The registrant must swear to or affirm the entire form. Local boards will welcome any additional written evidence that the registrant may attach. A local registrant advisory board of three lawyers and associate members will help anyone who applies.

Each questionnaire will be examined by the board when it is returned and the registrant will be placed tentatively in one of four classes:

Class 1: Available for service.

Class 2: Deferred because of occupational status.

Class 3: Deferred because of dependents.

Class 4: Deferred specifically by law or because unfit for military service.

With certain exceptions, there will be no group exemptions of entire occupations and industries such as the shipyards classification which caused a scandal in 1917. The exceptions will include college students working for degrees, who will be deferred until next July 1, members of the land or naval forces, certain government officials, aliens who have not applied for citizenship, clergymen, divinity students, conscientious objectors, habitual criminals, felons, traitors and former-soldiers, sailors and marines discharged unfavorably.

Each case of deferment will be decided by the local board on its own merits. A man's importance to his job, no matter whether the job is blending perfume or milling gunpowder, will be the main consideration in occupational deferments. Getting a job in a so-called "defense industry" won't help.

The regulations say that the boards shall defer "any registrant found to be a 'necessary man' in any industry, business, employment, agricultural pursuit, governmental service or endeavor, or in training and preparation therefor, the maintenace of which is necessary to the national health, safety and interest in the sense that it is useful or productive and contributes to the employment or well-being of the community or the nation." In deciding who is "necessary," however, the boards are advised to consider national defense, too.

Deferment, nevertheless, will be only for the purpose of allowing a man to be replaced if and as soon as he can. Continued neglect or refusal to replace a man might result in his being called anyway. At least every six months each deferred man's case will be reviewed, and deferment will end when the causes for it cease to exist.

Each state will have one or more army or navy officers as advisors on occupational deferments and for every 70,000 of population there will be a group of local advisors.

Although there will be no group exemptions, the question of replacement obviously will not arise for the unemployed, the idle rich, WPA workers without dependents, and those whom one official calls "racketeers, loan sharks, drug-store cowboys, pool-room hangers-on, bar-flies, etc."

While the law requires that every man placed in class 3 shall have relatives or foster children actually dependent upon his earned income, regulations advise local boards to show "sympathetic regard" in filling class 3.

"Any reasonable doubts in connection with dependency should be resolved in favor of deferment, and in doubtful cases the local boards should be mindful of injuries which may be expected to result from separating a father from his children or a husband from his wife."

Those in class 4 will include men with certain previous service in the land forces, certain officials, non-declarant aliens, clergymen and divinity students, conscientious objectors available only for civilian work, and those physically, mentally or morally unfit.

A sympathetic attitude has been promised toward men with religious training or belief as conscientious objectors. Any objector whose claim is denied by a local board may get a hearing by the department of justice, but the department's findings do not bind the local board.

Each registrant will be notified of his classification. He, in turn, must notify the board if his status changes so as to affect his classification. Those tentatively placed in class 1 will be called for a physical examination. They will be notified of the results. Those with defects will be reclassified in class 4. A medical board of specialists will consult in doubtful cases. (Class 1 will include temporarily deferred students and those who volunteer without waiting for the draft.)

It is the duty of each registrant to see that he receives his classification and examination notices. He or anyone claiming to be a dependent may appeal from a class 1 classification. Appeal boards of citizens representing all community interests will be set up for each 70,000 registrants. Government appeal agents attached to each local board or the state and national selective service directors also may appeal to protect the government's interests.

No man should pay anyone for handling his appeal, helping him answer his questionnaire or attesting his signature. The system provides ample free assistance. He may attach additional papers to his record for consideration by the appeal board, but neither he nor anyone else can appear before the board, though personal appearances before local boards are permitted. Final appeal to the president is remotely possible under stated conditions.

No physician or board member can pass on the classification of a near relative or business associate.

'REAL REPRESENTATION'

Ruston, La.
October 12, 1940.

To the Editor:

During a time of great national danger like the one confronting us (God alone knows what is ahead of us in the future) politics should be forgotten, personalities should be put in the background, and only the welfare of the nation considered. It is with this thought in view that this article is written.

In the coming election for member of Congress from the Fifth Congressional District, there are two candidates—Newt V. Mills, the incumbent, and E. L. Gladney. The main question before the people of this district is not the welfare of Mr. Mills nor of Mr. Gladney—it is the safety and welfare of this nation. What does it matter to a mother and father whose son is dying in battle under the sea, on the sea or land, or in the air, which man is in Congress, Mr. Mills or Mr. Gladney—just so the best man is there. So again, I repeat, it is not the interest of either of these two gentlemen we must consider now, but the interest of the country.

Which of the two men is the better qualified to serve this nation in our national Congress during the time of its peril? Not which one of them needs a job, but which of them does this country need during these perilous times, in Washington?

This question is hardly debatable. There are hundreds of people in the Fifth Congressional District that heard Mr. Mills in his campaign two years ago, say all over this district that we ought to take our navy out in the ocean and sink it to save expense—that we didn't need any navy anyway. Suppose we had taken his advice. Just suppose we had! A man whose judgment was so poor, and so wrong just two short years ago, is a dangerous man to have directing the destiny of our nation at a time like this. The risk is too great; and there is too much at stake—our very existence may be at stake in a world gone mad with war. How about the other man? Mr. Gladney is a World War veteran. He has seen service in his country's armed forces. He is a recognized leader. He was elected by 12,000 members of the American Legion in Louisiana to be their state commander—the highest office in the state organization. He is quiet and composed, he is a success in private life. He is a gentleman of the highest type, he is a student of government. He is a soldier.

There you have a true picture of the two men: one going over this district waving his arms and advocating sinking the navy just two years ago. The other a soldier who served his country well, honored and respected and loved by his buddies. You mothers and fathers whose boys doubtless will be wearing the uniform in a few weeks, which of these two men do you want in Washington directing the destiny of your boy? The choice is yours next Tuesday.

Before the next two-year term in Congress has expired, you may have cause to thank God that Boots Gladney is in Washington instead of Newt Mills. Two years is a long time with Hitler loose in the world.

Yours for real representation,
T. R. COLVIN

FHA TO CONTINUE PRESENT POLICIES

Will Not Discriminate Against Men Of Military Age In Actions

There will be no disposition on the part of the Federal Housing Administration to discriminate against men of military age in considering their applications for home mortgage insurance, F. L. Bailey, FHA state director, said here yesterday.

Assurance that this will be the FHA policy during the emergency was communicated to Mr. Bailey by Federal Housing Administrator Stewart McDonald, who made a similar statement earlier this week in Washington.

"Men who are able to qualify in all other respects will not be denied the benefits of mortgage insurance in purchasing their homes because they are of military age," Mr. Bailey said.

"I have been advised by our Washington headquarters that the Federal Housing Administration is in complete accord with the disposition of Congress to protect the interests of those who may be called into military service. At the same time it will be the policy of the Federal Housing Administration to preserve the rights of lending institutions under their insurance contracts while enabling them to extend to those who enter military service the protection to which they are rightly entitled. It is my understanding that our regulations are being amended to bring this about.

"During the emergency the Federal Housing Administration will welcome and accept applications for the insurance of home mortgage or modernization loans on the same sound basis as in the past."

Happenings At Capital

By Richard L. Turner

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Where the inflammable Far Eastern situation is concerned, the United States and Britain appear finally to be working in close harmony. This is the plain conclusion to be drawn from the week's events, and it is a significant new development.

In the past, British and American policy has been widely divergent. Even under such an intense opponent of appeasement as Winston Churchill, the British have been disposed to make concessions to Tokyo with the hope of avoiding major difficulties in the East at a time when all their energies are needed at home.

Thus, three months ago, the British closed the "Burma road," the only remaining avenue through which munitions and other supplies from the outside world might reach beleaguered China. It was hoped, British officials said, that this might bring peace between China and Japan, with a resulting stabilization of the Oriental situation. But, far from being appeased, the Japanese drove on, and then announced their military alliance with Germany and Italy.

The United States, meanwhile, was following a different course. It protested the closing of the Burma road. It began squeezing economic pincers upon Japan, notably through an embargo of scrap iron and steel for which the island empire had drawn heavily upon the United States.

Then, this week, within the space of a few hours, these things happened:

Churchill announced that the Burma road would be reopened and said significantly that Japan could expect no help from her German and Italian allies so long as the British and American fleets were afloat.

Lord Lothian, the British ambassador, called on President Roosevelt. As he left the White House, he told reporters he had cancelled plans for an immediate return to England. His government, he said, anticipated a possible crisis in the Orient and wanted him in Washington in case it arose.

The United States called a halt to subsidized exports of wheat to ports controlled by the Japanese—a gesture, but an important one—and urged all American citizens in the Orient to leave possible trouble zones.

Thus, it was apparent that London and Washington were following similar courses on Far Eastern affairs, at last. The British appeasement policy had been dropped. No such policy ever existed where the United States was concerned.

Could Japan retaliate? Officials here profess to be scarcely worried about the answer to that question. Worn by the strain of her long and continuing war in China, frail economically, and out of reach of her allies, Japan, they said, would hardly be so foolhardy as to court a war with the United States.

As for lesser measures of retaliation, the Philippines lie exposed, some trade measures could be undertaken, and life could be made difficult for Americans who disregard their government's warning and remain at the potential danger spots. To ward off any such actions as these, the United States has a double-edged weapon at hand—an embargo on imports of Japanese silk. Japan counts on her silk sales to finance a big proportion of her foreign purchases. Such a move, it is estimated, would prove a body blow to her war economy. And Japanese leaders, officials say, certainly must realize it.

Nevertheless, there are some here, including the congressional bloc opposing American policy on European affairs, who are worried at the trend of things. Just as they have contended that the administration's policy toward the war in Europe was leading us into that war, they are now expressing fears that we will become involved in hostilities in the Far East.

WOMEN COCKS IN ARMY SUGGESTED BY SINGER

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Lily Pons, the petite singer, expressed belief today that women should be permitted to help out around the barracks for Uncle Sam's conscripts.

"Why not?" she asked interviewers. "Why shouldn't women keep house for their men in camp like they do at home?

"A man's place is not in the kitchen. We could provide real home cooking for the boys, maybe hang curtains and provide domestic atmosphere. I like the idea."

● SERIAL STORY

NEW YORK JUNGLE

BY WRAY WADE SEVERN

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Illustrated by Ed Gunder

"On that last hunt in India, Adam was clawed by a tiger. . . . If Hugh hadn't been along . . . You must have heard the story."

CHAPTER I

Intent upon reaching Adam Langdon's country home before the storm broke, Sidney Braitwood urged his car upgrade, through a framing of low hills russet and gold now in the resurgent splendor of early autumn. Braitwood was aware that the charming young actress beside him had turned to open the window, as if her emotions stifled her and she needed more air. He made no comment, though the simple action moved him deeply.

Marta Hempfield and Adam Langdon had been his friends for years. He believed the bond uniting them to be the rare one of real love. But now a rift had come between Marta and Adam. How deep, or what the cause, the lawyer could only guess.

Marta was a poem in her way. Tall, brunet, with warm hazel eyes and vivid coloring, she possessed a woman's greatest gift, ineffable grace of movement.

Broadway had acclaimed her for five grateful years. Inevitably, she knew her worth, yet there she was on her way to Langdon's for the week-end, although undoubtedly Adam had offended her. Braitwood could not understand it.

"Something has gone wrong with Adam, Sidney," Marta said, out of a troubled silence. "I've a premonition about it."

She hesitated and added, "Always, when he's returning from an African hunt, he cables me as soon as he gets into civilization, and from then on I hear every day until his ship docks in New York. This time I had a solitary cable from Capetown saying he intended sailing on the Baron Graham. When the Baron arrived, I was playing a matinee, but Adam would know why I hadn't met him." Her hands locked and the blood-red gleam of Langdon's ruby shone through the thin texture of her glove.

Should he tell her that Adam had not sailed on the Baron Graham? Sidney weighed it, pro and con.

Adam's tall, blond engineer cousin, Hugh Langdon, had received a cable, too. Hugh had met the Baron Graham only to learn that Adam had not even booked passage on the ship.

Sidney and Hugh had discussed all sorts of reasons for Langdon's non-appearance. They had even mentioned kidnaping and murder. Then Langdon's valet had telephoned them that his employer had returned and wanted them for a week-end to see his new specimens. Better not increase Marta's anxiety, Braitwood decided.

"Do you imagine Adam is angry because of Boris Lesencoff again, Marta?" he asked. "Boris is at the Wilkensons' this week. If he knows you are at Langdon Knoll, he will be over—unless we head him off."

"As a man, Boris has never meant anything to me. Adam should know that by this time," Marta replied. "But, of course, as a director Lesencoff is priceless."

"If the storm holds off we'll have Adam's own explanation in less than 20 minutes," Sidney commented cheerfully. "When he invited you up for the week-end, why didn't you ask what was wrong?"

"If you mean why didn't I ask when he telephoned the invitation—Togi did the telephoning for him."

"Are you sure he didn't call himself while you were out? Maids have forgotten messages before this," Sidney puzzled.

Marta swallowed nervously. "Not Statia, under the circumstances," she said. "I'd never have accepted the invitation, if a sixth sense hadn't told me to. Before Adam left for this hunt I asked him to give it up. He has had too many closeups with death in the jungle.

"It worried me. On the last hunt, in India, a tiger mangled his arm. If Hugh hadn't been along with his cool nerve and instant aim, it would have been all over. You must have heard the story?"

Braitwood nodded. "The Langdons have always hunted," he said. "I can't imagine them deprived of the excitement."

"I realize that," Marta sighed. "It has even occurred to me that Adam might have been disfigured in another accident and that he dreads meeting us but knows he must."

"Hardly that," Sidney argued. "Adam is not the man to shock his friends without preparation."

Apparently reassured, she did not pursue the idea, and they drove on in silence.

Why has Marta never married Adam Langdon? Sidney asked himself the question for the hundredth time. It would have been an ideal match and he knew that Langdon had always wanted it. Marta had always refused, yet she had held Adam's friendship to the exclusion of other women. Probably she thought a closer tie would injure her profession.

Hardly had they drawn up under the porte-cochere of the rambling old stone house Langdon's grandfather had built as a retreat for an all but insane wife, when the storm broke in full fury. Rain beat against the car and wind whipped their clothing about them as they ran across the veranda to the door.

It seemed to Sidney that they waited a long time for admittance. He had time to observe that the garden had been neglected and that dead leaves covered the veranda. Finally they heard the patter of soft feet and Togi, the Japanese valet, admitted them. The man appeared nervous.

"You have bad trip in storm?" he smirked. "Come upstairs to rooms, please. Change clothes or catch cold. I bling cocktails."

"Tell Mr. Langdon we are here, Togi," Marta directed. "We'll find our own way to our rooms."

The valet's smile became strained. "Mr. Langdon has not yet return from drive, Miss Hempfield. "Storm delay, I think. I bling cocktails."

A new anxiety leaped into Marta's eyes and she turned toward the room she had always occupied on former visits, a large suite over the drawing room.

"Scuse, please, Miss Hempfield," Togi stammered. "Mr. Langdon say he like you have nice, large room on third floor. I show."

Imperiously Marta turned. "I prefer this room," she said. "Tell Mr. Langdon we are here, as soon as he comes in."

Before the lawyer could make a suggestion, Marta had flung open the door of her old room. It was a beautiful room. It had been furnished especially to flatter her tall beauty, but now a pair of small mules that could never have fitted her lay on one of the chairs. On the dressing table was a gold-backed toilet set with a monogram that was not hers.

For an instant Sidney thought she might faint. Whenever afterwards he caught the fragrance that had permeated that room, he was to see her face as it looked then, lips shriveled under their coral lacquering, nostrils pinched, eyes tragic. He knew then that however often she had refused to marry Adam Langdon, she loved him with all her heart.

"What about those cocktails, Togi?" he said.

When the soft steps of the valet had died out of hearing, Sidney turned to Marta. "You've played difficult parts before, Marta. Are you equal to this one until we get out of here?" he asked.

"I can't think clearly. It is all so out of character for Adam," Marta murmured. "Give me a moment and—I'll be equal to any part."

Togi stood by their side. Hands shaking, he served them.

"Careful, Togi," Marta was smiling. "To whom has Mr. Langdon given my old room?"

KEEPER OF BODY IN WAX IS FREED

KEY WEST, Fla., Oct. 12—(AP)—Karl Tanzler Van Cosel gained his liberty today after a week spent in jail while police investigated the strange love that impelled him to keep a young woman's body in his bedroom for seven years.

He faces prosecution in Monroe county criminal court at a term beginning November 11 for "wantonly and maliciously" disturbing the contents of a tomb. He has been declared legally sane.

Property bond of $1,000 was provided by Joseph Zorsky, tourist camp proprietor once befriended by Van Cosel, and Benjamin Fernandez, barbecue stand operator whom he did not know.

As soon as he was released, Van Cosel went back to the abandoned warehouse on the outskirts of this island community where he took the dead body of his young love and preserved it in wax.

Friends said they would seek to keep the elderly German X-ray technician away from the shack that holds so many memories for him and would find him a home elsewhere.

It was recently announced that the WPA would immediately expend $7,-572,037 for national defense airport facilities for the army and navy.

Firestone Auto Supply To Offer Trucking Companies New Service

New State Law On Heavy Load Is Easily Solved

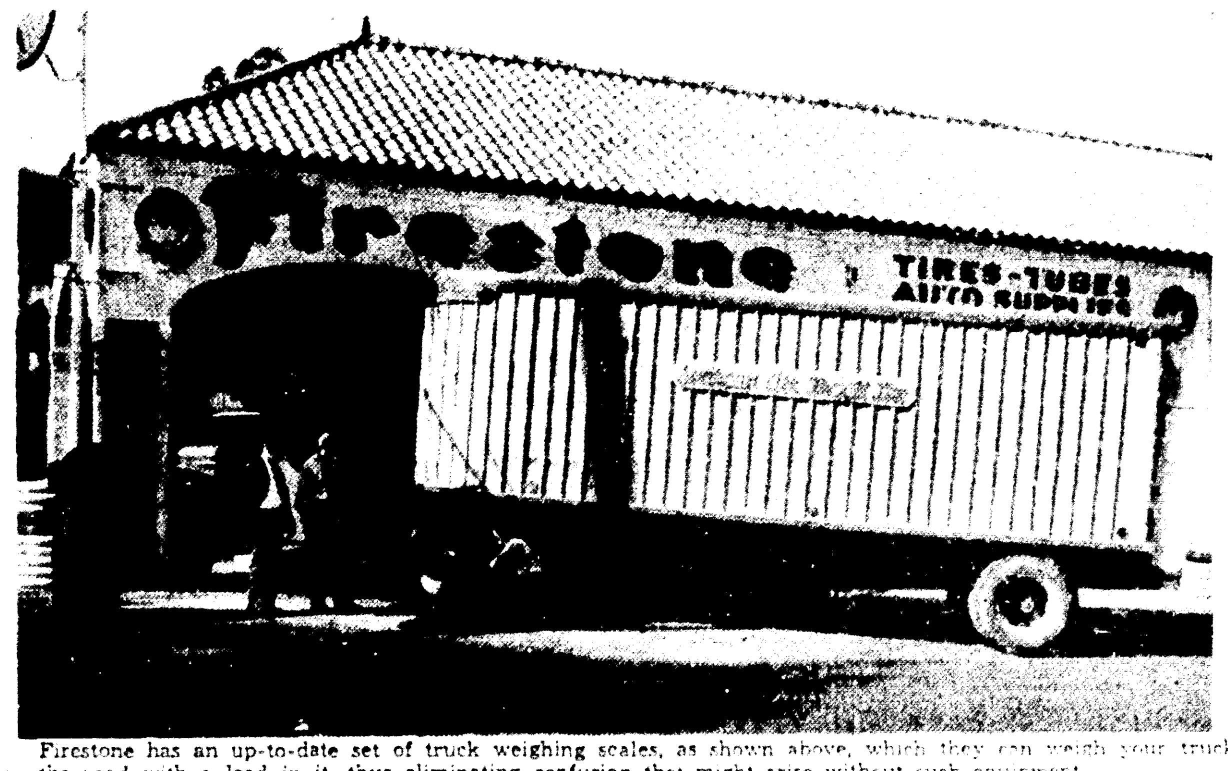
The Firestone Auto Supply and Service Store, 300 North Third, wishes to offer their assistance to all truck operators who have any wheel or spacing problems. New state laws soon to go into effect are going to necessitate many of the larger truck operators replacing their present tire equipment with newer and larger sizes. In many instances these tires will have to be mounted on larger wheels, thus creating space problems.

Unless the truckers are definitely sure of the load that they are carrying and the weight of the truck, it is quite necessary for the truck to be weighed and their load to be analyzed so as to arrive at the proper size tire to equip the truck according to the new Louisiana laws. Firestone has an up-to-date set of tire weighing scales with which they can weigh your truck on the road with a load on it, thus eliminating much of the trouble and confusion that would often arise in trying to analyze a load without such equipment. These scales are recognized by the Louisiana State Police as being accurate and suitable to use for the above purposes. Firestone will be glad to arrange to have men weigh and analyze the trucks of any local company. A telephone or a personal call will bring one of Firestone's truck tire experts to your place anytime that you might want him.

In addition to being able to weigh trucks, Firestone also has complete and detailed information, furnished by the Budd Wheel Company, with which they are able to tell just what size spacing you will need and size wheel you will need to give you the maximum in carrying capacity and tire economy.

You will find that Firestone carries a complete stock of wheels, spacing, extra studs and nuts. In fact all the things necessary in making truck tire change-overs. In addition to wheels and other equipment mentioned above, you will find at Firestone a truck tire that will give you the maximum mile per dollar service for any truck, from the smallest one-half ton pickup truck to the largest truck in operation in this part of the country. The local Firestone store is proud of the service they feel they can render and wish to extend their offer to all operators of commercial trucks.

FIRESTONE'S TRUCK WEIGHING SCALES



Firestone has an up-to-date set of truck weighing scales, as shown above, which they can weigh your truck on the road with a load in it, thus eliminating confusion that might arise without such equipment.

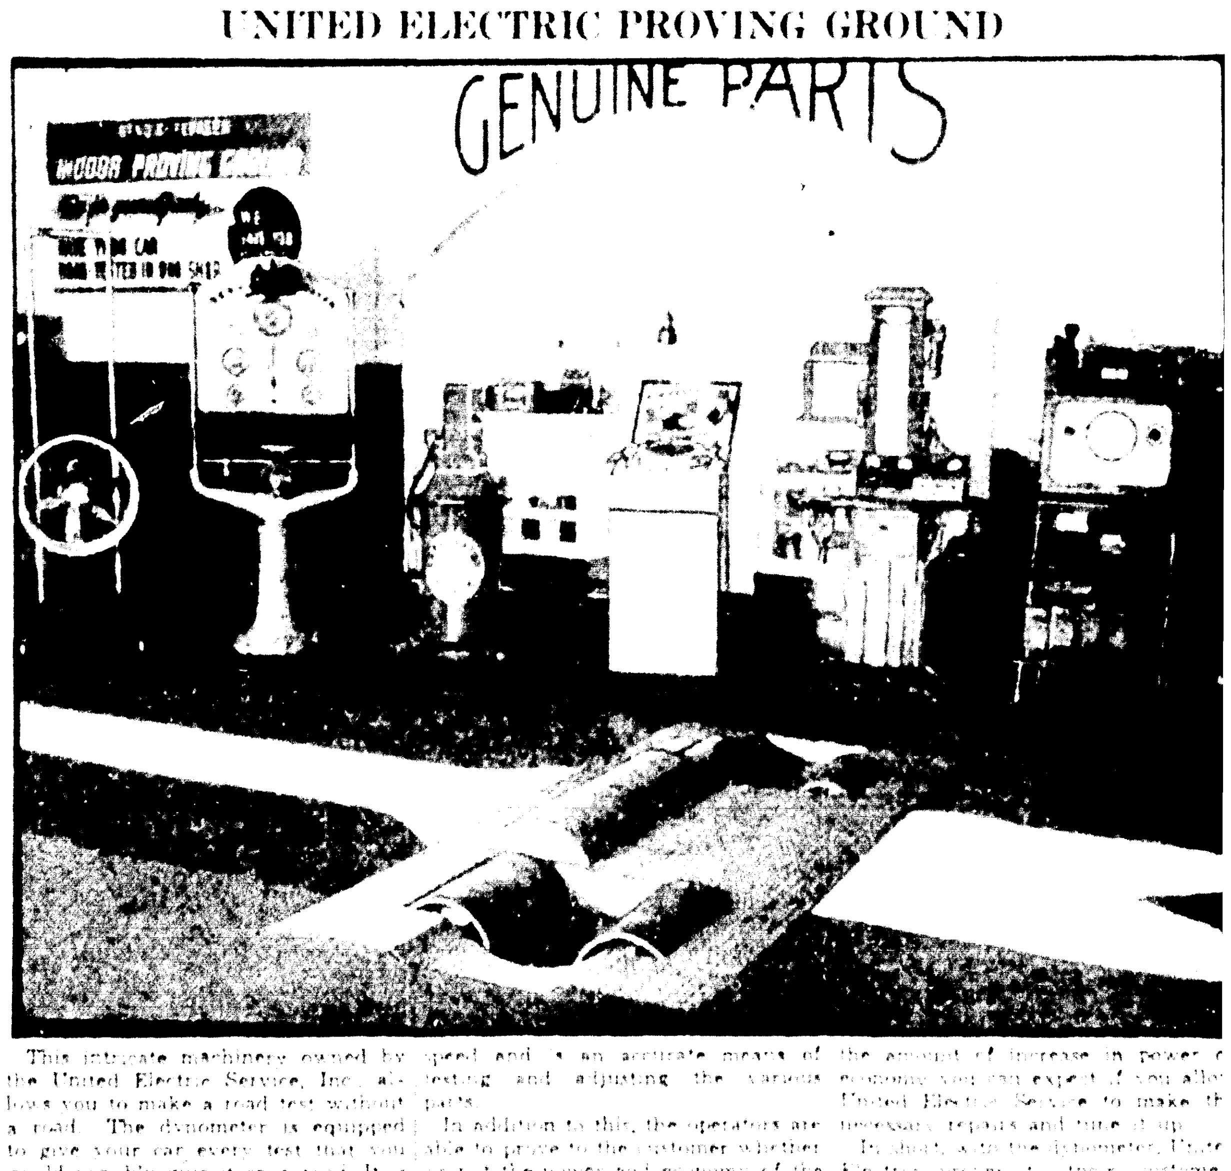
UNITED ELECTRIC PROVING GROUND



This intricate machinery owned by the United Electric Service, Inc., allows you to make a road test without a road. The dynometer is equipped to give your car every test that you could possibly give it on a road. It is an indoor proving ground. It permits whoever is making the test to climb over, under and all around the car while it is actually in motion, operating under any kind of load at any speed and is an accurate means of testing and adjusting the various parts.

In addition to this, the operators are able to prove to the customer whether or not the power and economy of the vehicle is up to average by comparison with the set of power and economy averages furnished for the later popular model car. Then too, if your car is not up to average, you can predict the amount of increase in power or economy you can expect if you allow United Electric Service to make the necessary repairs and tune it up.

In short, with the dynometer, United Electric proves to their customers whether or not his car is up to the average performance for his particular car type. Get your automobile checked up at the United Electric Service, 308 North Third street.

Many Experts Attended Monroe Beauty School

Students Find Employment Easily After Their Graduation

Since the opening of the Monroe Beauty School, 315 Harrison street, some ten or twelve years ago, more than 700 students have graduated, most of them to become experts in their profession.

Myrtis R. Dodd, proprietor, states that her school is one of the oldest and largest in Monroe and has more graduate pupils who own and operate their own shops than any other school in North Louisiana.

"Although we feature the latest methods in beauty culture and use the most modern equipment and supplies, we are continually seeking newer and better ways to train and teach our pupils," she said.

Along with every phase of beauty culture, shop management and personality is taught by strict adherence to a sound policy made years ago by the greatest experts in the profession. One of the greatest advantages of attending the Monroe Beauty school is that the graduated pupil has an opportunity to obtain experience by working in the beauty shop operating in another part of the building in connection with the school. Every graduated student receives full payment for all the work they do.

The Monroe Beauty School is a modern school and solicits all who desire to make beauty culture their profession strictly on this basis.

RICE INSTITUTE WALLOPS L. S. U. TIGERS, 23-0

Houston Team Shows Promise Of Being Hot Potato In S'west Race

By William T. Rives

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Rice Institute erased the disgrace of four scoreless years against Louisiana State by walloping the Tigers 23-0 tonight with a brutal attack that showed unquestionable Rice will be a hot potato in the Southwest conference scramble.

The Owls shocked 23,000 fans with the devastation of their drive. Louisiana State, fresh from a 25-0 thumping of Holy Cross, went into the game the favorite, as Rice had been untested against major competition.

But after a mild first period, Rice was rolling behind its great line and Louisiana State was on its heels throughout the fray.

Statistics did not give L. S. U. such a bad evening, but the figures gave no idea of the tremendous superiority of the Owls. Rice hung up 108 yards from scrimmage while the enemy truggled for 75, and first downs showed Rice with 7 and L. S. U. with 5.

The burly Rice line played as one man, but in the backfield it was Gene Keel and T. A. Weems again. The sophomores ran Louisiana State dizzy, cashing in on every opportunity.

Twice Weems scattered across the goal line, to have each run nullified by penalties.

Rice scored first midway of the second period. Keel, 155-pounder who learned his football at Fort Worth's Masonic home, pounced on a Louisiana State fumble to give Rice its chance.

With the ball on the L. S. U. 46, Keel started to pass, didn't, and slashed straight through the Tigers for a run of 17 yards. He picked up seven more at left end and two penalties, for holding and too much time out, put L. S. U. back on its 11.

The Tigers stiffened and threw Rice back to the 17, but Keel unlimbered his pitching arm and tossed one to Verlan Prichard, his favorite receiver. The sophomore end snuggled the ball and stumbled across. Bob Brumley, junior fullback, converted.

In the third, Weems sailed a beau-

TIGERS PRACTICE FOR BOSSIER CITY

Neville Eleven Journeys To Bobcat Lair For Next Tilt Thursday

The Neville Tigers will journey to Bossier City Thursday night to engage the strong Bobcat eleven in another Class A tilt.

The Tigers just got by the Farmerville Farmers last Thursday night, 20-13, scoring on three long gallops. The Neville team ran alternately hot and cold against the Farmers. Their blocking was weak, and the 62-yard sprint of Andrew Craft for one of the scores was made by sheer initiative on his part, the Tiger forwards being flat on their backs.

Only on one play did any of the Tigers show any blocking, that a 12-yard end run in the second period by Guy Miller.

The center of the Neville forward wall was ripped wide open time after time by Math Taylor, Buck and Dan Albritton. The Farmers scored their touchdowns on marches of 60 and 65 yards, featuring power drives through the center of the Tiger line.

Bossier City usually has a pretty fair Class A eleven and seems to be in the groove this year, by virtue of their 34-0 victory Friday night over the Dubach Plungers, and previous wins over Vivian and Cotton Valley. They will have the advantage of playing on their home gridiron in the Neville tilt.

This will be by far the hardest test the Tigers have had all season, except against the Tech freshmen, who beat them 20-0.

Coach Percy Brown's squad will be aided somewhat in the blocking with the return to duty of John Luffey, veteran right half, who has been out with a dislocated elbow.

The Bengals will have a scrimmage session Monday and then spend the remainder of the time until their departure for Bossier City and the game with the Bobcat eleven in trying to spruce up their defense, which gave up more first downs in the Farmerville game than they had given to three previous opponents. The pass defense also looked weak against the Farmers and will have to be strengthened for the Thursday contest.

DEMONS, WILDCATS FIGHT TO 7-7 TIE

PINEVILLE, La., Oct. 12.—(AP)—The Louisiana Normal College Demons, after 13 consecutive victories, were held to a 7-7 tie tonight by the Louisiana College Wildcats, celebrating homecoming before 6,000 fans.

Normal scored first, tallying in the second period on a 19-yard pass from Theophile Scott to Woodrow Minter. Earnest Tyler booted the extra point.

Although the Normal College team outplayed them between the 20-yard lines, the Louisiana College gridders braced when backed to their goal line, and gained the tie five minutes before the final whistle.

Don Poole, Wildcat guard, blocked a punt, Max Ulmer caught the ball in the air and outran the Normal backs 36 yards for a touchdown. Jimmy Keeth, 147-pound halfback, kicked the tying point.

Parker Wiggins, Roland Migues and Scott were the principal ground gainers for the Demons as they piled up 11 first downs to one. Normal had a net gain of 227 yards from scrimmage to 14 for Louisiana College.

Dr. Claybrook Cottingham, president of Louisiana College, crowned Miss Ruth Noone, of Buckeye, queen of homecoming between halves.

RAMS CAPITALIZE ON EVERY BREAK TO DEFEAT WAVE

Jim Noble Returns Punt 81 Yards Through Entire Greenie Team

By Whitney Martin

NEW YORK, Oct .12.—(AP)—Tulane's Green Wave only once could crash through the defensive breakers of a tout Fordham football team today, and that wasn't enough. The Rams, never passing up a break, rolled over three touchdowns for a 20 to 7 victory. It was Tulane's third loss in a row.

The 34,500 fans who sat in the Polo Grounds saw Jim Crowley's team, in its first major test, turn in two quick touchdowns in the second period and register another early in the third before the Southerners could punch out their lone score.

The first touchdown was enough to take the heart out of any team. The Greenies appeared to have everything under control, and when Jim Noble, Fordham back, caught a punt on his own 19, there appeared nothing to get excited about.

He slipped off to the left, and out of nowhere a wall of interference formed around him. Eighty-one yards he raced up the sidelines to cross the goal standing up. Stan Krivik's dropkick was wide.

The cheers still were echoing when again the Rams were knocking at the touchdown door, and they virtually had been pushed there in a wheeled chair.

A 15-yard penalty had shoved the Greenies back to their own 15 where, on fourth down, for some inexplicable reason, Fred Gloden tried to run with the ball. He was smeared, and it was Fordham's ball on the Tulane 13.

Eshmont and Filipowicz and Shedlosky took turns shooting for the mark, with Filipowicz finally driving over from the six-inch line. Steve Hudacek's placekick was good.

Midway in the third period Filipowicz dropped back and shot a short pass to Eshmont, who caught it on the Tulane 32 and made a crooked trail to the goal. This time Krivik's dropkick was good and Fordham set back with a 20 to 0 lead.

That third score, however, was the spark which touched off the Tulane offense. It had been wheezing and puttering, piling up substantial yardage, but never at the right time.

This time stocky Harry Hays took matters into his own hands. With the ball on Fordham's 47, he began a one man campaign. Nine out of 10 times he carried the ball, and his final effort saw him diving over the goal from the two-yard line. Fred Cassibry's placekick was good.

In the final moments of the second quarter Tulane, through Hays' running and passing and a 15-yard unnecessary roughness penalty assessed against Fordham, advanced to the Ram one-yard line, but a five-yard penalty set the Greenies back and the last play of the half saw Eshmont intercepting a pass in the end zone.

MICHIGAN DEFEATS HARVARD, 26 TO 0

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 12.—(AP)—The fast and mighty Tom Harmon, operating behind perfect interference, conducted Michigan to a 26-0 victory over Harvard today before a 30,000 crowd. That All-American halfback raced 14, eight and 10 yards for touchdowns during each of the first three periods and then tossed a scoring pass to substitute Paul Kromer in the final quarter.

Henderson State Teachers Next Foe Of Indian Eleven

Northeast Junior Collegian's Play In Arkadelphia Friday

The Northeast Junior college Indians will play their first road game of the season Friday afternoon in Arkadelphia, Ark., when they meet the Henderson State Teachers.

The Arkadelphia Reddies will be the second Arkadelphia opponent of the Indians, who beat Ouachita college of that city Friday night, 9 to 0, handing them their first setback of the year.

The Henderson State eleven is improved over the 1939 aggregation which defeated the Northeast Junior Collegians 20-0 last year. However, the Reddies have lost to Ouachita, 20-0, and to the Stephen F. Austin Lumberjacks, 12-6 this season.

Featuring the line play of the Reddies has been Ray Trussell, center, and Harold Maciejuewski, guard. Both are making a strong bid for All-State honors this year.

Tom Murphy coaches the Teachers and has about 44 boys on his squad, including a trio of six-foot ends in Harold Thomas, Joe Kearney and Hugh Reece. This will probably mean that the Reddies will try to pass the Indians into submission.

The Indians have looked only fair against aerials this season. The Kilgore Rangers completed five in a row against them to draw a 7-7 tie out their meeting two weeks ago. The Northeast Junior gridders showed some improvement in this department last Friday, by breaking up the majority of the Ouachita Tiger passes. This was accomplished in a large measure by knocking the glue-fingered LaFitte, 1939 Arkansas All-State high school gridder from Pine Bluff, flat on his back whenever he started down the field for a pass. He snagged only one aerial, that out of the hands of two Indian defensemen. However, the pass combination of Jackie Morrison to Oscar Smith clicked for a few minutes late in the fourth quarter for the Tigers.

The Indians uncovered another star in the Tiger clash, David Young, who started at right wing, and blocked the punt that Abraham was given credit for. Abraham did, however, scoop up the ball on the four and run for the score. Later he booted the final three points for the Indians with a 22-yard field goal. Abraham was playing the line backer and was charging fast on the fourth down.

Young, starting his first ball game for the Northeast Junior college, played a whale of a game for 58 minutes of the contest and was one of the reasons the Tiger offense couldn't get started.

Rudy Broussard also played a nice game for the Indians, breaking through and catching the ball carrier from behind or knocking a pass from his hands on several occasions.

The Indians have two other road games before playing on their home lot again. They meet the Centenary Frosh in Shreveport October 25, and the United States Naval Air Corps in Pensacola November 8.

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY BEATS DARTMOUTH, 20-6

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 12.—(AP)—A Dartmouth Indian who definitely "ain't what he used to be," was a soft touch for Columbia's footballers today, and the Lions, featuring a neat ground game and a sophomore running ace, rolled to an easy 20-6 victory before some 10,000 fans.

TECH STUDENTS TO PICK QUEEN

Will Represent College At Normal Game At Shreveport Fair

RUSTON, Oct. 12.—(Special)—Thirteen coeds have been nominated for Louisiana Tech queen, to represent the college at the annual Tech-Normal football game to be played at the state fair in Shreveport Saturday afternoon, October 19.

The students will elect a queen and six attendants from the 13 nominees. The Student Senate, in charge of the election, is sponsoring a popular-vote contest this year and has done away with the heretofore one-cent-a-vote method of naming the queen and court.

The girls will be honored with the traditional rites between the halves of the game. They will be introduced publicly and will occupy special box seats at the contest, according to J. Dargan Brooks, Rinehart, president of the Student Senate. All expenses for the queen and attendants, including transportation and a corsage, will be furnished each girl by the senate.

The 13 nominees are:

RODEO CONTESTS TO CLOSE TODAY

Final Roundup Scheduled For This Afternoon At Fairgrounds

The Ouachita Valley Fair Rodeo will conclude its successful performances at the West Monroe Fairgrounds with an afternoon roundup at 3 o'clock Sunday.

The rodeo has been one of the best shows of its kind ever held in conjunction with the local fair, officials stated. Most of the performers in the 1939 rodeo were again entrants and many of them again are among the top entries. Dick Johnson, last year's winner in the all-around contest, is among that number, turning in the fastest time in the bulldogging contest, 6.3 seconds. Sid Pearson had the best time in the calf-roping tests with a time of 17 seconds. Pearson hails from nearby Rayville.

Large crowds have witnessed the four shows to date, and the biggest gathering of the group is expected to attend this afternoon's final engagement, rodeo officials said.

Charlie Schultz, the rodeo clown, has made a big hit with the audiences with his bucking Ford and his trained burros. The bucking Ford will roll along as smoothly as any other car and then all of a sudden it will sputter and rear on its back wheels. One of Schultz's tricks with the car is to have it seemingly explode, and the motor to fall apart. But after Schultz lifts the hood and pulls out several animals and tools the auto starts hitting on all "four" again.

Charlie treats the burros as if they were his long lost brothers, taking turns about carrying them around, and even doing a fancy dance with one of them.

All winners in each of the events, bulldogging, calf roping, steer and bronc riding will be determined in the afternoon performance and the all-around winner will be the cowboy finishing with the best averages in the majority of events.

'The Golden Fleecing' At Capitol Now

Lew Ayres And Rita Johnson Co-Starred In New Comedy-Melodrama

WHEN Lew Ayres troubles trouble, trouble troubles Lew Ayres with hilarious results in "The Golden Fleecing," hilarious adventure of a timid office clerk among gangsters in a big city, coming today to the Capitol theater.

Ayres, as the clerk, is spurred to ambition by his sweetheart, played by Rita Johnson, sells a big insurance policy, gets a raise in salary, then discovers that his customer is a fugitive racketeer, liable to be "rubbed out" at any minute. To save his job he has to trail the racketeer. Then follow comical adventures which lead him into jails, into trouble with menacing gangsters, a climb along the seventh-story ledge of an office building, and other laughable mishaps and experiences.

One of the principal comedy characters is played by Leon Errol, of "rubber legs" fame, who is seen as Uncle Waldo, former vaudevillian who insists on playing his xylophone to everyone he meets and singing a ditty of his own composition, "March, March, March, the Boys Are Tramping."

Ayres has some thrills among the fun. He proves himself a boxer by knocking out Nat Pendleton, rescues Miss Johnson from racketeers and defies the gangster czar in his den. Between these and the love story the structure is entirely one of laughs.

CALCASIEU GETS FUNDS BACK FROM GAMBLERS

LAKE CHARLES, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The expensive, summer-long session of a Calcasieu parish grand jury turned out today to have been a profitable enterprise, as fines totaling $9,000 were collected from guilty-pleading gamblers indicted by the investigating body.

The heaviest penalty fell on T. R. (Bat) Gormly, operator of a roadside night club and a bar in downtown Lake Charles, who was assessed a total of $2,000 in fines after he pleaded guilty to operating gambling establishments in both places.

HITS BORDER TRADE

CALEXICO, Calif.—(AP)—Strict regulation of aliens is a headache to this American shopping center for a large Mexican trade.

Merchants said that when the visa system for visiting Mexicans was instituted July 1 business slumped 65 to 84 per cent.

Federal officials have indicated that the old system of issuing "crossing cards" to some 15,000 Mexicans will be restored shortly.

Power And Darnell In New Film

Fine Cast Features Spectacular Picture Of Early Days In West

THE epic and heroic Mormon trek along a trail of almost insurmountable odds to ultimate freedom is one of the most impressive chapters in the growth of America. Because of the valiant battle they fought to find a place where they could live as they believed, much has been written about them and their leader, Brigham Young. But it remained for Darryl F. Zanuck, production chief for 20th Century-Fox, to realize the screen potentialities of such a colorful subject. Zanuck, who has recreated many outstanding characters and events for the screen, saw in Brigham Young and his people a stirring story and decided to bring it to life. The famous Louis Bromfield was assigned to write the story for the production of "Brigham Young," which comes today to the Paramount theater.

Steel-willed, a born leader, Brigham Young organized one of the most astounding mass migrations in history, 3,000 prairie schooners, 30,000 livestock . . . a whole, orderly civilization uprooted . . . 20,000 pioneers went on the move toward new frontiers. Only the will of one man held them together—that of Brigham Young, who was to have 27 wives, build one of the world's famous cities and found a great state.

The first year at Salt Lake was one of desperate privation. Then, as if the hardships they had endured were not enough, millions of crickets swarmed out of the canyons and attacked their fields. The Mormons, realizing that they could never survive another winter of starvation, dug ditches, set fires and strove mightily to destroy the new enemy.

Brigham Young led the Mormons in prayer! Soon the sky was blackened with thousands of sea gulls, sweeping in five hundred miles from the Pacific ocean to destroy the crickets and preserve the pioneers' food supply.

Tyrone Power was given the important role of Jonathan Kent, Mormon scout in "Brigham Young." Opposite him is beautiful Linda Darnell as "the outsider." Twice denied success in Hollywood, Dean Jagger had returned to the New York stage where he had first made his mark. Last season he portrayed Jesse James in the stage hit, "Missouri Legend." Rugged, two-fisted, a capable actor, Jagger seemed ideal for the role of the Mormon leader, and got it.

"Brigham Young" has an impressive list of featured players including Brian Donlevy, Jane Darwell, John Carradine, Mary Astor, Vincent Price, Jean Rogers and Ann Todd. Henry Hathaway directed the film from a screen play by Lamar Trotti. Kenneth Macgowan was associate producer.

NOTRE DAME DEFEATS GEORGIA TECH, 26-20

Rambling Wreck Makes Two-Touchdown Rally In Final Period

By Tom Siler

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 12.—(AP)—A devastating ground attack, interspersed with long passes, gave Notre Dame's surging football machine a dazzling 26 to 20 victory over the outmanned Georgia Tech eleven today before 50,000 spectators.

The Irish, looking more like potential national champions than in any recent campaign, rolled over the invaders for three touchdowns in the second period after the varsity had relieved the second stringers who started the game.

They held this margin until the final period when a gallant Tech rally netted two touchdowns, the final one coming in the final minute of play.

After a scoreless first period, the Irish varsity moved into high gear, starting from its own 13. Seven plays covered the 87 yards, two passes gaining 43 yards before Bob Saggau tossed the payoff pass to Bob Hargrave. Steve Juzwik's placement gave Notre Dame a 7-0 lead.

Less than two minutes later the Irish again took possession on their own 40 and Juzwik cut through left tackle on a reverse and zig-zagged 60 yards down the sidelines to a touchdown.

Late in the same period the Irish began rolling again. Saggau tossed a 35-yard pass to Steve Bagarus and then Bagarus tossed one to Saggau, putting the ball on Tech's five. Saggau hit the line for a touchdown three plays later. Milt Piepul's placement was perfect.

On the subsequent kickoff, John Hancock, electrified the crowd with a sparkling 90-yard touchdown run behind superb blocking, giving Tech its first score and renewed hope of averting a rout.

The second team drove to Tech's 10 in the third period before giving up the ball on downs. Johnny Bosch sparked a Tech drive out to the 24 before forcing a punt. Bernie Crimmins blocked the kick and big Jim Brutz grabbed the ball and lugged it 13 yards for Notre Dame's final tally. Joe Laiber's placekick was wide.

The visitors were the whole show in the final period. Starting from Notre Dame's 41, Tech moved within striking distance on a 29-yard pass and then advanced to the Irish one on two successive offside penalties. Jack Bradford scored from there and Cavette converted.

With only a few minutes remaining the Southerners started again from their own 17, Bobby Beers passing 47 yards to John Bettles. Other passes and line jabs pushed the Irish reserves back to the one yard line where Ralph Plaster cracked center for a touchdown. Plaster placekicked the point with only 12 seconds remaining the game.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA BEATS ILLINOIS, 13-7

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Southern California's football machine, which sputtered to ties in its two previous trials this season, hit high gear for a single minute in the third period today for a touchdown which gave the Trojans a 13 to 7 intersectional triumph over Illinois before 30,125 spectators.

Trailing at halftime, 7 to 6, after having been outfought by an outweighted Illinois team, Southern California suddenly gained possession on the Illinois 23 after a poor punt and then smashed to a game-breaking score in a short, but brilliant display of ground power.

CLEMSON TIGERS TROUNCE DEACONS

Highly-Favored Wake Forest Eleven Thoroughly Beaten, 39-0

CLEMSON, S. C., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Clemson's Tigers, undefeated in the Southern Conference since 1936, blasted the favored Wake Forest demon Deacons from the title race today with a dazzling 39-0 performance that was nothing short of a field meet.

A crowd of more than 17,000 was amazed by the convincing display of power and precision that turned the game into a rout. The Tigers, garnering 13 points in each of the last three quarters, kept the bewildered, outclassed visitors on the run with a continual flow of substitutes.

The victory boosted the Tigers into a commanding spot in the conference race. They have only to win their two other loop games to gain at least a tie for the title, which they shared last year with Duke.

Wake Forest, upset victor two weeks ago over North Carolina, 12-0, outgained Clemson 82 yards to 42 through the air, but the Tigers ran up 214 yards rushing to Wake Forest's 41.

ARKANSAS DEFEATS BAYLOR TEAM, 12-6

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Arkansas' Raziorbacks ignored the odds today to give Baylor university's Southwest conference title hopes a 12-to-6 setback before 6,500 fans in Bailey stadium.

The vastly favored Bears were outplayed and outgained at every turn by Arkansas, beaten soundly last week by Texas Christian university.

PENN STATE WHIPS YALE SQUAD, 50-7

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Penn shoved Yale around Franklin field today as if the Elis were a grade school football team, rolling up seven touchdowns and assorted other points for a 50 to 7 walkaway before a throng of 50,000.

WASHINGTON STATE EDGES CALIFORNIA SQUAD, 9-6

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 12.—(AP)—A fourth quarter, 36-yard placekick gave the Washington State Cougers a 9 to 6 win over the University of California Bears in a Pacific Coast Conference football game today.

Bulldogs Hoping For Upset Over Demons This Weekend

CHALLENGER

Jack Curtis, clever Mississippi grappler, will wrestle Gorilla Grubmeyer Thursday night for the junior light heavyweight belt. Grubmeyer was forced to choose between Curtis and Kallio by the local promoter, who is keeping his belt as security.

Tech Expects To Give Normal Hard Tussle At State Fair Saturday

RUSTON, Oct. 12.—(Special)—Summarizing a lot of thoughts the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs have had in their minds a long time, in regard to their game with the Louisiana State Normal Demons at the state fair in Shreveport Saturday afternoon, it seems that the Techmen are bracing themselves for a "very interesting" contest.

A poll of the Bulldog squad several weeks ago showed that they wanted to win the Normal game above all others, with a close second choice for victory against Centenary.

The "dope" obviously points toward favor of the Demons, who this fall have successfully defended last year's undefeated record.

"We realize that we are at some disadvantage from the standpoint of Normal's superior man power," the Tech chief mentor, Joe Aillet, observed. "There is another disadvantage for us in that the Normal coaches and players know as much about our pass defense as we do," Coach Aillet added, in referring to the fact that he was assistant coach at Normal before coming to Tech this year.

"Our reserve strength, which now seems to be lacking, will undoubtedly be considerably improved by next year, since we will have several standouts coming up from this year's good freshman team. We are looking forward to that, rather than attempting to augment our depleted ranks this season with new material from junior colleges.

"We are very well satisfied with the progress of the Tech varsity this fall, however," Coach Aillet continued. "They are not bad 'turnips' for a short crop."

He elucidated upon the latter remark by explaining that last year, while he was coaching at Normal, the Demons' stellar halfback, Gus Boucher, slipped away and got into a turnip patch adjoining the football practice field and grazed therein while the rest of the Demons were engaged in setting up a defense against a coming foe.

"Ever since Boucher ate those turnips," Coach Aillet recalled, "Normal has had the idea that turnips make the man, for Boucher was not bad as a football player. When I came here, the first thing I wanted to do was to set out some turnips, but they had new buildings planted everywhere at Tech and roads were being built all around the place, and I had to abandon the idea.

"But regardless of the turnips, the boys have done fine and I for one will stick by them. Their morale has been good all along and we are depending upon them to help make a real ball game at the fair, even though the chances might seem to be against our winning.

"With satisfactory weather conditions, followers of both Tech and Normal will see one of the best games to be played in the state this year," Coach Aillet declared.

GORILLA FORCED TO MEET CURTIS

Kallio Makes Grubmeyer Put Belt On Line For Thursday Card

Gus Kallio, local wrestling promoter, took the junior light heavy title belt away from Gorilla Grubmeyer, after their match last Thursday and refused to give it back to him until he agreed to meet either him or Jack Curtis in a championship bout. The Gorilla, just getting through with a tough go with Kallio, chose Curtis, saying "he can't be any tougher than Kallio."

So that match will headline the weekly grappling card Thursday night at the Monroe wrestling arena. The bout will be for the best two falls with 90-minute time limit. Grubmeyer will not be able to back out of the title part of the match, as he did with Gus last week.

The semi-final match will feature a return bout between the outstanding leg grappler, Yaqui Joe, and one of the best of the younger neck-twisters, Bob Corby, who is an exponent of the arm-hold style of grunt and groaning. These two wrestlers fought to a draw two weeks ago, each taking one fall and then going the remaining time without either being able to pin the other.

Kallio defeated the junior champ last Thursday when he took one fall from him and then the Gorilla was disqualified because he repeatedly socked the referee, Butch Martin, and his opponent. Kallio won his fall after 25 minutes of hard going with a series of head spins and a front crab hold. Grubmeyer had refused to lay his belt on the line just before entering the ring. And as he saw the more clever Kallio, holder of the middleweight title for over 10 years, getting the best of the match, he resorted to his noted rough tactics, finally in desperation hitting the referee to get him out of the way and pave the way for using his tactics on Kallio to finish him off.

Yaqui Joe and Bob Corby each won a fall in their meeting two weeks ago, the Indian with an Indian flank hold and the Atlantan with a headlock and arm stretch. This return bout should furnish plenty of scientific wrestling for the fans, while the main event is likely to be a little on the rough side with the Gorilla one of the participants.

MUSTANGS, PITT PLAY TO 7-7 TIE

Southern Methodist Badly Outplayed, Finally Scores On Pass

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Outplayed at every turn, Southern Methodist's favored Mustangs flashed their famed aerial wizardry in the fourth period to deadlock Pitt 7-7 in an intersectional football battle before 39,000 today.

Trailing 7-0 and showing little offensive punch early in the fray, the Southwest Conference title aspirants took the ball on their 41 and Ray Mallouf heaved to Bob Baccus on the 34 as the final stanza opened.

Johnny Clement picked up a yard and then Mallouf pitched a 33-yard aerial to substitute Bill Thomas for the touchdown, Thomas booting the extra point.

Guard Rudy Gradisek put the Panthers in scoring position by recovering Clinton McClain's fumble on the Mustangs' 31.

Bob Thurbon ploughed to the 16 for a first down and "Special Delivery" Edgar Jones heaved to Jack Goodridge on the two. Jones then rifled a pass to Thurbon for the score seconds before the half ended. Mike Sekela kicked the point.

WILDCAT ELEVEN IS HELD AT BAY FOR 55 MINUTES

Sanders, In Hospital, Gives Team Pep Talk By Remote Control

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Held at bay for 55 minutes by the inspired play of Vanderbilt's stalwart line, Kentucky's veteran Wildcat eleven bounded back today with a late scoring surge to gain a 7-7 deadlock with the Commodores in the Southeastern Conference opener for both teams.

With less than two minutes to play, Charlie Ishmael, driving fullback of the Wildcats, rushed across for a touchdown from the three-yard line to climax a push that started on the Vanderbilt 43.

With tie or defeat depending upon his efforts, Quarterback Junior Jones calmly planted a placement kick squarely between the posts for the point that saved Kentucky's unbeaten record.

Until then, however, the favored Wildcats, seeking their fourth consecutive victory and their second in history over the Commodores, had seen the best efforts of their fleet and elusive backs smash futilly against the gallant Vanderbilt defense.

Sent onto the field with a dressing room pep talk over loudspeaker by their coaches, Henry (Red) Sanders from the hospital room where he is recovering from an appendectomy, the Commoores struck quickly in the first quarter for their seven points and then held on grimly.

A 23-yard pass from Mickey Flanigan to Halfback Binks Bushmaier, who took the ball on the 15 and scampered over untouched, was Vandy's scoring method. Jack Jenkins placekicked the extra counter.

JACK CRAIN STARS IN TEXAS VICTORY

Pulls Game Out Of Fire With Beautiful Run Against Oklahoma

DALLAS, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Cowboy Jack Crain clattered down shadow-swept sidelines after all seemed lost today to pull University of Texas through to a dramatic, 19-16 football triumph over numbed Oklahoma.

Forced to their knees at the outset by bronzed Jack Jacobs, a Creek Indian brave and a football player if one ever suited out, Texas finally grabbed Crain's coattails and a vital break to pull the game out of the fire before 35,000 screaming fans.

The two Jacks—Crain and Jacobs—dueled all afternoon in an offensive show that made this game far and away the tingler of the 40-year rivalry of the neighboring state schools.

Ironically, the steadiest man on the Oklahoma club gave Texas the final chance at victory. Deep in the fourth period, with Oklahoma backed down to its 23, the veteran center, Cliff Speegle, bobbled his snapback to Jacobs for a fourth down kick.

The Texans swarmed in on Jacobs on the Sooner 17 and took possession. Five yards from a defensive holding penalty pushed them closer to the goal, then Crain swung deep around his left end for the winning touchdown.

Ouachita Lions Roll Over Weak Magnolia Team, 46-13

Parish High Eleven Scores At Will Over Light Arkansas Team

Scoring at will, the Ouachita Parish High school Lions ran over the Magnolia, Ark., eleven, 46-13, at Brown stadium Saturday night.

The Magnolia eleven filled the air with passes from the opening gun until the final whistle, but couldn't overtake the hard-charging Lions, who ran over, around, and through the outclassed Crimsons. The visitors tried only six running plays during the entire game and four of these netted them a loss of some 30 yards.

Coach Mack Avant used every player on his squad except Herbert Pace, James Hewitt, quarter, and McInnis the Lions' best tackle. The two Magnolia touchdowns came on completed passes against the third stringers.

The visitors used a spread formation the entire game, lining up with the two ends wide, the wings and three of the backfield men going down for passes. Talley did the throwing and displayed a fairly accurate arm, but his receivers let many passes slip out of their hands.

The Lions scored in the first minute of play when Ouachita got possesion of the ball after a punt and "Cotton" Hall ripped through tackle for 25 yards. A pass from Brown to Moncrief was good for the score and Brown booted the extra point.

A few minutes later, Pate, sub for Hall, skirted left end for 52 yards and another score with Brown again converting from placement. The Lions marched 60 yards for another score in the closing minutes of the first period and Brown converted for a score of 21-0.

Two completed passes in succession gave the Magnolia crew their first touchdown in the second period. Both heaves were snagged by Dewey Wilson. One of them traveled 40 yards in the air and Wilson ran for 10 more.

The Lions came right back with another march of 60 yards and a touchdown and Brown kicked the extra point. The half ended a few minutes later.

The Lions finished their scoring in the third period, counting three touchdowns in short order. Brown ran through the entire Magnolia team for 25 yards and the first score of the second half, but missed the kick. Hall intercepted a pass on his own forty and raced the 60 yards for another and Brown again missed from placement.

LeBlanc made the last touchdown for the Lions a few minutes later when he skirted end for eight yards. Cummings missed the kick.

The Magnolia eleven again scored against the third stringers in the fourth quarter, completing two passes which put the ball on the Ouachita two and Wilson hit center for the score on the next play.

The first downs stood at 12 for Ouachita and 7 for Magnolia, 6 of them on passes.

The Magnolia team tried 34 passes, completed nine and had seven intercepted. Ouachita attempted 14 aerials and completed five and had one intercepted.

TAR HEELS BEAT T. C. U., 21 TO 14

Favored Texas Christians Given Dose Of Wide Open Football

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Oct. 12.—(AP)—A favored Texas Christian football team got a dose of the wide-open stuff it usually dishes out as North Carolina's Tar Heels marked up a 21 to 14 upset victory today before 19,000.

Two breath-taking runs, a 59-yard dash by Jim (Sweet) Lalanne and a 70-yard sprint by Don Baker, touched off the fireworks for the Tar Heels in the second period into which they jammed all their 21 points. A fumble set up things for North Carolina to march 37 yards for the other tally.

The Horned Frogs put on the aerial show for which they are famous in the fourth quarter and netted a touchdown. It followed one they rolled out in the third period after Joe Austin fumbled the kickoff on his own 30 for Joe Rogers of the Frogs to cover.

ALABAMA TROUNCES WEAK HOWARD TEAM

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Sticking largely to straight football but flashing occasional brilliance, Alabama's Crimson Tide defeated a fighting Howard college team 31-0 on Denny field today before a sun-baked crowd of 3,000.

The Tide, pointing for next week's clash with Tennessee, displayed considerable power, especially with the first team on the field, but Coach Frank Thomas didn't reveal any of his tricks.

MOTORBOAT RACES IN MONROE TODAY

El Dorado, Jackson, And Alexandria Clubs Enter Tri-State Regatta

The Monroe Boat club will be host to the Tri-State Motorboat regatta at the Monroe Boat dock today at 2 p.m. Boats from El Dorado, Jackson, Miss., and Alexandria will take part in the six event racing.

The motorboat racers paraded through downtown Monroe and West Monroe Saturday and revealed to the afternoon shoppers a group of trim and sleek boats.

After the parade the pilots took their craft to the river for trial runs, warming the motors and making last minute repairs and changes, to insure their being in the best possible condition.

The program will feature a hydroplane race including any make or size motor and a race between passenger boats.

An event will be held for 16 horse power runabouts and another for the 22 horse power runabouts. A free-for-all with any make or size craft eligible to enter will be one of the races.

Russell Harding and E. N. London will enter their boats in the regatta, Harding's being a service runabout and London piloting a passenger runabout. The crack drivers with their speedy craft from El Dorado, which defeated the local club last month in five out of six events, will also be entered. Late Friday it was announced that the Alexandria Boat club would send four boats to enter the regatta.

There will be plenty of thrills and excitement for the lovers of the motorboat racing and hydroplaning on the Ouachita river this afternoon.

A group of local merchants and individuals are sponsoring the regatta, which has made it possible for the Monroe club to be the host. These merchants and individuals are: Hale and McNeil Ring Free Oil company, Massey's Service, Hunt and Whitaker, Knox Service, Krauss and Cahn, R. and A. Jewelry, Howard Griffin Boat Shop, Walker's Grocery, Loper Machine Works, Miller's Service, X. Holt's Service, Collins Drug, Lover's Lane Pharmacy, Eureka No. 2, Jimmie's Cafe, Green Parrot Cafe, C. R. Russell Cleaning and Dyeing company, Scotty's Service, Uneeda Grocery, Curtis Smith, Monroe Boat Dock, Fred F. Millsaps, and E. N. London.

Texas A. & M. Hard-Pressed To Win Over U.C.L.A., 7-0

Aggie Eleven Shows Powerful Defensive Play In Hard-Fought Tilt

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The big Maroon touchdown machine of Texas A. & M. ran into a heat wave and a band of fired-up Bruins of the University of California at Los Angeles today, but managed to achieve a 7 to 0 victory.

The Aggie eleven from the Southwest Conference, ringing up its 14th consecutive victory and its third straight of the 1940 grid campaign, showed a powerful defensive squad to the 60,000 sweltering fans—the temperature was in the 90's at the kickoff—but couldn't keep its scoring spark ignited to roll up a big score.

In the end, A. & M. had far outgained the Pacific Coast Conference team, and doubled the first down count, but the only score of the game came in the first quarter.

Big John Kimbrough, the Cadets' all-America fullback of 1939, intercepted a pass a few minutes after the kickoff, and the Maroon eleven began to roll. It rolled 44 yards in eight plays, with Kimbrough carrying the Bruin line for five, six, and Reserve Back Bill Conaster lending a hand with some such smashes until the ball was on the nine-yard line. Here Kimbrough hit the left side of the Bruin line, cut over and charged on across standing up for a touchdown. Dookie Pugh kicked the point.

U. C. L. A. couldn't work up much of an offensive. Its ace ball carrier, Jack Robinson, went out of commission early and out of the game in the second period, and didn't come back.

MISSISSIPPI REBELS WHIP GEORGIA, 28-14

HOVIOUS, HAPES PACE OLE MISS IN WILD BATTLE

Last Period Rally By Green Bulldog Squad Falls Far Short

By Romney Wheeler

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Bespectacled Harry Mehre, dismissed as Georgia's football coach three years ago, came back to Sanford field today with a brilliant squad of Mississippi Rebels to whip Georgia 28-14, in a wild and woolly battle.

It was the first time Mehre had returned to Athens with a competitive team and as far as Mississippi was concerned, it was a wholly satisfying "dedication" of the big Georgia stadium where 11 years ago to a day Mehre startled the football world by whipping Yale, 15-0.

Mississippi's high-geared outfit, paced by the H-boys, Junie Hovious and Merle Hapes, ran, passed and punted Georgia dizzy for three quarters, but Wally Butts' courageous Bulldogs, studded with sophomores, hung on to the end. In the final quarter little Heyward Allen, substitute tailback, cut loose with a barrage of passes which brought two Georgia touchdowns in seven plays.

It was not enough, however, to overhaul the victory-bound Rebels who scored 21 points behind Hapes and Hovious in the second quarter. The Mississippians clamped down, and two minutes later Hapes snatched Allen's pass and scooted down the sideline 70 yards for the Rebels' fourth touchdown.

Mississippi started rolling in the second period. Taking Georgia's punt on his own 31, Hovious stepped 18 yards to the 49. Then he legged it around right end for 25 more. He faded back to whip the ball to Hapes for nine more. Another pass, Hovious to Popp, was the payoff. Hovious kicked the point.

The climax of the Mississippi attack came midway in the second period when Hovious grabbed Frankie Sinkwich's punt and raced 96 yards for Mississippi's second touchdown. Pep Bennett's placekick was blocked, but Halfback Billy Sam scooped up the ball and lunged over to convert.

Hovious sparked the Rebels to their third touchdown just before the end of the half with top ripping charges for 25 yards and a 20-yard pass to End Bill Eubanks for the tally. Bennett's placekick was good.

Georgia found its stride in the final quarter. Allen whipped a 13-yard pass to big Carl Grate, and the sophomore end legged it 38 yards to Mississippi's 2. Ken Keuper scored over center. Leo Costa booted the extra point.

The second tally came on the first exchange of punts after the kickoff. Two passes, Allen to Van Davis and Allen to Woodrow Brown set up the tally and Brown stepped over. Will Burt kicked the point.

Against the precision-moving Mississippi outfit, Georgia looked far from the scoring powerhouse which overwhelmed South Carolina, 33-2, and Oglethorpe, 53-0.

A crowd of 25,000 baked in the sun-drenched stadium.

RICE INSTITUTE TROUNCES L. S. U.

tiful 68-yard punt out of bounds on the enemy 10. Two plays later, Gerald Hightower punted and Louisiana State lost the ball on its one-yard line when officials ruled it had held while the ball was aloft.

Brumley promptly plunged over and Weems kicked point.

In the fourth, Whitlock Zander, Rice fullback, intercepted a pass on the Rive 38, handed the ball to Keel and the little fellow, dancing like an Indian fakir on live coals, beat it to the two-yard line.

The 60-yard sprint was the running gem of the evening. Keel sliced down the sidelines, shedding tacklers like autumn leaves, and then cut back into the middle when he reached the 20.

Two plays later he bumped over for the score. Dick Vestal, substitute back, missed the try for point.

BOSTON COLLEGE BEATS TEMPLE EASILY, 33-20

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—A powerful Boston College eleven, showing plenty of class after a one-week layoff, kept Temple well bottled, except for three aerial forays, and coasted home, 33-20, in a free-scoring melee before 28,000 today.

Temple rallied twice in the closing frame after Boston rolled up a 26-7 lead.

LLOYD CHEATHAM SPARKS SPLURGE IN FINAL PERIOD

Maroons Dominate Play Throughout But Fumbles Are Costly

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Badly outplayed for three periods, Auburn finally broke loose with a 74-yard scoring drive in the closing minutes today to gain a 7-7 tie with Mississippi State in a clash between the two unbeaten Southeastern Conference elevens before 18,000.

It was Lloyd Cheatham, 190-pound junior quarterback from Nauvoo, Ala., who furnished the spark for the belated Tiger drive. He passed and ran to the State 10, and with one minute and eight seconds left, hurled a pass into the waiting hands of Teedie Faulk in the end zone. McGowen sent a perfect placement for the tying point between the goal posts.

State had dominated play throughout, holding Auburn without a first down in the first half, and scoring the first time it got the ball on a 47-yard drive which culminated in a 23-yard pass from Harvey Johnson to Buck Craig. Dees was inserted to kick the extra point and it was good.

The Maroon line kept the jump on the Auburn forwards and only heroic defensive work by Cheatham and Deal prevented further scoring by the rampant invaders.

When the third period ended, Auburn's second stringers made the initial Tiger scoring threat with Bill Yearout carrying 28 yards in two tries, but the Maroons sent Buddy Elrod back into the contest and he and his mates took the ball on downs on their 25.

Two exchanges of punts followed and with just four minutes left, it was Auburn's ball on her own 26. Wendling broke around his left end for 20 and they were off.

Cheatham leaped high into the air to pass to Dick McGowen for nine and big Rufus Deal broke loose for 10 more. Cheatham threw another forward to McGowen for 10, and then ran 15 to the Maroon 10.

With the seconds fleeting away, Cheatham faked another pass to McGowen, who was well covered, and sent it instead to Faulk, who was standing deep in the end zone.

State's touchdown went 47 yards. Auburn took the kickoff, made 8 yards in three tries and McGowen's punt, almost blocked by Elrod, went out of bounds on the Tiger 47.

Johnson, a Sheffield, Ala., boy, got 13 at his left end, and added 11 more in three smashes to make it first down on the 23. Craig took Johnson's pass on the Auburn 11 and ran across, Cheatham hitting him just on the goal line.

The Maroons never crossed the Auburn 20 again, but they threatened constantly, poor ball handling and numerous penalties nullifying many gains.

Besides Cheatham, the Auburn stars were Jim Lenoir, Deal, Wendling, Yearout, Eddins, Ardillo and Captain McGowen.

Today's result left both elevens unbeaten with one victory in the conference race. Lineups:

Cornell Gives Army Worst Whipping In Cadet History

Big Red Scores At Will To Run Up 45-0 Win Over West Pointers

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 12.—(AP)—A colossal Cornell football team, full of drive and savvy, handed Army the most colossal licking in 51 years of Cadet gridiron history this afternoon.

Operating with even more controlled fury than last year's all-wining combination, the Big Red team from Ithaca scored in every period, piled up seven touchdowns accredited to seven different men, and wound up on the very large end of a 45-0 score.

It bettered by 26 points the previous high for an Army shutout, set by Harvard in 1900, and by 10 points the previous high score run up on Army, 36-4, by the Princeton team of 1893.

Cornell got possession of the ball 13 times during the game, and six times it went down field to touchdowns. The seventh and last touchdown came as the result of a blocked kick, and at least three other times the Ithacans didn't even try very hard, but punted on second or third down.

They had half a dozen passers who connected with 13 out of 19 aerials for 201 yards—three touchdown tosses covered 45, 65 and 35 yards, respectively. They had hard-hitting, free-wheeling runners who operated behind scythe-like blocking to pile up 220 yards rushing.

TENNESSEE WHIPS CHATTANOOGA, 53-0

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Tennessee warmed up for its opening Southeastern conference game against Alabama next week by overruning today a plucky but outclassed University of Chattanooga eleven, 53 to 0.

Almost every man on the Volunteer squad got into the game but the first team played only a few minutes in each half.

Bill DeCorrevont Scores Lone Touchdown Early In Final Period

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Bill DeCorrevont, All-American football bust of 1939, led Northwestern to a surprising 6-3 victory over Ohio State today, dimming the Buckeyes hopes of another Western conference championship.

A crowd of 42,000 saw the 21-year old blonde halfback come through at the start of the fourth period with a touchdown gallop that brought joy to the hearts of his Northwestern admirers. It was no long run, but a bull-like thrust through the line from the five yard stripe, after a sensational pass interception.

Five plays after the fourth period started, DeCorrevont was over with the first touchdown he ever scored in Dyche stadium and as the game drew to a close, his marker overshadowed the three points the defeated Buckeyes had scored on a field goal in the third period.

MIDDIES DEFEAT PRINCETON, 12-6

Navy Team Makes Two Long Touchdown Drives In Last Half

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 12.—(AP)—A Navy team that had been vastly underrated came with an irrestible rush in the second half today to beat the daylights out of the favored Princeton Tigers, 12 to 6, before 40,000 in Palmer stadium.

There was nothing flukey about the Middies' triumph. They stamped themselves an eleven to be watched and respected as they ripped 70 and 80 yards for touchdowns in the third period and were deprived of another by a goal-line fumble in the fourth.

In storming to their scores the Middies displayed a set of brilliant running backs in Bill Busik, Cliff Lenz and Howard Clark. Clark and Busik took turns passing more brilliantly than either of Princeton's famed tossers, Dave Allerdice and Bob Peters.

CHRISTMAS FETE ON NOVEMBER 30

Annual Event Arranged By C. of C. Division Will Include Parade

The annual Christmas fiesta sponsored by the merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce has been set for Saturday, November 30, Dave C. Silverstein, chairman, announced Saturday. A parade will be held Saturday morning and a football game Saturday afternoon.

The program this year will include a parade of 20 school floats, bands and 12 displays depicting the spirit of Christmas. Seven weeks are to be spent in the construction of the floats by H. M Phipps, Memphis Tenn., decorator, aided by the local National Youth Administration. Mr. Phipps has for the past six years prepared the floats for the annual cotton festival of Memphis.

The parade this year will be the most beautiful and spectacular ever seen in this section and will be decorated with colorful papier-mache figures. The school exhibits will be larger and more elaborate, Chairman Silverstein stated.

Cooperating with the merchants' division in the Christmas fiesta will be the West Monroe Business Men's Association, of which the special events committee, headed by W. R. Hatchell, will arrange for the city's participation.

In addition to the construction of floats, Mr. Phipps and the NYA will construct some 600 Christmas bells to be used in decorating the streets of the Twin Cities together with various lights.

The city of West Monroe is purchasing an elaborate street lighting setup to be used in decorating the town. When suspended with the papier-mache Christmas bells, the streets will present a spectacle of beauty, rivaling the Yuletide theme of DeSiard street in Monroe.

An unusual feat of the fiesta will be the special deference accorded the high school queens and their courts on the fiesta day in the Twin Cities.

These young ladies will be the special guests of the Chamber of Commerce. Elaborately decorated golden crowns and scepters will be provided for them in the parade. A throne will be constructed also for the queens and their courts and one whole floor of one of the local hotels of Monroe will be turned over to the members of royalty for occupancy during the day. In addition a special radio broadcast has been arranged for them. All high school bands will be the guests of the Chamber of Commerce at the football game.

RESCUE 2 AVIATORS IN CANADIAN PLANE

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Oct. 12.—(AP)—A twin-motored plane on its way for duty with the Royal Canadian air force crashed in Tampa bay today shortly after it took off from Albert Whited airport here.

The plane was recently purchased by the Canadian government from a Puerto Rican air line and had been overhauled here.

The two aviators, C. E. Leech and R. M. Smith, were brought to the coast guard air station by the patrol boat and appeared to be uninjured. Behind closed doors they were questioned by Lieutenant-Commander C. F. Edge, head of the station.

PINEVILLE BOARD JOBS ABOLISHED

W. T. Bradford Out As Secretary-Manager, State Leader Discloses

ALEXANDRIA, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Former state Representative W. T. Bradford's position as secretary-manager of the board of supervisors of the State Colony and Training School, and the positions of members of the board, have been abolished, J. E. Snee, director of the newly created department of state institutions, said here today in announcing that O. U. Payne of Pineville has been appointed business manager for the institution near Pineville.

Dr. W. J. Rein will continue as acting superintendent of the colony during a reorganization period, Mr. Snee said.

Mr. Snee came here today on his first visit since assuming his duties as director of the new state department. He said that the colony's old board of supervisors was abolished October 1 by executive order in compliance with the reorganization act No. 47 of 1940, which created a department of state institutions under whose direction all state hospitals, reformatories and penal institutions will operate in the future.

Accompanying Mr. Snee was Mrs. Sam Jones, wife of the governor, who joined him in an inspection of the state colony, the Central Louisiana Hospital for the Insane and the state Charity Hospital in Pineville.

Members of the old state colony board whose positions automatically were abolished are Dr. H. A. White, Alexandria; Mrs. W. H. Buchanan, Alexandria; J. R. Jeanmard, Lafayette; Frank Long, Winnfield; and H. E. LeTissier, Jonesville.

Mr. Snee said that an advisory board will be named for the state colony later. No other changes in the executive personnel of state institutions are contemplated on his present visit, he said.

The annual cost of operating an automobile is said to be between $150 and $200.

HODGES TO LEAD 5TH CORPS AREA

Major General Is Placed In Command Of Louisiana, Mississippi Troops

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The 100,000 troops going into training at Camp Beauregard, La., and Camp Shelby, Miss., will be under the command of Louisiana's highest ranking army man, Major General Campbell Blackshear Hodges, 59-year-old native of Bossier parish.

The army has anonunced that General Hodges, commander of the Fifth corps area, Fort Hayes, O., has been made commander of the Fifth corps with headquarters at Camp Beauregard.

This is in line with the army's program to separate tactical corps from the administrative area work.

He will now command the 32nd and 34th divisions to be trained in the Beauregard area and the 37th and 38th divisions at Camp Shelby, Miss.

The general, unmarried, has already seen much service in Louisiana—and with Louisianians—having been professor of military science and tactics at Louisiana State University and commanded troops from this state.

After finishing his preparatory schooling at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Ruston, he went to West Point and was graduated there in 1903.

In the next six years he served two assignments in the Philippines. In 1903 he was made a first lieutenant and served as tactical instructor at West Point until his assignment at L. S. U.

While stationed at the university he taught Spanish there and took post-graduate work, earning the degree of master of arts.

He was with the Fourth infantry during the Vera Cruz expedition in 1914 and later was sent again to Louisiana as inspector-instructor of the national guard.

In 1916 he was appointed lieutenant colonel (temporary) of the First Louisiana infantry, national guard, and served with that regiment on the Mexican border.

The outbreak of the World War found him on duty as a captain in the militia bureau in the war department and shortly afterwards a member of the general staff.

Joining the 31st (Dixie) division at Camp Wheeler, Macon, Ga., he served as acting chief of staff (major and lieutenant colonel) and was made colonel of the 122nd infantry just before the division went overseas in September, 1918.

This division was broken up for replacements and Colonel Hodges was sent to general headquarters for general staff duty.

Returning to the United States in 1919, he served on the war department general staff and as assistant chief (major), bureau of insular affairs.

Again detailed with the general staff, he served short tours with the Seventh division, Camp Meade, Md., with the American forces in Germany, with the G-3 division in the war department, and then for three years as military attache to Spain and Portugal.

Returning to the United States in 1926, he was detailed as commandant of cadets at West Point with the rank of lieutenant colonel and from there went to Washington in March, 1929, as military aide to the president.

In 1933 he joined the 14th infantry in the Panama Canal Zone, was made colonel in 1934, and was assigned to command Fort Davis and the 14th infantry.

He was made brigadier general in 1936 and more recently major general.

GROUP TO MEET HERE THURSDAY

Association To Plan For Southern Conference October 21-23

Board members and committee chairmen of the Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health Association have been requested by W. D. H. Rodriguez, chairman of the committee on local arrangements for the annual southern tuberculosis conference to be held in Monroe October 21, 22 and 23, to attend a meeting Thursday at 1:30 p.m. at 202 old Central Savings Bank building.

The purpose of the meeting, Mr. Rodriguez stated, is to complete final plans for the conference.

The meeting at the Virginia hotel will be the first of its kind ever to be held in Louisiana and the first in a city as small as Monroe, local association officials said.

Delegates from 15 southern states are expected to attend this conference, not including various national figures in the tuberculosis association. Outstanding physicians, health workers and members of the executive committee will address the various delegates.

This conference, local officials said, is second only to the national conference and the Ouachita association is making every effort to make this convention a memorable one for visitors and delegates as well as a credit to the state.

Charming Gardens Intrigue Monroe Residents As Winter Season Approaches

Thatcher And McHenry Homes Are Showplaces

Beautiful Flowers Bloom Here; Henry Biedenharn, Jr., Honored On 21st Birthday

By Eve Bradford

THE winter season advances but family life isn't settling down into the cozy routine of former days. The old order has changed—the peace and serenity associated with the coming of autumn has given place to uncertainty, restlessness and a certain urge to do something really worth while. In spite of everything, conversation always reverts back to the war and its repercussions.

Today the little human trifles matter more than ever. Everyone is busy, minutes are precious. Everyone gives their time, their hearts, to the causes they believe in. In these days pierced with headlines there seems to be a different expression on people's faces. Values seem to have changed. Scores of things that were important last year just don't count now.

Most women, however, are determined that there should be an atmosphere of pleasantness and peace and rare understanding in the home. There is one Monroe home where peace and happiness reigns supreme. It is the J. Hunter Thatcher menage. Nodie, one of the most charming members of the younger married set, has converted the rear gardens of the Thatcher home into an out-of-door living room. In one section there is a little patio with white tiled floor and a white stone fireplace. At one end there is a built-in stove for cooking and at the other end is a covered barbecue pit. A low stone wall, covered with red leather, removable cushions, encircles this attractive little corner. You are almost sure to find Nodie out-of-doors these days enjoying the privacy of her garden now spattered with the golden nuggets of falling leaves.

Another charming garden spot is in the rear of the A. G. McHenry home where Irma and Armand spend almost every waking moment they can snatch from the many duties and obligations they have assumed. Hibiscus are now creating great splashes of scarlet and the camellia bushes are simply bursting with buds soon to unfold. Armand McHenry's camellias are the most beautiful to be found in this section of the state. How could they be otherwise with all the care lavished upon them. Both Armand and Irma are well versed on the subject of camellia cultivation.

The sound of the katydid has started a good many people on that favorite motor trip deferred during the busy summer. They feel cheated unless they get their share of nature's legacy and an opportunity to marvel at its richness. Autumn has spilled her color box over the earth and we go forth gratefully to revel in its glory. Not so Ida Kaplan, however. She prefers to drift in the fleecy clouds rather than motor over highways fringed with exciting hues. She is just back from San Francisco, via the Delta Airways, where she visited her daughter, Patricia Abrams, and her husband.

With a young daughter in school, Mildred Ewing hasn't time to motor here and there enjoying the autumnal landscape, so she gives expression to her love of color by wearing a scarlet sport coat, a bright blue pleated skirt and white blouse. It is most becoming and most attractive.

The long arm of the government reached down into our midst last week and again brought the war close to home. Major Neil Buie was called to the service and left for South Carolina. It was rather a somber little group out at Selman Field watching the ship that carried him away. Naturally the saddest of the group was Bobbie, who, outside of working hours, has been his constant companion ever since their marriage. This is the first break in that little group of young marrieds who have attended football games, danced together and dined together, and shared each other's joys and sorrows.

With the war taking from our midst well known, substantial citizens we feel the need to cooperate with Federal Council of Churches of America in their call to communion. They are calling for a Communion Sunday for the purpose of giving answer to the forces of organized hate, and to meet anew the challenge with Christian ideals and principles.

"To disprove the sneer of the despoilers that force is the greatest thing in the world.

"To have every member present 'round the communion table.

"To make it a day of repentance and confession of failure, not boasting of numbers or wealth.

"To pray for a spiritual awakening.

"To break the trammels of convention, to forget trodden paths and gird anew for a new climb along the trail of truth.

"To come together 'in remembrance of Him' who said, 'Love one another.'

"To get men to kneel together at the same altar, then to rise and go out, not as strangers on the street but as brothers; to ride together, do business together, toil together and to fight together, if need be, and to love one another!"

Bessie and Henry Biedenharn considered the coming of age of their son, Henry, Jr., sufficient excuse for a celebration, so they opened up their lodge on Lake Bruin and "killed the fatted calf." In other words toasts were drunk to the health of the celebrant on his 21st birthday and a table was spread with edibles fit for a king. Henry's lovely young bride naturally shared the honors with him and was right at his side when he delved deep into the gorgeous birthday cake his mother had provided for the occasion.

A glamorous harvest moon shining down on the beautiful gardens of their home was still another reason for Bessie and Henry to entertain their friends Tuesday night. It was a barbecue this time, and platters heaped high with delectable barbecued meats were placed on the long table near the open fireplace in the rear gardens. Later the guests were invited indoors for the showing of moving pictures in technicolor taken by the hosts during their extensive travels. A snow scene in the Swiss Alps, and scenes in the West Indies proved exceptionally interesting and colorful.

Blue Mountain College considers Stella Hullum and Leta Tisdale their two most distinguished alumni, according to a letter received last week. Mrs. Hullum, former state president of the Louisiana Federated Music clubs, and Mrs. Tisdale, president of the Fifth District Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs, have been requested to address the assemblage at the Homecoming festivities November 16. Mrs. Hullum and Mrs. Tisdale are most definitely among former graduates who have achieved distinction, according to the letters received.

It seems that Carolyn Oliver is simply walking away with honors at L. S. U. Word now comes from the university of her election as secretary and treasurer of the Junior class of the Arts and Science college. The election was a stormy one and a hard-fought one, it seems, as the three candidates were all popular students and prominent in sorority circles and campus activities. Carolyn was sponsored by Kappa Delta sorority.

"Quietly My Captain Waits," by Evelyn Eaton is a historical novel which reconstructs the life history of Madame de Freneuse, a person often mentioned in the dispatches from New France during the years 1691 to 1711. Some of the most colorful and exciting incidents are those which tell of the fight at sea, the bitter English assault on Port Royal, the Indian initiation, and the crossing of the Bay of Fundy.

"The Country Editor," by Henry Hough is one of the most delightful books of the year. Written in a charming manner, it displays a wise and patient philosophy of life and living. Henry Hough was for twenty years the editor of a weekly newspaper and his book gives a vivid picture of a cross section of the community and its life as it passes in and out of the office of the Gazette.

Many old magazines have been donated this week, but since there is still a demand for more, all contributions will be greatly appreciated.

There have been 156 new borrowers at the library since September 1. If you are among those who have not yet registered, please visit the library at any time to fill out a borrower's card.

In compliance with Governor Jones' request that October 16 be declared a state holiday, the library will not be open on that day.

Brazil Discussed By Welcome Branch Club

Mrs. Holland, Mrs. Petty And Mrs. White Give Interesting Discussions Of Country

Brazil, with all its vastness and charm, was the country visited on the Welcome Branch Club's imaginary tour of the Latin Americas when members met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J. Norman Coon, 518 Jackson avenue. Mrs. Henson Coon and Mrs. D. H. Duncan served as co-hostesses.

Mrs. G. D. Holland in a description, "Rio de Janeirro, the city of the present," said: "The city of Rio is located on the west side of the bay of Rio de Janiero, which—stretching inland for several miles, studded with islands and surrounded by mountains —is accounted the most magnificent in the world." Not only is the harbor one of the most beautiful in the world, but it is also one of the largest, having space to accommodate at one time all the navies in the world, she said. Rio de Janiero, the city, boasts an up-to-date structure and a thriving business. Dominating the city is the Hunchback, a mountain peak on which is a colossal statue of Christ. Illuminated at night by floodlights, the statue appears as a symbol of protection for the city, she said.

Mrs. J. D. Petty gave a talk on "Brazil, Ancient and Modern." This country, comprising almost half of the continent of South America, hordes a wealth of fertile land and abounding resources yet untouched. Such features would make Brazil an object of prize for imperialistic nations, she said. The population, originally Portugese, includes Indians, negroes and recently great numbers of Germans and Russians. Mrs. Petty concluded with current opinions of authorities concerning "foreign interests" in Brazil.

Mrs. J. R. White gave a talk on "Coffee in the Americas." Aided by floodlighted pictures from Brazil, Mrs. White described the cultivation, the curing and the shipping of the coffee bean. She displayed samples of the beans at different stages of preparation for use. She added interest to her talk by distributing coffee recipe books supplied by a New Orleans coffee house.

At intervals during the program of the afternoon, talented members of the club furnished Latin American music. Mrs. Clyde R. Pedigo, accompanied by Mrs. E. Everett Lawson at the piano, sang "Cielito Lindo," by Ferdinand. Mrs. E. Everett Lawson played two piano solos: "El Condor Pasa," by Robles, and "Linda Provincianita," by Romero.

Mrs. G. D. Holland, president, presided over the business meeting during which three new members were elected: Mrs. A. L. Vandergriff, Mrs. Charles R. Morris and Mrs. J. L. Cheshire. The following members volunteered to help with the Community Chest drive: Mrs. G. D. Holland, Mrs. Wesley C. Ekholm, Mrs. J. E. Kersh, Mrs. George Phebus, Mrs. J. H. Gorman, Mrs. W. E. Holland and alternate, Mrs. J. R. White; Mrs. A. S. Gunter and alternate, Mrs. V. S. Garnett; Mrs. Wesley C. Ekholm and alternate, Mrs. Clyde R. Pedigo. Mrs. G. D. Holland announced the following chairmen of the various departments of the club: Mrs. H. R. Saenger, American home; Mrs. Albert Speer, American citizenship; Mrs. Clyde R. Pedigo, fine arts; Mrs. V. S. Garnett, conservation; Mrs. H. V. Collins, international relations; Mrs. J. Norman Coon, junior club; Mrs. L. V. Tarver, legislation; Mrs. Wesley C. Ekholm, press and publicity; and Mrs. J. H. Mrs. Collins Entertains Twentieth Century Club

The Twentieth Century Book club met in the home of Mrs. S. M. Collins on Wednesday afternoon.

The singing of "Louisiana" and the reading of the collect was followed by a brief business session.

Mrs. Leola Nixon, Fifth District president, was the guest of honor on this occasion and responded to the introduction with a short, inspirational talk.

The program featured the singing of "God Bless America." The subject for the afternoon was "Brazil."

Mrs. H. Flood Madison began her discussion with a description of Brazil and of the credentials necessary to enter the country. She spoke in detail of Rio de Janeiro and gave a realistic picture of the palm shaded avenues, beautiful buildings, exquisite sunrises and romantic moonlight nights.

Mrs. W. C. Oliver took the club on an imaginary visit to Santos and Sao Paulo, describing places of interest. A trip through the coffee plantations proved most interesting. She described the cultivation of coffee from the time of planting to the harvesting. A fazenda or coffee orchard is at its greatest beauty during the blooming season when the dark foliage is covered with white starry jasmine-like flowers.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Collins served a salad course to the following:

Opera Club Sponsors 'German Opera' Talks

Mrs. Poag And Mrs. Hornberger Give Interesting Discussions Of Music Masterpieces

Mrs. J. N. Coon and Mrs. E. C. Gibson welcomed members of the Opera Club in Mrs. Coon's home on Jackson street, where beautiful autumn flowers were placed in the reception suite.

Guests were invited into the dining room where Mrs. Gibson poured coffee and Mrs. Coon served dainty sandwiches and assorted cakes.

After a brief business session, the president, Mrs. C. W. Oseland, turned the meeting over to Mrs. E. G. Hinkle, program chairman.

"German Opera" was given in an interesting manner by Mrs. P. A. Poag. Mrs. Poag said in part:

"It was not until the early part of the nineteenth century that Germany created a form of opera that was worthy of comparison with the musical drama of Italy and France. The opera of this nation, like that of Italy, originated in a kind of entertainment composed of songs and dialogue. This singspiel (song-play) was usually based upon episodes from the Bible but was often given outside the church to celebrate any festival. Dr. Franz Gehrung of Vienna, states that it was from those given outside—as being of a freer and of a humorous character—that the singspiel, more directly developed, these being the miracle plays, to which the passions (performed within the church) gave rise; and that it was in the plays given outside that the German language gradually superseded the Latin—at first in the dialogue and afterwards in the songs. He also gives the name of a German play in which all the words are sung in German, this being Spiel von den Zehn Jung Frauen, which was performed at Eispenach in 1322.

"The development of the opera from the singspiel was of course very gradual. The conception of modern opera dates only from the time of Gluck (1714-1787) and it will be remembered that his work was carried on in Paris."

A brief sketch of the life of Mozart and the story of "The Magic Flute" was given by Mrs. Hornberger. She said in part:

"Mozart may be said to be the first distinctly German opera composer, and only one of his three great operas was written in the native language. In Die Zauberflote (The Magic Flute) we find the first influences of the Lied in operatic music.

"His musical genius, his splendid training and achievements, his intellectual vigor, together with his flair for hard work equipped him to cover more ground during his brief life of thirty-five years than did many of the other composers throughout long years of endeavor.

"The Magic Flute is the most important in that it suggests the establishment of a distinctly German school of opera. Before this work appeared all countries had adopted not only Italian melody and form in their operas, but the Italian language as well. Although The Magic Flute is not so great a work as either of the other two operas, it possesses unquestionable merit. Written in German text, it contains many airs in imitation of the native folk song and readily found warm welcome in all German hearts. Its libretto is partly allegorical and partly fictitious."

Present were: Mrs. Suttle, Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. C. G. Bennett, Mrs. Hornberger, Mrs. P. A. Poag, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. C. S. Gaushell, Mrs. P. A. Colvin, Miss Clara Friberg, Mrs. E. G. Hinkle, Mrs. J. C. Kramer, Mrs. B. B. Martin, Mrs. Paul Newman, Mrs. C. W. Oseland, Mrs. C. R. Pedigo, Mrs. L. V. Tarver, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. R. O. Ware and Mrs. E. R. Whitaker.

Couple Leaves For Gulf Coast On Honeymoon And Will Make Home Later At Baytown, Tex.

Simplicity characterized the wedding of Miss Eleanor Colbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Colbert of this city, and Mr. James William Stewart, son of Mr. W. L. Stewart of Greenville, Miss., Saturday, October 12, at Grace Episcopal church, at 10 o'clock in the morning, with Dr. E. F. Hayward officiating.

Due to a recent bereavement in the family of the bridegroom, the ceremony was a simple one and the guests limited to a few close friends and members of the family.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a smartly tailored ensemble of Como blue with a wool dress and hem-length velveteen coat of the same color. Como blue accessories, including a becoming off-the-face beret and a corsage of gardenias and valley lilies, were worn.

Mr. Stewart was attended by his father.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Stewart left for the gulf coast. Later they will be at home in Baytown, Tex., where Mr. Stewart is associated with the Humble Oil company in the capacity of engineer. At least four or five members will attend this conference. This year the possibility of Mexico joining this district will be discussed. As the Mexico club is exceptionally active and alert it is felt that this move will be a noteworthy one for this district.

The members were issued an invitation at this time to be the guests of a Shreveport club member, November 10, at which time she will keep open house and exhibit paintings from the brush of Cora Butler, outstanding southern painter.

The invitation is extended to the Monroe club, the Little Rock club, the Dallas club as well as the Tyler, Tex., club. The Monroe club is planning to attend this affair in a body.

Readers' Clique Hears Talk On Gardening

Members of the Readers' Clique took great interest in the first scheduled program on gardening when they met Thursday with Mrs. Wesley C. Ekholm, 502 Erin avenue.

Mrs. G. L. Morgan gave an informative talk on, "Native Louisiana Plants for Louisiana Homes," describing how to obtain and how to grow these native plants. She said, "We, of Louisiana are blessed in that we have fertile soil and a good climate, which makes a long growing season. If we would take the trouble to go into the woods and study the native plants, select those we want and transplant them to our yards, we would have a yard that is beautiful, unusual, and one that would not cost a penny."

She gave instructions in arranging such plants to lend a pleasing effect, and told how to transplant them, urging that the roots never be exposed to the air. She listed trees which might successfully be moved from the woods to yards: Magnolia, live oak, holly, dogwood, crabbapple, and redbud. Vines recommended by Mrs. Morgan were: Bamboo, smilax, coral honeysuckle, clematis, and trumpet vine. Wild flowers she sugested for transplanting were; Phlox, verbena, wild iris, Indian poppy, and white morning glory.

Program Presented To Welcome Garden Club

Instructive Talks Delivered To Members Who Hold Meeting At Home Of Mrs. Garnett

The members of the Welcome Garden Club met recently in the home of Mrs. V. S. Garnett, 1606 North Second street.

At the conclusion of a brief business session, presided over by Mrs. Charles S. Swain, the president, an unusually splendid program was presented by the chairman, Mrs. Henson Coon.

The first number was a most instructive and comprehensive talk on, "How to Grow Roses," by Mrs. A. P. Barfield. Many helpful hints were given to gardeners of this section. She advised preparing the new rose beds this month, permitting them then to stand for several weeks before the roses are planted. First she suggested we select a sunny southern or eastern location for the bed, away from trees and shrubs. One should consider carefully the size and shape of the bed, making it balance with the remainder of the garden. The bed should be well spaded and leaf mold and well rotted manure mixed into it. Mrs. Barfield mentioned that tests had been made of the soil from quite a few Monroe gardens and it was found to be mostly alkaline. The testing was done by a Mr. H. L. Davnoy of New Orleans.

An excessive alkaline soil produces foliage that is almost white or yellowish green with veins showing a darker green. One formula to rectify this is two level tablespoons of copperas to three gallons of water. Other helpful points were to be sure the rose bed has good drainage. During the weeks the bed is waiting to be planted wet it down several times, especially if the weather is dry. Best time to plant roses is when they are dormant with late November or early December being preferable since the fall and winter rains are beneficial to the root system. The variety of rose determines the distance between brushes in planting. Upon receiving your rose bushes, plant immediately being careful not to bruise or break any part of the root, if so, trim it off. Also protect roots from the wind and sun. The depth to plant a rose is determined by the color of the bark at the soil level. Be sure to press the soil firmly at the roots, water, and finish filling in dirt. New roses need no commercial fertilizer the first year. Older beds are fertilized in early spring.

A few points on pruming are given. "Always cut the withered roses and any dead wood that might appear. In cutting a bloom two sets of leaves should be left on the plant. Use a sharp curved knife for pruming. Hybrid teas are pruned in spring. Climbers in mid-summer after the blooming is over. Other roses are pruned according to the variety.

Rose bushes may be hilled around with dirt for winter care. If you hill your bushes uncover them in the spring on a cloudy day. Select roses that are good, strong, and healthy, not necessarily old. Budded rose bushes are best for the rose garden. Suckers may form and if so remove below the ground or the true rose will be killed.

The second number was, "Planting Seeds," by Mrs. C. T. Johnson which was very helpful since she advised which seeds could be planted at this time of the year. She said in part: "There are two well defined planting seasons in the South, one in the spring another in autumn. With proper planting we can now have plenty of flowers from early spring until killing frost. October and early November are the desirable times to plant seeds in normal years. The beds should be spaded, enriched, and soaked so as not to be too dry when seed is to be planted. Barely cover seeds with fine soil, then sprinkle, and cover with burlap or paper for better germination. Seeds which might be planted soon are calendula, callicopsis, English daisy, larkspur, lupines, cornflowers, petunias, pansies, phlox, pinks, poppies, snapdragon, sweet alyssum, sweet peas, verbena, and candytuft."

The third talk was a delightful, inspiring, talk on "Color Combinations in Border Planting," given by Mrs. W. B. Clarke who said: "Some good rules to follow in planning the border are unity in planting, color, specimen planting, and light and shade. As we consider unity the height of plants must be thought of. Planting should be in drifts to get the best effects, always keeping in mind a harmonious groping of colors. Clumps of white flowers interspersed between those of various hues help to keep the transition from being too marked. For example some Queen Anne's Lace at the rear, some Baby Breath to break the line where yellow pansies, blue iris, and pink snapdragon would meet an edge border of sweet alyssum. This was just one of numerous artistic color combinations given. In a small garden only one or two ideas can find room for full expression, such ideas as a dominant color note or a special plant group.

"The garden to be effective, restful and charming should have but few varieties but enough of each sort must be used to make it effective. One must work toward making a beautiful picture which delights the eye. Use specimen plants to secure repetition and rhythm. Trees and shrubs enhance the effect of light and shadows."

She advocated using prennials for the border which are good for years if cared for after established. By proper planting one has flowers from May to October, examples are iris for every month and phlox for several. The good garden is a dream of beauty and a place of rest if properly done otherwise it may jar and depress us.

At the close of the program Miss Lucyle Godwin, a visitor from the Monroe Garden club, graciously again invited the Welcome Garden club members to attend the joint meeting of the two garden clubs which is to be held on Monday, October 14, at 2:30 p.m. at the Virginia Hotel. Mrs. Frederick Amman Is Honored At Tea

One of the most distinctive affairs of the early fall season was the tea Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. L. Wood with Miss Eveline Amman co-hostess and Mrs. Fredrick Amman, a bride of recent date, the guest of honor.

The autumnal colors were everywhere in evidence not only in the flowers banking the reception suite and dining room but in the handsome gowns worn by the fashionably attired guests who numbered two hundred or more.

Mrs. Wood wore a black velvet, floor length model and Miss Amman wore a floor length black crepe model. The guest of honor was wearing a beautiful maroon colored crepe and velvet gown.

Mrs. Allen Turpin, mother of the honor guest, was also introduced at this time. She was wearing a black velvet model. Mrs. Louise R. Amman, assisting in the courtesies wore a Como blue crepe model.

A pink color theme prevailed in the dining room where the tea girls, Miss Elizabeth Amman Wood, Miss Joan Gibbons, Miss Martha Thompson, and Miss Dorothy Stein, were all clad in bouffant, floor length models of pink taffeta.

The refreshment table was overlaid with handsome lace over pink satin. An immense plaque almost covering the table, was fashioned of pink carnations and bouvardia with tall pink tapers burning in their midst.

Handsome silver tea and coffee services gracing either end of the table were presided over by Mrs. M. B. Amman in black velvet, and Mrs. P. L. Perot in black lace and chiffon.

Mrs. Charles Reid, assisting in serving the delicious open faced sandwiches, pastries, crystalized fruits, fancy gateaux and flower tinted mints, was wearing a rose colored crepe model.

The hostesses presented their guest of honor and all those who assisted in the courtesies with corsages of white bouvardia and pink carnations.

Miss Wossman Gives Citizenship Address

Educator Urges Acceptance Of Responsibilities To Provide Finer Type Of Democratic Unit

The following address was delivered by Miss Julia Wossman, principal of Barkdull Faulk School, on "Good Citizenship":

"Our discussion of citizenship will apply to citizenship in a democracy. Citizenship in a totalitarian government is a simple practice of blind obedience to those in authority. In our form of government which recognizes the rights of every individual 'to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness,' citizenship carries with it the responsibility for insuring to every citizen those rights. It becomes a complex and difficult practice. Good citizenship is bearing responsibility for the carrying on of this 'way of life,' claiming the rights for one's self, but being equally insistent that others have the same rights.

"Of first importance in our training for and practice of citizenship is the recognition of equality in the possession of these rights. If everybody has them, as we believe, it becomes the duty of citizens of a government 'of the people' to be tireless in their operation of government and social benefits in order that every individual at all times may realize his rights.

"The City in which we live is a very excellent type of the democratic unit. What I shall say applies to it, but it also applies in a larger sense to state and nation.

"What are some of the activities and undertakings in which we engage in order that the democratic way of life may prosper? We may evaluate our own citizenship as good or poor in practice by checking on our interest in these activities.

"I would mention first—Organized business—which contributes to the constructive elements of the community. They furnish means of livelihood. The business interests of the town are a highly moral force which make possible the benefits for citizenship training that must be supported by taxes or contributions. Our interest in the quality of the business organizations which we patronize is what perpetuates them and gives them the high standards which enable them to serve us efficiently.

"2. Our government—The attitude of a good citizen toward his government is both critical and constructive. 'My country (or city) may she always be right; but right or wrong my country (or city).' This expression of patriotism is good citizenship only if it means that my country 'wrong' becomes my responsibility for righting the wrong, even though I may have to undertake the job alone. If all individuals who are passively interested in honest and efficient government should become active and remain active, most of the problems of those in office would be solved. Those elected to office should be able to know that they have, working with them, a body of people interested in the general good of all. One of the duties of citizenship is to take part with public officers in the public services which they are performing, consenting and dissenting as the individual sees the right. There is too much of self-seeking and too little of helpfulness among us. Our local officers, mayor and commissioners, need our interest and cooperation. The neglect of government offices, national, state and local by the majority of its citizens eventually deals certain death to our kind of government.

"3. The educational benefits of the community—These are the means of training for citizenship (training in bearing one's responsibility for carrying on the democratic way of life). Every adult citizen, the childless and those with families, old and young, should be actively interested in the schools for the training of the next generation of citizens. Know what your schools are doing. Know what changes present-day conditions are forcing into education. Know the needs of schools, of children, and of teachers. If you are critical of your schools because they are not the same kind that you were educated in, find out why they have had to change. Good citizenship seeks to know the training grounds for the next citizens. Visit your schools. Have your children tell you of them. Be a member of the Parent-Teacher Association of your child's school.

"Also you have your own cultural advantages for finer citizenship: Town Hall, Public Library and Civic Music Association. Your Public Library gives a most worthwhile service. Do you know the board of public spirited citizens who have kept it going? They have faced recently the possibility of having to close the library because of lack of funds to operate. They have somehow accomplished continuance of library services. They merit our active interest and cooperation. Have you helped with Town Hall and Civic Music? Are you a member of one or both?

"4. Recreation facilities. The need for a community's bearing responsibility for furnishing wholesome recreation to its citizens is recognized by our form of government. Monroe has a City Recreation Department which carries on a fine summer playground program for children on the school grounds throughout the city. A year-round adult program has been carried on at a recreation center. Those who took part in and enjoyed the day-and-night activities at the center numbered up in the thousands. These activities have been temporarily discontinued because there is no longer a center. The building formerly used for this purpose is being rebuilt for business usage. Right now there is a crying need for a recreation building. Good citizenship can demonstrate itself in planning and cooperating with the recreation department for a building in which the recreation needs of young people and adults may be met.

"The Little Theater and the Childrens Theater are local organizations for recreational enjoyment. They are projects of the community which minister to the 'good life' and as such become the responsibility of our citizens.

"5. Health Services. Our city and parish have the Ouachita Parish Health Unit with which all residents should cooperate in sanitation practices and in the use of disease-prevention measures. Healthy people are, in the main, happy and useful people. The Ouachita Parish Tuberculosis and Public Health Association cares for our tuberculosis patients in a beautiful new sanitorium supported by your taxes. The Christmas seal sale offers us an opportunity to assist with education for preventing Tuberculosis. The regional convention of tuberculosis workers which is to meet here on October 21-23 is being planned and arranged for by local workers and other interested citizens. Take time off to attend some of their meetings.

"There are the welfare organizations supported by our contributions to the Community Chest and also the Junior Charity League whose work is largely with infants and small children. These, too, fit into the plan of democratic rights, which become the responsibility of the good citizen.

"The religious activities of the community, carried on through the churches, are not only the responsibility of the good citizen, they furnish the inspiration for the carrying on of all activities which minister to the general good. Worthy citizenship is in most cases an outgrowth of religious ideals inculcated by the churches. The good citizen supports the church of his choice and works in it.

"This discussion of citizenship is entirely concrete and specific. It relates to our own citizenship in our own town.

"We recognize the rights of all the people of our town, by making ourselves responsible for activities of the community related to (1) business, (2) government, (3) education, (4) recreation, (5) health, (6) welfare, and last but not least (7) religion. In proportion as we invest our energies in these activities we are worthy or unworthy citizens. The town in which we live is to my mind one of the very fine examples of a small democracy still in existence.

"We certainly are citizens of 'no mean city' but it behooves every man, woman and child to accept the responsibilities of the good citizen and to pass his city on the next generation a finer type of democratic unit than it is today. That is worthy citizenship."

Literary Guild Holds Interesting Meeting

Talk By Mrs. Perot Features First Gathering Of Year At Home Of Mrs. J. G. Durrett

The Literary Guild held its first meeting of the year in the home of Mrs. J. G. Durrett. Twelve members were present. The club was honored to have at this meeting the Fifth district president, Mrs. Leola Nixon of Ruston.

The Literary Guild is beginning its 11th year of activity, having been organized by the Twentieth Century Book club in 1929. Eleven of the 16 charter members are still enrolled. These eleven, with the remaining five who have been since added, feel that the bond of friendship which has grown stronger means perhaps more than knowledge gained through study or civic work accomplished.

Having had as the previous year's study such subjects as "Louisiana," "Famous Women," "Modern Literature," "Drama" and "Decorative Art," the study for the year 1940-41, "The Good Neighbor Tour," was chosen because of its timeliness. The subject matter for this study was prepared by the chairman of international relations for the General Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Fredric Beggs, with the help of the Pan American Union. The club is indebted to Mrs. Durrett and her program committee in adapting the material and outlines to present this splendid program.

Well-prepared and interestingly presented were talks on "Latin America and the United States" and "Ancient Civilizations of America," given by Mrs. C. U. Johnson and Mrs. P. L. Perot.

Mrs. Perot said in part:

"Ten thousand years ago, or possibly earlier, primitive Asiatic peoples seeking new hunting grounds discovered America.

"Their history up to the time of the arrival of the Europeans was rich and eventful and the development of civilization was most rapid where communication was most free.

"The advantage, however, was lacking between the early inhabitants of America and the rest of the world because they were separated by thousands of miles of water, so their cultural development was from their own efforts.

"In reconstructing the story of the ancient civilizations of America the archaeologist is entirely dependent upon what time and the elements have left in the soil.

"The story of the emergence of some of the tribes from their purely savage state begins with what the archaeologists term the Archaic period.

"It was in the highland belt stretching from Mexico to Chile that the most highly developed civilizations of America were located.

"One became localized in the valley of Mexico, another in Guatemala and Yucatan, with a third in Ecuador and Peru.

"The first people to appear in Mexican history are the Toltecs with their traditional capitol at Tula.

"A trip to Mexico would not be complete without a visit to the pyramids, which is only a short trip out of Mexico City. These pyramids are unlike the pyramids of Egypt in that they were not designed as burial places but as temples dedicated to the worship of their two principal deities, the sun and the moon.

"Standing at the base of the pyramid to the sun all you can think of is colossal, incredibly colossal, stupendous in size.

"The pyramid to the sun is 216 feet high and about 750 feet at the base, built in five terraces graduating to the top.

"It doesn't take much imagination to picture the long religious processionals in those days, when the living hearts of human victims were the only satisfactory sacrifices for these bloodthirsty gods.

"The steps are today in perfect condition and it is a heroic struggle to climb them, but the effort is well worth while.

"Another ruin even more interesting, if not as impressive, is the temple of Quetzal Coalt's court. On this temple is the barbaric sculpture of the plumed serpent. It is surrounded by a vast court of smaller pyramids.

"The legend is that this great culture god, after instructing the people in the arts, deported eastward over the sea, promising to return in a year. His skin was the color of the Spaniards and he also had a beard like them, so when the Spaniards appeared in the year for the return of their god their priest, Montezuma, was very skeptical toward them, and had the Aztecs fought to kill instead of to capture they would have destroyed the small forces of Cortez."

A delicious salad course and tea was served to the following members: Mrs. Herbert Breard, Mrs. Joe Brown, Mrs. Herbert Dickard, Mrs. W. M. Harper, Mrs. E. D. Holloway, Mrs. Clifford Johnson, Mrs. Harry Newhall, Mrs. P. L. Perot, Mrs. T. J. Sandridge, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Mrs. W. E. Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. James Britton Moore of Camden announce the marriage of their daughter, Anne Lee, to Victor Gardner Gordy, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Gardner Gordy of this city. The ceremony was quietly performed yesterday at a late afternoon service at five o'clock at the First Methodist church of Little Rock with Dr. Warren Johnston, pastor, officiating in the presence of close friends of the couple.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a suit of soldier blue wool for her wedding. Her accessories were of black and she wore a corsage of Briarcliff roses and tuberoses. Her only ornament was a locket worn by Mrs. V. G. Gordy, Sr., in her wedding. Miss Gertrude Moore of Camden, who was her sister's only attendant, wore a teal blue suit with dubonnet accessories and her flowers were a shoulder cdrsage of dubonnet and white carnations.

Dewey P. Gody of Benton, uncle of the bridegroom, was best man, and ushers were Clyde Croft of Memphis, Tenn.; A. J. Almond of Little Rock, cousin of the brindegroom. Mrs. Curtis Stout was in charge of the music which included the traditional wedding selections, and Louie Vaughan was soloist.

For the wedding the church was attractively decorated with tall palms which formed the background for the place of the ceremony which was marked by pale pink tapers in tall candelabra and large floor baskets of pink dahlias and pink gladioli.

Mrs. V. G. Gordy, mother of the bridegroom, wore a black costume suit trimmed with silver fox fur and black accessories with a shoulder corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Moore, mother of the bride, was also in black with white accessories and her flowers were a corsage of mixed white blossoms.

Soon after the ceremony the young couple left for a wedding trip to New Orleans, Biloxi, Gulfport and Pass Christian, and upon their return they will be at home in Woodlane apartments. Mrs. Gordy was graduated from Camden high school and attended Hendrix college, while Mr. Gordy is a graduate of Little Rock High school and University of Arkansas, Fayetteville. Book Review Features Meeting Of Miro Club

Fifth District President Gives Talk At First Meeting With Mrs. F. C. Bennett Hostess

The first meeting of the Miro Book Club was held Monday afternoon with Mrs. F. C. Bennett, hostess. The president, Mrs. J. E. Whitfield, presided.

The year's club work will consist of reviews of modern fiction and non-fiction and the departments of General Federation.

The program for the afternoon was a book review of Dorothy Park Clark and Isabel McLennan McMeekin's novel, "Show Me a Land," by Mrs. M. M. Munholland.

Mrs. J. M. Russell gave an interesting paper on "Modern Education."

Mrs. Leola Nixon, Fifth District president, of Ruston, talked on the subject of "Advantages of General Federation."

Mrs. Munholland said in part in her review: "Dorothy Park Clark and Isabel McLennan McMeekin, who in 'Show Me a Land,' collaborate under the name of Clark McMeekin, write of their home state, Kentucky, and the sport which played such an important part in its growth, with the affection and knowledge which only long association can bring.

"Life in the great plantations of Virginia and Kentucky from 1816 and 1875 is the setting of this stirring historical romance. The story is shot through with all the color and excitement attendant in the racing and breeding of horses, the principal occupation of the wealthy planters of the time. Great men, Audubon, Lafayette, Clay, Morgan, Lincoln and others enter the story. The trek into the Kentucky wilderness, the disastrous cholera plague which swept through the Bluegrass Country in 1833, the Lafayette ball, the Civil War, the first Kentucky Derby—these and other historic facts create an authentic background in which the fictional characters move and take on a reality and a three-dimensional quality seldom attained in a novel.

"At sixteen, spirited Dana Terraine went with her father to the Aintree Fair in England to buy blooded horses for their Virginia stables. Here she met Rike Galphin, and the two impetuous young people fell violently in love. From then on the affairs of Dana and Rike cross and recross in spectacular episodes which the reader will follow with breathless interest. The final outcome of their tempestous romance is a happy one, but happy only after they live their own lives in their own manner, fighting their own battles, facing their own hardships, making their own mistakes, either too stubborn to confess their love for each other, or kept apart by events beyond their control. The plot of 'Show Me a Land' is an original one; and its many fresh and interesting angles and sidelight will keep the reader in a continual state of excitement, carrying him from one page to the next with eager anticipation."

At the conclusion of the program the hostess served refreshments to the following members and guest: Mrs. A. L. Peters, Mrs. J. M. Russell, Mrs. S. M. Collins, Mrs. William Whitfield, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. J. R. Calhoun, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. J. T. Pugh, Mrs. J. E. Whitfield, Mrs. J. B. Collins, Mrs. M. M. Munholland, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. C. C. Lindley, Mrs. H. M. Venable, Mrs. H. Business Women Hold Banquet At Virginia

A week of varied programs in which the place of a career woman in the community's progress was emphasized, came to a brilliant close for members of the Business and Professional Women's Club when they met on the Virginia Hotel roof for their annual banquet.

Beautiful flowers, everywhere in evidence, created an atmosphere of festivity, and formed a decorative setting for the beautifully gowned club members, all of whom wore evening models.

A conversational interlude before the serving of dinner was one of the interesting features of the evening.

The table was candelit and fragrant with the perfume of many flowers overflowing from oblong plaques placed at intervals along the board.

The toastmistress, Miss Maibel Hood, in handsome Como blue evening model, introduced the club president, Mrs. Jennie Thornton, who wore a pale rose-colored evening model.

Even though the entire assemblage was in festive mood, a note of seriousness crept in when members took a long look both forward and back. They took advantage of this opportunity to take stock of what their sex has done in the past and what they are doing now that they have the vote. Not only the Business and Professional Women, but all club women are looking ahead and discussing the things that women want for themselves and the nation, and how these things are to be obtained. In other words they are delving into national and international situations and programs.

Miss Kate Perkins, well known educator, addressed the club. The subject of her address was the timely and appropriate theme set forth by the National Business and Professional Women's club, "Making Democracy Work." This year marking the 21st year of the organization, now being nationally celebrated, the topic "Business Women in Democracy—Vote!" was presented in splendid manner. Miss Perkins calling attention to the present world wars and political confusion, stated that all combat and wars of nations since the dawn of time, arose through ignorance and that ignorance of the true conditions and situations is now and has always been our most dangerous enemy and that it is the duty of the Business and Professional Women's clubs to combat the condition by finding out the opinions of both sides of any and all subjects, effecting us as a whole. The speaker, in concluding, councelled those present to study closely both sides of our present national political issues and thereby decide with which side they are to align and to go to the polls and cast their vote after obtaining all possible information, but to definitely vote their convictions. She urged them also to withhold animosity against any who held different views and to recognize whoever may be choosen by the voters of this United States of America as "our president" and deserving the admiration of our nation as a unit.

A charming musical program was rendered by Garland Shell, soloist, and Leon Hammond, pianist. The singing of "God Bless America" in unison was a feature of the dinner hour.

Climaxing the evening's entertainment was the cutting of the superb birthday cake by the president, Mrs. Thornton.

CHAPTER XXV

The door of the law office was partly open. Sue Mary pushed it wide, stepping in to the dim quiet. She started back in surprise as Nick rose from a chair and came toward her. She had hoped to be there ahead of him. She wondered how he had come in, but she had no time to puzzle that out. He was beside her before she could speak. He took her in his arms, looked into her face .

"Why—Nick—you're here early."

"Not too early. A man in love doesn't like to wait." He held her tighter and kissed her long while she tried to push him away.

"No, Nick. No, please. You— you said you wanted to talk to me."

"We can always talk—" he said, kissing her again.

She wanted to run: to run anywhere; get away from Nick, from his lips, his arms. She was terrified, but she had to stay. He took her hand and led her to the office.

"We shouldn't be here," she repeated, but he only smiled. It was then that Vera came out of old Ross Clark's office.

"So—she did come," she said, looking at Sue Mary in her usual calm, poised, assured manner. "Well, now we can call it a night."

Sue Mary sat down suddenly. Her legs refused to hold her up and again she felt panic taking control of her. She wasn't alone.

Mr. Flanagan and his men should be here. But were they? She wondered if they were here—now. How much had they seen and heard?

She felt enough confidence in Flanagan and his men to believe they controlled the situation. Yet being with Nick was nerve-wracking enough.

Vera was stuffing some papers into her bag. "Let's go. She knows—that is unless she's a complete half-wit."

Sue Mary felt feminine indignation rising within her. "Half-wit?" she repeated angrily.

"You can't do anything about it now," Vera told her calmly. "I knew you saw too much the other night when I was here. The only way to keep you from talking—just in case you did understand what was going on—was to make you a partner. That's why you're here tonight.

"So you are in: in on whatever goes on here, and you hadn't better talk unless you want to blow yourself right out of a job and into plenty of trouble. You just do as we say and everything will be all right. Won't it, Nick?"

But Nick wasn't looking at Vera. His gaze was on Sue Mary.

"We can talk later," he said to Vera without turning toward her. "If you've got the stuff you'd better get going. Someone might come. We've been lucky so far."

"All right, let's go then."

"I'll come down in a minute," he said.

"What's stopping you from coming now?"

He turned to her abruptly, "Maybe I want to say something to Sue Mary."

"Well, you can say it at the apartment. If it isn't safe for me to stay here, then it isn't safe for either of you." Vera's briskness wasn't so emphatic.

"I said I'd be along in a minute. Start down. I'll meet you in the lobby."

Vera walked out and Nick waited a moment. Then he turned to Sue Mary and drew her to him.

"Kiss me," he told her. "Nothing's going to happen to you. Stop trembling. You're in this, but you belong to me and we're going to come out ahead. Right on the top—"

"No, Nick. Let me go."

His lips were on hers again for an enless eternity. Vera's voice, furious and cold, broke them apart.

"So—that's it. You had to talk to her. Natalie was right. You're in love with the little fool."

Her voice rose to a high key. "You've used me—just as you used her. Maybe she isn't the only fool. But you won't get away with it this time, Nick. Not as far as I'm concerned anyway. I'll talk—I'll talk—"

"That's right, lady, you're going to talk. And soon."

Nick whirled around at the sound of the strange voice. Sue Mary saw Flanagan in the doorway, smiling. Other men were crowding through, behind him. One came out of Ross Clark's office. Several had guns.

"What the—" Nick muttered.

Vera started for the door, but an agent stopped her, motioned her back into the center of the room.

"Take the two of them along," Flanagan ordered. "And get those papers away from her. There won't be any airport site announcement tomorrow. I've settled that deal already after talking to young Clark.

"Now, maybe, good citizen Nicky can tell us about the labor trouble at Smithson—as well as a lot of other things we've been wondering about."

They were finally gone, Vera berating Nick and Nick trying desperately to hush her angry flow of words.

"Nice people," Flanagan said to Sue Mary. "I'm sorry you had to go through this, but it seemed the safest way. Get them here as though nothing was going to happen and then nab them.

"You've helped us plenty. Most people want to help these days but too many of them let their imaginations run wild. But this—this was the real thing. You've done your part tonight."

She felt a glow of gratitude, but her eyes were on the clock. She wanted to get to the hospital. They might be operating on Joe even now.

"Sure, I know," Flanagan was saying. "You're worried about the boy friend. Well, get along. I'll put you in a cab. I have a hunch you're going to find everything all right. You deserve to have it that way."

Sue Mary didn't remember much about the ride. She walked down the corridor to Joe's room. Suppose it was empty! Suppose he had gone to the operating room never to return! She met the nurse at the door.

"Tell me—is he—?"

"He's fine. They won't have to operate. It will be a tough struggle back, but he's out of danger. And you can go in—just a second though."

A second—It was a whole lifetime.

The beginning of a new life, she thought, standing by Joe's bed watching his regular breathing, touching his helpless hand. It was a new life and no matter what happened around them, no matter what problems arose in this strange, confused world they would face them together.

The curtain moved gently in the breeze and a faint sound of music came from a radio in another wing of the building. It was midnight and a station was signing off.

"God bless America—"

She leaned over and kissed Joe's lips.

NEW YORK JUNGLE

BY WRAY WADE SEVERN

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Illustrated by Ed Gunder

"On that last hunt in India, Adam was clawed by a tiger. . . . If Hugh hadn't been along . . . You must have heard the story."

CHAPTER I

Intent upon reaching Adam Langdon's country home before the storm broke, Sidney Braitwood urged his car upgrade, through a framing of low hills russet and gold now in the resurgent splendor of early autumn. Braitwood was aware that the charming young actress beside him had turned to open the window, as if her emotions stifled her and she needed more air. He made no comment, though the simple action moved him deeply.

Marta Hempfield and Adam Langdon had been his friends for years. He believed the bond uniting them to be the rare one of real love. But now a rift had come between Marta and Adam. How deep, or what the cause, the lawyer could only guess.

Marta was a poem in her way. Tall, brunet, with warm hazel eyes and vivid coloring, she possessed a woman's greatest gift, ineffable grace of movement.

Broadway had acclaimed her for five grateful years. Inevitably, she knew her worth, yet there she was on her way to Langdon's for the week-end, although undoubtedly Adam had offended her. Braitwood could not understand it.

"Something has gone wrong with Adam, Sidney," Marta said, out of a troubled silence. "I've a premonition about it."

She hesitated and added, "Always, when he's returning from an African hunt, he cables me as soon as he gets into civilization, and from then on I hear every day until his ship docks in New York. This time I had a solitary cable from Capetown saying he intended sailing on the Baron Graham. When the Baron arrived, I was playing a matinee, but Adam would know why I hadn't met him." Her hands locked and the blood-red gleam of Langdon's ruby shone through the thin texture of her glove.

Should he tell her that Adam had not sailed on the Baron Graham? Sidney weighed it, pro and con.

Adam's tall, blond engineer cousin, Hugh Langdon, had received a cable, too. Hugh had met the Baron Graham only to learn that Adam had not even booked passage on the ship.

Sidney and Hugh had discussed all sorts of reasons for Langdon's nonappearance. They had even mentioned kidnaping and murder. Then Langdon's valet had telephoned them that his employer had returned and wanted them for a week-end to see his new specimens. Better not increase Marta's anxiety, Braitwood decided.

"Do you imagine Adam is angry because of Boris Lesencoff again, Marta?" he asked. "Boris is at the Wilkensons' this week. If he knows you are at Langdon Knoll, he will be over—unless we head him off."

"As a man, Boris has never meant anything to me. Adam should know that by this time," Marta replied. "But, of course, as a director Lesencoff is priceless."

"If the storm holds off we'll have Adam's own explanation in less than 20 minutes," Sidney commented cheerfully. "When he invited you up for the week-end, why didn't you ask what was wrong?"

"If you mean why didn't I ask when he telephoned the invitation—Togi did the telephoning for him."

"Are you sure he didn't call himself while you were out? Maids have forgotten messages before this," Sidney puzzled.

Marta swallowed nervously. "Not Statia, under the circumstances," she said. "I'd never have accepted the invitation, if a sixth sense hadn't told me to. Before Adam left for this hunt I asked him to give it up. He has had too many closeups with death in the jungle.

"It worried me. On the last hunt, in India, a tiger mangled his arm. If Hugh hadn't been along with his cool nerve and instant aim, it would have been all over. You must have heard the story?"

Braitwood nodded. "The Langdons have always hunted," he said. "I can't imagine them deprived of the excitement."

"I realize that," Marta sighed. "It has even occurred to me that Adam might have been disfigured in another accident and that he dreads meeting us but knows he must."

"Hardly that," Sidney argued. "Adam is not the man to shock his friends without preparation."

Apparently reassured, she did not pursue the idea, and they drove on in silence.

Why has Marta never married Adam Langdon? Sidney asked himself the question for the hundredth time. It would have been an ideal match and he knew that Langdon had always wanted it. Marta had always refused, yet she had held Adam's friendship to the exclusion of other women. Probably she thought a closer tie would injure her profession.

Hardly had they drawn up under the porte-cochere of the rambling old stone house Langdon's grandfather had built as a retreat for an all but insane wife, when the storm broke in full fury. Rain beat against the car and wind whipped their clothing about them as they ran across the veranda to the door.

It seemed to Sidney that they waited a long time for admittance. He had time to observe that the garden had been neglected and that dead leaves covered the veranda. Finally they heard the patter of soft feet and Togi, the Japanese valet, admitted them. The man appeared nervous.

"You have bad trip in storm?" he smirked. "Come upstairs to rooms, please. Change clothes or catch cold. I bling cocktails."

"Tell Mr. Langdon we are here, Togi," Marta directed. "We'll find our own way to our rooms."

The valet's smile became strained. "Mr. Langdon has not yet return from drive, Miss Hempfield. "Storm delay, I think. I bling cocktails."

A new anxiety leaped into Marta's eyes and she turned toward the room she had always occupied on former visits, a large suite over the drawing room.

"Scuse, please, Miss Hempfield," Togi stammered. "Mr. Langdon say he like you have nice, large room on third floor. I show."

Imperiously Marta turned. "I prefer this room," she said. "Tell Mr. Langdon we are here, as soon as he comes in."

Before the lawyer could make a suggestion, Marta had flung open the door of her old room. It was a beautiful room. It had been furnished especially to flatter her tall beauty, but now a pair of small mules that could never have fitted her lay on one of the chairs. On the dressing table was a gold-backed toilet set with a monogram that was not hers.

For an instant Sidney thought she might faint. Whenever afterwards he caught the fragrance that had permeated that room, he was to see her face as it looked then, lips shriveled under their coral lacquering, nostrils pinched, eyes tragic. He knew then that however often she had refused to marry Adam Langdon, she loved him with all her heart.

"What about those cocktails, Togi?" he said.

When the soft steps of the valet had died out of hearing, Sidney turned to Marta. "You've played difficult parts before, Marta. Are you equal to this one until we get out of here?" he asked.

"I can't think clearly. It is all so out of character for Adam," Marta murmured. "Give me a moment and—I'll be equal to any part."

Togi stood by their side. Hands shaking, he served them.

"Careful, Togi," Marta was smiling. "To whom has Mr. Langdon given my old room?"

KEEPER OF BODY IN WAX IS FREED

KEY WEST, Fla., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Karl Tanzler Van Cosel gained his liberty today after a week spent in jail while police investigated the strange love that impelled him to keep a young woman's body in his bedroom for seven years.

He faces prosecution in Monroe county criminal court at a term beginning November 11 for "wantonly and maliciously" disturbing the contents of a tomb. He has been declared legally sane.

Property bond of $1,000 was provided by Joseph Zorsky, tourist camp proprietor once befriended by Van Cosel, and Benjamin Fernandez, barbecue stand operator whom he did not know.

As soon as he was released, Van Cosel went back to the abandoned warehouse on the outskirts of this island community where he took the dead body of his young love and preserved it in wax.

Friends said they would seek to keep the elderly German X-ray technician away from the shack that holds so many memories for him and would find him a home elsewhere.

It was recently announced that the WPA would immediately expend $7,872,037 for national defense airport facilities for the army and navy.

COMMERCIAL INDUSTRIAL and BUILDING DIGEST

Firestone Auto Supply To Offer Trucking Companies New Service

New State Law On Heavy Load Is Easily Solved

The Firestone Auto Supply and Service Store, 300 North Third, wishes to offer their assistance to all truck operators who have any wheel or spacing problems. New state laws soon to go into effect are going to necessitate many of the larger truck operators replacing their present tire equipment with newer and larger sizes. In many instances these tires will have to be mounted on larger wheels, thus creating space problems.

Unless the truckers are definitely sure of the load that they are carrying and the weight of the truck, it is quite necessary for the truck to be weighed and their load to be analyzed so as to arrive at the proper size tire to equip the truck according to the new Louisiana laws. Firestone has an up-to-date set of tire weighing scales with which they can weigh your truck on the road with a load on it, thus eliminating much of the trouble and confusion that would often arise in trying to analyze a load without such equipment. These scales are recognized by the Louisiana State Police as being accurate and suitable to use for the above purposes. Firestone will be glad to arrange to have men weigh and analyze the trucks of any local company. A telephone or a personal call will bring one of Firestone's truck tire experts to your place anytime that you might want him.

In addition to being able to weigh trucks, Firestone also has complete and detailed information, furnished by the Budd Wheel Company, with which they are able to tell just what size spacing you will need and size wheel you will need to give you the maximum in carrying capacity and tire economy.

You will find that Firestone carries a complete stock of wheels, spacing, extra studs and nuts. In fact all the things necessary in making truck tire change-overs. In addition to wheels and other equipment mentioned above, you will find at Firestone a truck tire that will give you the maximum mile per dollar service for any truck, from the smallest one-half ton pickup truck to the largest truck in operation in this part of the country. The local Firestone store is proud of the service they feel they can render and wish to extend their offer to all operators of commercial trucks.

FIRESTONE'S TRUCK WEIGHING SCALES

Firestone has an up-to-date set of truck weighing scales, as shown above, which they can weigh your truck on the road with a load in it, thus eliminating confusion that might arise without such equipment.

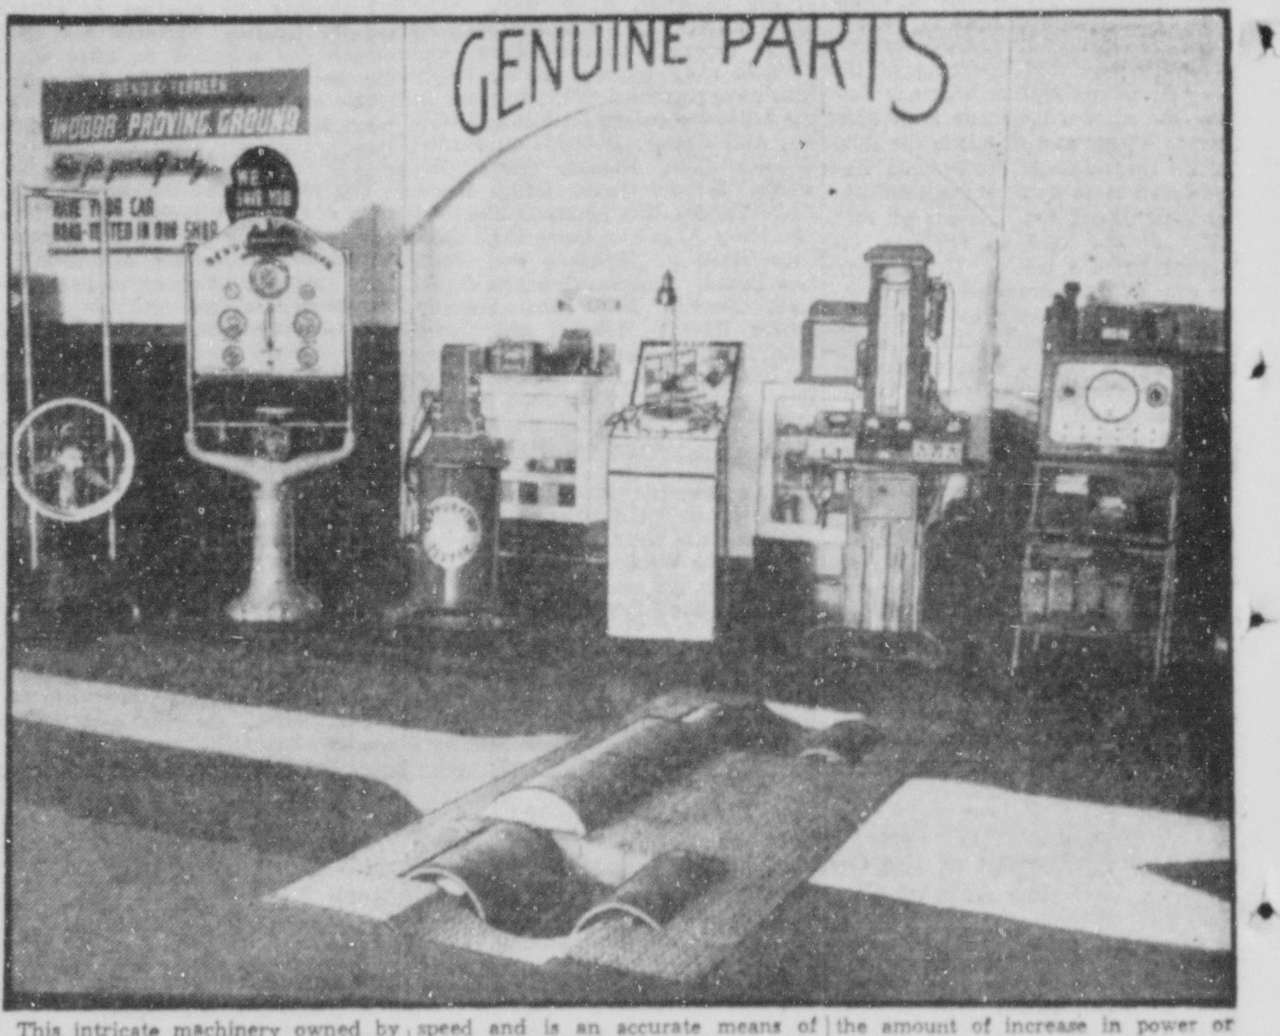
UNITED ELECTRIC PROVING GROUND



This intricate machinery owned by the United Electric Service, Inc., allows you to make a road test without a road. The dynometer is equipped to give your car every test that you could possibly give it on a road. It is an indoor proving ground. It permits whoever is making the test to climb over, under and all around the car while it is actually in motion, operating under any kind of load at any speed and is an accurate means of testing and adjusting the various parts.

In addition to this, the operators are able to prove to the customer whether or not the power and economy of the vehicle is up to average by comparison with the set of power and economy averages furnished for the later popular model car. Then too, if your car is not up to average, you can predict the amount of increase in power or economy you can expect if you allow United Electric Service to make the necessary repairs and tune it up.

In short, with the dynometer, United Electric proves to their customers whether or not his car is up to the average performance for his particular use. Get your automobile checked up at the United Electric Service at 308 North Third street.

Many Experts Attended Monroe Beauty School

Students Find Employment Easily After Their Graduation

Since the opening of the Monroe Beauty School, 315 Harrison street, some ten or twelve years ago, more than 700 students have graduated, most of them to become experts in their profession.

Myrtis R. Dodd, proprietor, states that her school is one of the oldest and largest in Monroe and has more graduate pupils who own and operate their own shops than any other school in North Louisiana.

"Although we feature the latest methods in beauty culture and use the most modern equipment and supplies, we are continually seeking newer and better ways to train and teach our pupils," she said.

Along with every phase of beauty culture, shop management and personality is taught by strict adherence to a sound policy made years ago by the greatest experts in the profession. One of the greatest advantages of attending the Monroe Beauty school is that the graduated pupil has an opportunity to obtain experience by working in the beauty shop operating in another part of the building in connection with the school. Every graduated student receives full payment for all the work they do.

The Monroe Beauty School is a modern school and solicits all who desire to make beauty culture their profession strictly on this basis.

'Brigham Young' Opens Engagement At Paramount Today

Beautiful as the northern summer . . . dangerous as the northern winter. . . . Daring to lead two brave men down the maddening trail of her untamed heart; Patricia Morison in above scene is co-starred with Ray Milland and Akim Tamiroff in "Untamed," a drama playing Wednesday at the Capitol theater.

Ann Sothern is back again as Maisie, the stranded showgirl, in "Gold Rush Maisie," feature attraction showing Thursday at the Capitol theater, with Lee Bowman playing the male lead as a hard-to-get rancher. Also prominent in the cast are Slim Summerville, and Virginia Weidler.

"The Golden Fleecing," story of uproariously funny adventures, with Lew Ayres as a timid clerk thrown in with a gang of big-city racketeers, will provide gales of laughter at the Capitol theater where the new picture is showing today only.

One of the most stirring chapters in America's history . . . the epic of the Mormons . . . is brought to life in the production of "Brigham Young, Frontiersman," heralded as the great American motion picture. Plays today, Monday and Tuesday at the Paramount theater. It has Tyrone Power in the starring role. Linda Darnell appears opposite him while Dean Jagger is seen as Brigham Young. Others in the cast are John Carradine, Brian Donlevy, Jane Darwell and Mary Astor.

She told him he'd get a kick out of marriage . . . and he did! "I Want a Divorce," playing Friday and Saturday at the Paramount theater, is the funniest comedy ever to romp across the screen. It's a hilarious yarn about two newlyweds who can't get along with each other until they find out they can't get along without each other.

There's a strange and wonderful story of a romance born between dusk and dawn . . . between heartbreak and happiness . . . in the thrilling drama "Angels Over Broadway," which plays Wednesday and Thursday at the Paramount theater with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Rita Hayworth in the leading roles. Also prominent in the cast are Thomas Mitchell and John Qualen.

'The Golden Fleecing' At Capitol Now

Lew Ayres And Rita Johnson Co-Starred In New Comedy-Melodrama

WHEN Lew Ayres troubles trouble, trouble troubles Lew Ayres with hilarious results in "The Golden Fleecing," hilarious adventure of a timid office clerk among gangsters in a big city, coming today to the Capitol theater.

Ayres, as the clerk, is spurred to ambition by his sweetheart, played by Rita Johnson, sells a big insurance policy, gets a raise in salary, then discovers that his customer is a fugitive racketeer, liable to be "rubbed out" at any minute. To save his job he has to trail the racketeer. Then follow comical adventures which lead him into jails, into trouble with menacing gangsters, a climb along the seventh-story ledge of an office building, and other laughable mishaps and experiences.

One of the principal comedy characters is played by Leon Errol, of "rubber legs" fame, who is seen as Uncle Waldo, former vaudevillian who insists on playing his xylophone to everyone he meets and singing a ditty of his own concoction, "March, March, March, the Boys Are Tramping."

Ayres has some thrills among the fun. He proves himself a boxer by knocking out Nat Pendleton, rescues Miss Johnson from racketeers and defies the gangster czar in his den. Between these and the love story the structure is entirely one of laughs.

Brazil is the only Portuguese speaking country in South America.

CALCASIEU GETS FUNDS BACK FROM GAMBLERS

LAKE CHARLES, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The expensive, summer-long session of a Calcasieu parish grand jury turned out today to have been a profitable enterprise, as fines totaling $9,000 were collected from guilty-pleading gamblers indicted by the investigating body.

The heaviest penalty fell on T. R. (Bat) Gormly, operator of a roadside night club and a bar in downtown Lake Charles, who was assessed a toal of $2,000 in fines after he pleaded guilty to operating gambling establishments in both places.

HITS BORDER TRADE

CALEXICO, Calif.—(AP)—Strict regulation of aliens is a headache to this American shopping center for a large Mexican trade.

Merchants said that when the visa system for visiting Mexicans was instituted July 1 business slumped 65 to 80 per cent.

Federal officials have indicated that the old system of issuing "crossing cards" to some 15,000 Mexicans will be restored shortly.

Power And Darnell In New Film

Fine Cast Features Spectacular Picture Of Early Days In West

THE epic and heroic Mormon trek along a trail of almost insurmountable odds to ultimate freedom is one of the most impressive chapters in the growth of America. Because of the valiant battle they fought to find a place where they could live as they believed, much has been written about them and their leader, Brigham Young. But it remained for Darryl F. Zanuck, production chief for 20th Century-Fox, to realize the screen potentialities of such a colorful subject. Zanuck, who has recreated many outstanding characters and events for the screen, saw in Brigham Young and his people a stirring story—and decided to bring it to life. The famous Louis Bromfield was assigned to write the story for the production of "Brigham Young," which comes today to the Paramount theater.

Steel-willed, a born leader, Brigham Young organized one of the most astounding mass migrations in history; 3,000 prairie schooners, 30,000 livestock . . a whole, orderly civilization uprooted . . . 20,000 pioneers went on the move toward new frontiers. Only the will of one man held them together—that of Brigham Young, who was to have 27 wives, build one of the world's famous cities and found a great state.

The first year at Salt Lake was one of desperate privation. Then, as if the hardships they had endured were not enough, millions of crickets swarmed out of the canyons and attacked their fields. The Mormons, realizing that they could never survive another winter of starvation, dug ditches, set fires and strove mightily to destroy the new enemy.

Brigham Young led the Mormons in prayer! Soon the sky was blackened with thousands of sea gulls, sweeping in five hundred miles from the Pacific ocean to destroy the crickets and preserve the pioneers' food supply.

Tyrone Power was given the important role of Jonathan Kent, Mormon scout in "Brigham Young." Opposite him is beautiful Linda Darnell as "the outsider." Twice denied success in Hollywood, Dean Jagger had returned to the New York stage where he had first made his mark. Last season he portrayed Jesse James in the stage hit, "Missouri Legend." Rugged, two-fisted, a capable actor, Jagger seemed ideal for the role of the Mormon leader, and got it.

"Brigham Young" has an impressive list of featured players including Brian Donlevy, Jane Darwell, John Carradine, Mary Astor, Vincent Price, Jean Rogers and Ann Todd. Henry Hathaway directed the film from a screen play by Lamar Trotti. Kenneth Macgowan was associate producer.

BORN TO WORK

NO SILVER SPOON IN HIS MOUTH

SOMEWHERE, along the road we're all traveling, Wendell Willkie has lived your life and dreamed your dreams.

He has done the things that you have done. He wasn't born with a silver spoon in his mouth. Willkie was born to work. He had only his hands, his heart and his head. And with them he worked his own way to the top.

He wants for America just the same things that you want. He has proved, on every job, his ability to get the job done.

In an hour of need, America has always come forward with a man of strength and vision—a man who can see a complex problem simply, and has the God-given sense to find a simple answer.

That is Wendell Willkie.

He is ready and prepared. Life has fitted him for the job ahead.

Wendell Willkie is with, for and of the people.

He did not initiate the "Willkie-for-President" movement. In all truth, a great destiny sought him. His nomination was the people's doing, not his.

The cry for Willkie comes from deep in America's heart. We invite you, Americans, to join in support of a man who will keep America as we want it to be—free of dictatorships—safe, secure, prosperous for all who are here today—and for our children who will come after us.

America Needs Willkie

An American President in the Making

—Wendell Willkie was born in Elwood, Indiana, a small Middle West city, in 1892.

—He is one of six children, and studied in the Elwood grade and high schools. He worked his way through college—Indiana University.

—During summer vacations he worked—at all kinds of jobs: He was a barker for a tent hotel in South Dakota—a migrant laborer in California—a harvest hand in Minnesota—a laborer in the oil fields of Texas.

—Graduated from college, he went to Coffeyville, Kansas, where he taught school for a year—and likewise coached the high school track team.

—He then went to law school in Indiana and was graduated with high honors. He was admitted to the bar, went back to Elwood to practice law with his father.

—On the day the United States declared war he enlisted—soon thereafter married Edith Wilk, who was employed in the Elwood Public Library.

—He served in France with the AEF—and came home a captain of field artillery.

—He practiced law in Elwood, then in Akron, Ohio. There, later, his record led to employment by the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.

—In Akron he became a partner in the firm of Mather & Nesbitt and had his first experience in the affairs of public utilities.

—His success here gained the attention of executives of the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation. In 1933 he was made president of this business.

—He owns five farms and operates them at a profit.

—Immediately following his nomination for the Presidency of the United States, he resigned the presidency of Commonwealth and Southern and also his directorships in eight other corporations—as a matter of good public policy. But he still owns and operates his farms.

FLAMING SWORDS
TARZAN CARRIED TANNY AND LEECIA TO THE STREET, THEN ON THROUGH THE CITY, AND OVER THE WALL.
THEY SPED RAPIDLY ACROSS THE PLATEAU WHICH WAS A NO-MAN'S LAND BETWEEN THE SEA PEOPLE AND THE FIRE PEOPLE.
BUT A LOOKOUT SPIED THEM FROM A WATCHTOWER, AND SIGNALED TO A FRONTIER PATROL.
THE FUGITIVES BEGAN A LOSING RACE, FOR LEECIA WAS NOT SO FLEET OF FOOT.
SUDDENLY, AHEAD OF THEM FLASHED SMALL LIGHTS, WHICH GREW STRANGELY INTO SLIVERS OF FLAME.
PRINCE TANNY CRIED OUT JOYOUSLY: "MY PEOPLE--- WARRIORS OF THE FLAMING SWORD!"
UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE, Inc.
THE SWORDS, COVERED WITH BURNING RESIN, WERE INDEED STREAKS OF FIRE, DESIGNED TO TERRIFY THE FOE.
WHILE SOME OF THE SWORDSMEN RAN TO ENGAGE THE ENEMY PATROL, THE OTHERS SURROUNDED THE FUGITIVE TRIO.
"FINE FOOD FOR BAAL-YEK, GOD OF THE FIERY MOUNTAIN," THE CAPTAIN OBSERVED.
"BUT I AM TANNY, YOUR CROWN PRINCE, AND THESE ARE MY FRIENDS!" THE BOY CRIED. "TAKE ME TO MY FATHER."
"TOWRIT, THE CRUEL, HAS SLAIN YOUR FATHER AND SEIZED THE THRONE," THE CAPTAIN OBSERVED.
"AND TOWRIT WANTS NO RIVALS," ONE WARRIOR ADDED: "IT'S THE VOLCANO FOR YOU, BOY--- AND YOUR FRIENDS!"
